REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, FEBRUARY 24, 1894.

THE announcement in the early part of last week that the bridge terminal controversy had been settled in favor of the High street station was received with general satisfaction. That this decision was prompted by the need of economy in municipal expenditures makes it none the less praiseworthy. The Bridge Trustees never had a logical excuse for attempting to move the station beyond High street. Half the money that it would cost to remove the station to more pleasing and attractive surroundings would transform the ruins around the High street terminal into a setting of artistic and harmonious design, and make the approaches to the bridge worthy of a city of the wealth and importance of Brooklyn. There ought now to be no time wasted in finishing the bridge approaches, or in reconstructing and embellishing the surrounding properties.

THE Democrats in Congress seem to be muddled over the eyes by the mistakes they are making, else they could not be unaware of the significant fact that most of the Northern journals which supported their canvass are opposing the proposed tax on incomes. The South and West may contain many people who from a mistaken belief that it finds a way to make the rich of the East, whose wealth they of course ridiculously exaggerated, contribute to the public burdens proportionately more than the poorer citizens, desire to see the bill become a law. But in the North and East it is hard to find any one outside of ultra-administrationists who have a good word to say for it. Theoretically, there is justice in the idea of a tax equally administered and based on incomes, but the practical considerations fill the mind with horror. For example, should an income tax bill become a law, how pleasant would be the experiences of the capitalist, merchant or manufacturer of New York City in the hands of an inquisitorial commission appointed out of any purely professional political organization. No doubt it would be a very great thing for the political organizations, but to the commercial community the idea is intolerable. It is generally supposed, erroneously no doubt very often, that legislation is for the benefit and in fulfillment of the will of the great majority of the people and not for the political organization. From that point of view it is quite impossible to understand what the administration expects to gain by persisting in this obnoxious measure. There are Republicans who support the bill under the impression that they are letting out rope for their political opponents to hang themselves with. This may be good politics from the low view of the politician, but it is not statesmanship. Unfortunately for the people of this country, the men who go to Washington, presumably to represent them, soon forget why they went and by whom they were sent and become absorbed in politics as a game, which they play while the public interest suffers.

IT is, of course, as certain as anything can be that the administration will suffer a severe defeat for their policy. Only remarkable good luck can save them. We are not of those people who believe that anything done at Washington plays a very effective part in the making or unmaking of the prosperity of the country; but with the public, whose notions are founded on much newspaper reading, the doings of a parcel of politicians, working mainly for political ends, is of quite as much consequence in national history as the immense natural resources of the country and the keen activity of our people. Thus, in a sense, all our affairs are made to revolve around the Capitol, and when business goes wrong with us it is, of course, because the set of political schemers at Washington have committed some trivial act that has thrown the entire commercial machinery of seventy millions of people out of gear. On the other hand, to round up this intelligent conception, when things drift our way and Nature smiles on us and gives us large crops, when foreigners lend us money and buy our goods, and we all act wisely and industriously, the happy result is mainly due (or at least is credited to), the political "influoence" of the party in power.

SO, for lack of understanding of the obscure causes which really produce the periodical depressions in business which all nations suffer, the people of the United States have decided that the Democratic administration is responsible for the present bad times. Cleveland did not act quick enough in dealing with the Silver Question; he contemplates reducing the tariff duties a few per cent, to an average rate which will still be the highest obstruction to commerce in the world; he proposes an income tax; he is at war with his party. Isn't it plain as plain as can be (to the average mind) that it is these facts that have produced the existing depression? There can be no doubt that if an election were held to-morrow the Democratic party would be so deeply snowed under that it would require no ordinary thaw to reveal its remains. Consequently, as we have said, it is very "poor politics" that Cleveland and his friends are playing. It would be far better for the Democrats to leave the tariff question alone, and refrain from endeavoring to thrust upon the country an income tax which from the practical standpoint is certainly a very obnoxious measure. If they pursue the course they are on, the only thing that can save them is good luck. There are signs that the financial condition of the country is improving and it may be that before the people are called upon to pronounce judgment business will have revived. Everybody will then be smiling, and of course the intelligent voter will be told, and hundreds of thousands of them will actually believe, that the Wilson Bill or some other legislative nostrum was the beneficent cause of it all. We shall then all worship Cleveland's "wisdom" and his "indomitable will" that forced us to take the medicine he prescribed for us. Just as at present he is merely a pig-headed chump. Three years, however, is time enough to apotheosize even a big pig-head chump, if only luck favors him. And in Cleveland's case it may.

IT is stated by an architect as a remarkable fact in his own experience that a building costing $11,500 to build in New York City, can be erected here for $10,000, and that the indicated difference in cost will hold true year in and year out. Why is this so?

Building Trade Notes—Brooklyn.

SPECIALISTS IN VAULT LIGHT WORK.

Among the specialists in structural work there are few who are as indispensable as the makers of vault, area, sidewalk and roof lights, coal covers and iron doors. The system of construction for business uses that would dispense with these adjuncts would have to be entirely different from that which prevails here. Next thing to having them is the necessity of having them perfect. In that sense it is well to know that Geo. Whaley & Co., of No. 73 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, are manufacturers who have built up an extensive establishment on their reputation for the best work and the lowest prices. They are in position to handle the largest contracts, and on the shortest notice.

Builders—Brooklyn.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS. The very severe storms of snow, rain and wind occurring since last writing have seriously interfered with building operations and have helped continue the inactivity in the building material market. Values have not suffered because of the enforced condition, and the usual large quantity of brick being daily offered has been very slightly reduced. The prices are maintained owing to the organization preferring to market the old stock at what they consider very easy figures for the buyers rather than to let go all restraint, and from the low prices which would probably result cause a revulsion in the minds of manufacturers and bring about perhaps a much worse condition of affairs. The manufacturers, it is said, are now engaged at their meetings in considering how they can successfully shorten the credits which they give on sales. At time of writing no definite information could be obtained as to their desires or intentions in the matter.

CEMENT.—Since the opening of the year the general line of business in cements has been moderate and unimportant. Domestic grades sold to some extent from yard, but dealers generally were well supplied, and there has been no occasion to call upon first hand supplies. Foreign grades secured some few odd orders, but were also working in narrow unsatisfactory lines, and complaint is the most common form of report down to date. Advices from the interior are not particularly encouraging, and the stocks held there will probably meet all requirements for some time to come. There has been some arrivals from time to time but much behind the average of last year, and the stock coming to hand is generally understood to have been regular brands coming out under natural order of consignment. It is believed the low grade Belgian goods will be less pleaty this season. For all grades prices have a more or less nominal basis at the moment.

GLASS.—The market for domestic cylinder continues slow and unsatisfactory and neither the manufacturer or the jobber can secure attention from buyers other than those who may be forced into negotiation through some urgent necessity. Retailers' and consumers' supplies are limited, however, and when business finds stimulus it is likely to be of quite lively character. Foreign grades are dull and likely to remain so until after the settlement of the tariff question. Plate glass has some demand, but barely up to the hopes of manufacturers. Quotations for all kinds of glass are for the time being made upon an entirely nominal basis.

HARDWARE. There has of late been some signs of improvement in the general line of demand for staple hardware, and in the gain builders' specialties participate to a fair extent. The assortment selected is largely composed of standard makes, but includes a good proportion of high quality, indicating possibly the class of work for which preparations are being made. Much irregularity in value continues, and about the only quotations are those specially made to suit the negotiations immediately in hand.

LUMBER.—There is a natural and probably commendable tendency to speak as cheerfully of the situation as possible and every promising feature is made the most of, but the actual gain in business accomplished is really comparatively small. Dealers who operate largely with builders find more or less inquiry for stock, but have not consented to let matters get beyond that line as a rule in view of a determination to use extra caution in the selection of custom. This is the natural sequence of late general experiences in the bodies financial and commercial, and in the building division of trade has been intensified by the difficulties of prominent speculative builders, previously noted. The leading manufacturing interests are also disposed to move in moderate circumspect line of investment and, so far as possible, confine investment to parcels of necessity only. Nevertheless, while the accrued gain to business on the consuming outlet is of small proportions, expectations of healthy expansion are not only reasonable, but likely to be realized, especially in the way of handling stuff for building purposes. Next month is generally the period when certain of our employers' associations meet representatives of the labor unions and settle upon wages for the ensuing working season, and after that period contracts for supplies are likely to be determined upon with greater freedom. Structural material of all kinds never was cheaper on the average, there is plenty of money seeking just the solid investment a judicious improvement of real estate affords and there are plenty of builders who, when ready to commence operations, will be able to furnish all the security required to overcome the objections raised by dealers, which may in some cases be a little strained. Certainly affairs would seem to have passed their worst stage and any change at all must be for the better, with evidence that just a little more mutual confidence would fairly start the reaction.

For various reasons we have an idea that the export trade is likely to be more satisfactory this season. Already some fair demonstrations have been received from the West India lines of custom; in a quiet way considerable stock sells from time to time on Central American orders; the River Platte trade afford some satisfactory custom, and there should be a more or less liberal deal with Brazil, if the political disturbances of that country are settled as now generally hoped for. Private letters recently received state that a great deal of damage has befallen property in Rio Janeiro harbor and at other points where bombardments and other forms of hostility have been carried on during the "war," and predicting a first-rate market

A CONTINUED and increased improvement in trade and financial circles may be noticed this week, due in a large measure apparently to the hope that the difference existing between the Senate and House on the Wilson Bill may lead to the abandonment of tariff legislation for a time atleast. The passage of the Bland substitute silver inflation bill has not been without effect, although the President is relied upon to veto it as a violation of the principle under which the purchasing clause of the Silver Act of 1890 was repealed if ever that measure reaches his hands, which from all accounts there is a considerable probability of its doing. This bill, as it passed the House, not only gives a ridiculous money value to the silver in the Treasury, but also makes the notes issued for its purchase redeemable by a part only of the bullion they were issued to pay for. In this way it is sought to give the government a profit of over fifty-five millions of dollars. The result has been to expedite if not cause gold shipments, and to prove what has been said before here, that if foreign capital is to be retained in this country, there will have to be found a way to lessen the opportunities for irresponsible currency theorists coming into the great prominence and having the seeming importance that they now do. The outward movement of gold is never favorable to stock exchange quotations. Attention is attracted to the radical reductions in the operating cost of the great railroads in January and people are asking, if they can be operated at such a low percentage of cost, have not stockholders hitherto been defrauded? The explanation no doubt is that such extensive economies as have been instituted can only endure for a short time and are intended only to bridge over a period of poor business, which the railroad managers hope will not last much longer. There is no do doubt whatever that the proportion of cost of operating will increase and that soon, whether business does or not. In general trade there is the same conservatism on the part of buyers as has characterised them for some time, though mitigated enough to lead to the hope that a better demand is growing up at least in the lines of necessaries. This feeling is noticed in the boot and shoe, the wool and the cotton goods trades. The great furnaces have been large buyers of ores recently, though at low prices, and have thereby created a prospect of renewed activity in the iron trade in the near future.

UNDOUBTEDLY the question of greatest commercial importance discussed in Europe to-day is the treaty between Germany and Russia. Notwithstanding the announcement by the Emperor William that the treaty is a political necessity, the agrarian party is fighting its confirmation in the Reichstag tooth and nail. Outside, trading and commercial bodies all over the Empire have taken the matter up, the manufacturer being on one side and the farmer on the other. There is a belief that should the treaty be rejected by the Reichstag a dissolution would follow and the appeal to the country would result in a triumph for the government, just as the same procedure did in the matter of the Army Bill a year or more ago. The failure of the treaty, taken in connection with the imperial statement, would probably be very mischievous. The probabilities favoring confirmation of the treaty, however, the business of Germany has improved somewhat and the shares of banks and manufacturing companies, particularly those of the latter connected with the iron trade have gone up. The commission appointed to consider the ways and means to rehabilitate silver is not expected to produce much good, the opinion being so general that an effective solution of the silver question is only possible through international agreement, the impossibility of which is shewn by the recent official announcement that England had no intention of proposing the reassembling of the monetary conference seeing no advantage therein. English financial papers are congratulating the trading community they serve on the results of their analysis of the trade returns for 1893. The differences in prices being taken into account the imports of foreign goods for home consumption were only 1.42 per cent less than in the previous year and the exports of British goods only 2.10 per cent less. This result, in spite of the malign influences of the collapse in Australia, the currency troubles on this side of the Atlantic and the strikes and other impediments to business at home, is naturally considered very satisfactory. Current reports of railroad earnings also show that business is picking up slowly. There is no break in the dullness of financial affairs in Paris, though the arrest of Baron de Soubeyan, the chairman of the collapsed Banque d'Escompte, affords an interesting topic of conversation. This gentleman was one of those financiers, apparently, who try to carry too many concerns at once, or rather try to make several concerns carry each other, and has consequently come to the ground under circumstances sufficiently suspicious to demand his arrest and placing under bail. The native population of France diminished by 20,041 in 1892 according to the recent returns; this is the third year in succession that there has been a decrease. The demand of Hungary for a note bank independent of the Austro-Hungarian Bank is being resisted; a ministerial explanation of the refusal contained the statement that if anything rather too much credit had been given to Hungary and it might lead to dangerous speculation. Like their fellows in Germany, Hungarian agriculturists are opposing the conclusion of custom treaties with neighboring powers where any concessions from the present regulations for the import of cereals and live stock are contemplated. Vienna seems to be full of unemployed poor, among whom there are said to be daily suicides. One of the works of relief contemplated is the removal of the great barracks standing in the centre of the city, a relic of the time when the monarch feared the population of the capital. Italy's endeavors to relieve itself from bankruptcy do not meet with much success. The only resource seems to lie in additional taxation, and that naturally meets with opposition on all sides. The mere attempt, however, to bring order into its finances has put up the price of Italian rente in the foreign markets. In India natives and Indian born Europeans join in condemning the financial policy of the English Government towards India, but in Calcutta and Bengal opinions have been expressed adverse to the reopening the mints to silver. The solution of the Indian part of the silver difficulty is still far away. While there is a great deal of protest, there appears to be no suggestion of the way in which the government can remove the evils complained of. The government proposes to meet the deficit by imposing a new 5 per cent tax on imports, except cottons, besides doubling the tax on petroleum. Whether this includes silver is not stated, but from the wording of the dispatch bringing this news it may be presumed that it does.

EFFECTIVE work has been done at Washington on behalf of West Side property-owners in securing amendments to the New York and New Jersey Bridge bill, now undergoing examination by the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce of the House of Representatives. In the first place, instead of the Bridge Company being free to locate their eastern approach on a wide line reaching as far up as 71st street, as was contemplated by the bill as introduced, the committee has decided that this approach shall not be higher than 69th street nor lower than 59th street but at some suitable place between those two points, to be decided upon by the Secretary of War after examination. Should the bill become a law an endeavor will be made on the part of interested property-owners to have the choice fixed on 60th street, and failing that, on 65th street, as that would throw the approaches into the tenement district, where the least amount of damage can be done. The bill provided that two hundred and fifty thousand dollars should be spent the first year and a million dollars each year thereafter. This provision has been amended in one very important particular, namely, by the insertion of the words "in money" after the statement of each sum. This is better than the original provision, though not all that can be wished as a proof of the good faith of the people acquiring the charter. At the first view it does appear that a sufficient guarantee for the performance of the work would be obtained if a quarter of a million of dollars were spent on it with a forfeiture following if a million dollars are not expended each year thereafter, yet if the comparatively small sum required to be spent in the first year is put into the work it would probably be easy for the promoters to gain an extension of time if they were not able to raise the next required sum for a year or two. Moreover, once any considerable sum were spent in actual work Congress would be loth and perhaps would find it difficult to confiscate the work so created. No doubt people could be found who would supply the money for the first year's requirements in order to hold so valuable a franchise as a speculation lation from year to year under an expected indulgence of Congress until they could find a purchaser. Consequently to insure a reasonably rapid progress of the work and to prevent such speculative delays the money expenditure in the first instance should be larger, at least a million of dollars. Another important amendment in Committee is a change of phraseology from one that might be taken to mean that connecting railroads could build independent approaches to the bridge to one that restricts connection to the appreaches of the bridge itself. These amendments improve the aspect of the bill to the property-owners' view very much, but of course they are not final. The bill has still to go through the House and the Conference Committee, in either of which bodies the advantages that have been gained in the House Committee may be lost again, so that vigilance is still necessary on the part of the representatives of the commercial and property interests in this city in order that both the House and Senate may be kept informed of what is necessary to their protection.

The Metropolitan Club.

NEW YORK is getting bigger every year, but it is not yet so big that an organization which before it had any local habitation came to be known as the Millionaires' Club can move into a new club-house on the avenue without becoming the talk of the town for a day or two. The house into which the Metropolitan Club has moved is, moreover, of so stunning and surprising a kind that it is quite sure of being at least a nine days' wonder.

One of the surprises is the contrast that the exterior offers to the interior, for which it does not in the least prepare the visitor. The outside, indeed, has nothing to talk about and as little to look at as could possibly be furnished by so big a building, all in white marble. It is merely a great box and as nearly devoid of architecture as a factory. It shows no composition except in the proportioning of the stories to each other, no features and no detail, except that of the balconies and the cornice, and this is not noticeable or memorable. The one exterior feature is the gateway at the east end and this is a monument all by itself and not a feature of the building. The palace differs from a factory in that it has more wall and less window and that it is built of costly material.

Extreme plainness is by no means the worst characteristic a new building in 5th avenue can have. It is in fact a distinction, and the easiest and most obvious distinction. When one sees a millionaire's club-house that is marked by extreme plainness, and about which, architecturally, there is really nothing to be said, he is inclined to congratulate the millionaires. If they have built themselves a lordly pleasure house, wherein at ease to dwell, they have shown, he is inclined to say, good sense and good taste in abstaining from an ostentation that would excite envy. They require to be "on the avenue" because that is the appropriate quarter for a fashionable club-house, and for the better reason that the avenue opposite the Park gives the pleasantest look out of any place in town that is equally accessible, and a millionaire's club is necessarily a "window club." But having got a site on the avenue and put up an enormous house because they needed an enormous house, they have made it as plain as possible that they may not seem to flaunt their riches in our faces, nor needlessly to provoke the Anarchist.

This is all very well, and at any rate it is quite intelligible, only, in that case, why white marble? Why make as inconspicuous a design as possible, and execute it in as conspicuous a material as possible? In brownstone the club-house would really have had as retiring an aspect as was possible to its dimensions. In marble it collars the eye and provokes the Anarchist from afar. When one passes the door, however, the plainness promptly disappears, except in the big hall, which is a kind of middle term between the prim and demure aspect of the outside, and the riot and debauchery of the decoration. The room has one very good feature, in the colonnade at the top of it, two stories up. But a hall of these dimensions does not explain itself in a club, except as a connecting link. It might, indeed, be explained in an evening stock exchange, which was meant to supplant the Windsor and the Fifth Avenue and the other former evening resorts of the operator in exciting times, and it would be an excellent place for the clubmen to assemble and read bulletins of elections. It seems to need a fringe of tickers, and dropping rivulets of tape. But it is a striking piece of architecture, and about the only example of that art in the club, apart from decoration, unless we except the corridor that leads into the main dining-room, a very justly-proportioned and well-detailed piece of work.

Everywhere else we lose sight of the architect, who is effaced by the decorator. In any of the big rooms it is quite impossible to get away from the decorator, or to see anything else than his decorations, so swaggering and insistent and noisy they are. Certainly the main rooms of the Metropolitan Club are the loudest works of art that have ever been presented to an astonished American public. If the millionaires are shy of flaunting their millions in the face of the public, they are not in the least backward about flaunting them in each other's face, and really wallowing in their common wealth. The contrast between the severe outside and the profuse and barbaric and overloaded interior seems to have been deliberately planned. Perhaps it was suggested by a like contrast between the outsides and the insides of some Italian palaces, but in that case, in the famous case of the Pitti, the architecture and the decoration were a century apart, and appealed not only to a different kind of man, or to different sides of the same man, but to different generations. The great grandchildren of the architects were the contemporaries of the stucco-workers who furnished the prototypes for the decorations of the Metropolitan Club, and the difference between the architecture and the decorations betokens a very distinct degeneration. Although the styles employed in the club-house are called by French names, they are very plainly of Italian origin. It is Pietro da Cortona and his contemporaries of the sixteenth century that are the inventors of the system of decoration by projected figures in plaster and by violent color that is carried out here, and that has not been carried out with anything like the same completeness, profusion and audacity anywhere else in this country. The wayfaring man, indeed, cannot help seeing that this is what the wayfaring man would call Dago decoration. It is the Italian journeyman whom we know in the lobbies of theatres and other places of passage that we encounter here, unlimited in money and goaded to do his loudest in a place that is supposed to be a place of repose. The Dago journeyman murders repose. One might as well try to sleep in a boiler shop as take his ease in this confusion of shapes and noises. Restlessness, however, is not the first characteristic of the decoration. The first is ostentation. One visitor expressed a general impression when he said the place smelt of money, to which another rejoined that he thought he detected also the odor of patchouli. It may be added that the mixed fumes of garlic, Gorgonzola and olive oil pervade the place to the mind's nose of the visitor.

It is rather melancholy to contrast this decoration with what has been done heretofore for the same purpose and in the same way. The decoration of the Union League Club was by no means at all points successful, but it showed a serious intention, it was for the most part quiet, there was sobriety in its richness and harmony in its variety. The library is the only apartment in the Metropolitan Club that comes as near being successful. That this new decoration would excite more than anything else in New York the fury of the Anarchist, and corroborate the social philosophers who preach of the essential vulgarity of a plutocracy is abundantly plain. It almost seems, indeed, to have been done cynically and to confirm their views. In that aspect the question how the members of the Metropolitan Club like it becomes of considerable social importance. Is the American millionaire the riotous, ostentatious and crude creature to whom these high-flavored decorations appeal? We are inclined to think not. The American millionaire for the most part takes his pleasure sadly and his millions seriously. In fact there is nothing more serious in American life than a million, except two millions. That, at any rate, is the ordinary view. Perhaps the esoteric view entertained by his decorator may be more nearly correct, and the enfranchised Dago is right in going to lengths to which he could not venture in his own land, and assuming the American millionaire to be of an uproarious and ostentatious crudity in determining to give him Italian Renaissance, as the vulgar phrase has it, "in the neck." We shall know which view is right when we learn whether the decorations are popular in the club.

THE Legislature obviously made a great mistake when it intrusted the distribution of the million of dollars voted for works to relieve trade depression to the Park Department. No doubt the insertion of the name of that department was a slip of the pen and that the Department of Charities and Correction was really intended. Some months ago, when great distress was pending over the city, practical people suggested that that was a good time to supply the city with a few of the many improvements it needed, and at the same time prevent distress by giving employment to a great many workingmen. There is no doubt that in these times of cheap materials money could be expended with great advantage to the city and with due regard to the right of the taxpayer to receive an honest dollar's worth for his dollar. However, the cheap politician, backed by the cheaper newspaper, has seized on this suggestion to win a sentimental credit for himself among the masses, and what was originally a good idea is becoming one of the very worst forms of—not of charity—but of almsgiving that can be conceived. Having the power, every official concerned in the expenditure seems anxious to spend this million as fast as possible, so as to earn the commendation of the noisy part of the press and the unthinking part of the community before whom they pose as philanthropists. In order apparently to make it impossible that no immediate or permanent good shall result to the city from the expenditure of this large sum of money, a bill has been introduced into the Assembly to amend the act recently passed appropriating $1,000,000 for park improvements, so that at least three-quarters of that sum shall be spent for individual labor and not more than $250,000 for contract work. Any one who stops to think a moment will see at once that as a mere measure of charity the voting of this million dollars was unnecessary; the city is under no restriction as to the amount it shall spend in the relief of its indigent, and the Park Department has always hitherto found means to keep its walks clean and to do the other things that so far it has only been able to do in providing work for the unemployed. The idea that the city can secure some lasting benefits from the employment of this money spent in a period of low prices must be abandoned,—the officials through whom these expenditures must necessarily pass, not having either the sense or spirit to see what the occasion offers or requires. This business, however, ought to serve as a warning to people not to expect anything rational from political action whenever occasion gives an opportunity for indulging in mawkish sentiment. A further warning will be found in the thought that a very ugly precedent has been set which may raise the question of the duty of the city to provide for its unemployed in any period of commercial distress and also the question of who are to judge of time for making such a provision, with very many other minor questions involved in these two.

Legislation at Albany.

ALBANY, March 1.—Governor Flower signed yesterday the "Greater New York Bill," as it has been popularly termed. Previously, upon Tuesday, there had been a conflict over it in the Senate, owing to an effort of Senator Reynolds to incorporate an amendment giving the people of Brooklyn the right to vote upon the question of whether or not they desired that city in case of its consolidation with New York to have the same rate of taxation as the latter. Senator Saxton, the Republican leader, opposed this amendment upon the ground "that of course all parts of Greater New York would have the same rate of taxation." Senator Cantor, of New York, while also opposing the bill, made the interesting remark that it did not follow, as Senator Saxton had asserted, that Brooklyn and New York would have the same rate of taxation, and he declared that there were two different rates of taxation in Brooklyn now. To what he referred the writer does not know, but it is worthy of attention that the New York Senators, through Mr. Cantor, declare that New York may impose certain conditions upon Brooklyn and one of these may be that the former city shall not assume the financial burdens of the latter, and, therefore, that there may be two differing rates of taxation in the consolidated cities if they are ever united. The Reynolds amendment was rejected, it may be remarked, and the bill passed in the simple form in which it passed in the Assembly.

The law provides that the voters in the metropolitan district of New York and its sister cities and towns shall be provided with ballots at the coming November election, reading "For consolidation," and others reading "Against consolidation." The territory mentioned in the act has a total area of 317 square miles and a population now of nearly 3,000,000. Chicago has 174 square miles of territory; Philadelphia, 120; and London 118, with a population of 4,000,000. The territory referred to in the law is thus described in the law: "The city of New York, Long Island City, the county of Kings, the county of Richmond, the towns of Westchester, Flushing, Newtown and Jamaica, and that portion of the towns of Eastchester and Pelham which lies southerly of a straight line drawn from the point where the northerly line of the city of New York meets the centre line of the Bronx River to the middle of the channel between Hunters and Glen Islands in Long Island Sound, and that part of the town of Hempstead which is westerly of a straight line drawn from the southeasterly point of the town of Flushing, through the middle of the channel between Rockaway Beach and Shelter Island to the Atlantic Ocean."

This provision is in the first section of the bill. The second section declares what the "aye" and "nay" ballots shall mean. It says:

"The ballots cast in each of said election districts, except in the City of New York, shall be deemed and taken as an expression of the voter, as the case may be, in favor of or against the consolidation with the City of New York, of the city, county, village, town or part of a town mentioned in the first section, in which the said district is situated, and the ballots cast upon said proposition or question in the City of New York shall be deemed and taken as an expression of the voter, as the case may be, in favor of or against the consolidation of the territory mentioned in section one of this act under one municipal government."

Governor Flower is beginning to sign the important New York statutes. This week, for instance, besides the Greater New York bill, he has signed Mr. Lawson's bill, appropriating $200,000 for the completion of the Cathedral Parkway, and also Mr. Lawson's bill, putting the trees upon West End avenue in charge of the Park Department. He furthermore signed Mr. Butts' bill, appropriating $450,000 for the completion of the Harlem Ship Canal Bridge. Senator Guy's bill, for the creation of a new park in the 12th Ward of New York, and Senator Robertson's bill appropriating $200,000 for the completion of the building of the American Museum of Natural History. It should be stated that this new park in the 12th Ward will have as its boundaries 145th street, Bradhurst avenue, 155th street and Edgecombe avenue. Previously to signing these bills, Governor Flower also had signed the bill appropriating $1,000,000 to be expended upon the parks, for the relief of the unemployed poor, the bill appropriating $30,000 yearly for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and the bill declaring that the Harlem River Speedway should have two sidewalks. Governor Flower now has in his hands another important city bill, namely, Assemblyman Lawson's bill appropriating $750,000 for the completion of the Riverside Park and Driveway.

Mayor Gilroy is opposed to Assemblyman Sheffield's bill appropriating $600,000 for a new site for the College of the City of New York and yet, notwithstanding his objections, the Assembly this week passed the act. Now it is supposed that Senator Cantor will fight the act in the Senate. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment have sent here a protest against the bill, declaring that public schools ought first to be built.

Assemblyman Sheffield this week intended to bring up his bill for the transferrence of the legal sales of property from 111 Broadway back to 67 Liberty street, but Mr. Thornton, the chairman, was absent on that day and therefore the committee held no meeting.

The Senate passed to-day Mr. Butt's bill in regard to the cancellation of assessments for improvements in New York.

Assemblyman Butts to-day introduced a bill abolishing the present Rapid Transit Commission of New York.

Senator Cantor has introduced a bill exempting public baths in New York City from water rates and taxes.

Assemblyman Lawson presented a bill to-day providing that the civil service laws shall not apply to laborers and that in cities the applications of laborers for work shall be placed on a list, all appointments to be made from such list in their order.

The Assembly passed to-day Mr. Butts' bill providing for the completion of the paving of 3d aveune, and also his bill in relation to the construction of sidewalks and cross-walks; and Mr. Sulzer's bill providing for the government of the New York Botanical Garden.

Senator O'Donnel introduced a bill extending for three years the terms of office of the Board of Electrical Control of New York; and Senator McMahon presented an act prohibiting the construction of an elevated railway upon 14th street, between University place and 7th avenue.

The Senate has passed Senator Sullivan's bill, giving the city authorities power to supervise the opening and grading of streets in building the New York and Long Island Bridge.

Assemblyman Lawson has introduced Senator Coggeshall's bill, increasing the yearly salaries of the New York policemen. Mr. Lawson also has introduced a bill, providing that the doormen and acting doormen of the park police of New York City shall receive $1,000 per annum.

Assemblyman Marrin has introduced a bill, providing that of the $1,000,000 appropriated for park improvements three quarters shall be used in the employment of laborers.

THE "LEGAL SALES" CONTEST.

(Special to RECORD AND GUIDE.)

ALBANY, March 2.

The Assembly Judiciary Committee gave hearing yesterday on Sheffield's bill to have the legal auction sales transferred to 59 Liberty street. Arguments in favor of the bill were made by Elihu Root, H. H. Camman, Richard V. Harnett, Mr. Wickersham and Assemblyman Sheffield. Another hearing will be given to the bill on Thursday next, when Assistant Corporation Counsel Blandy says he will appear in opposition to it.

A New Rapid Transit Movement.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TAKES UP THE PLAN OF CITY OWNERSHIP AND CONSTRUCTION OF AN UNDERGROUND ROAD AND WILL PUSH IT THROUGH AN ABLE COMMITTEE.

The Chamber of Commerce, on Thursday, resumed the consideration of the report of its special committee on the R. T. Wilson rapid transit proposition. The meeting was very well attended, showing the deep interest taken in the subject by the commercial community. Ex-Mayor Abram S. Hewitt presented as a substitute for the report of the committee approving the Wilson scheme, the following:

"Resolved, That, in the judgment of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, additional rapid transit facilities are so necessary to the growth and prosperity of the city of New York that the use of its credit would be justifiable, in case it is not found possible, after careful investigation and liberal concession in regard to taxation and right of way, to secure the construction of a proper system of rapid transit by private enterprise.

"Resolved, That in case the credit of the city is used, the ownership of the rapid transit system should be vested in the city, but its construction and operation should be intrusted to such responsible corporation now existing, or hereafter to be formed, as may, in addition to the interest on the city bonds, pay the largest annual rental, such excess to be used as a sinking fund to retire the bonds of the city, and when the bonds are so retired the lease to be terminated.

"Resolved, That thereafter the lease should be sold to the highest bidder, upon such terms as may be prescribed by the city authorities, for periods not exceeding thirty years, in the same general manner as the ferries are now sold, with the stipulation that the successful bidder shall purchase from the previous lessee the rolling stock and other personal property at their fair valuation, to be determined by arbitration.

"Resolved, That proper safeguards and conditions ought to be provided by appropriate legislation in reference to the issue of the city bonds and the construction and operation of the rapid transit system, under the general supervision of a board of engineers, so as to secure economy of cost and adequate accommodations for the public use, and that the committee be continued, with power to add to their number, to confer, to co-operate with the authorities of the city in reference to the general plan of the needed legislation."

These resolutions were seconded by Morris K. Jesup, following which Mr. Hewitt made an interesting and instructive argument in their favor. The sentiment of the Chamber, which on the first reading of Mr. Wilson's proposition a week before was largely in its favor, had manifestly changed in favor of the Hewitt plan, and after some further discussion even Mr. Wilson made a graceful surrender in favor of the Hewitt proposition, of complete ownership in the city. The vote on Mr. Hewitt's substitute was almost unanimously in their favor.

Subsequently the committee, consisting of Alexander E. Orr, J. Edward Simmons, Cornelius N. Bliss, John Harsen Rhoades and John A Stewart, was increased by the addition of Mr. Hewitt and the President of the Chamber, Mr. Chas. S. Smith, and was continued with instructions to confer with the city authorities and to take the necessary steps to procure the legis'ation necessary to put the plan proposed into practical operation.

Mr. Simmons said yesterday that in his estimation the plan was ideally perfect, and if it could be carried out as contemplated by Mr. Hewitt it would be the best thing that could possibly be done for the city. Whether it could be so carried out depended altogether upon the strength and heartiness of the support the committee would receive from the public. Selfish interests would be sure to oppose the scheme—that was to be expected—and they must be beaten down. The committee would doubtless meet very soon and formulate a plan of procedure. What that would include he could not foresee.

Mr. Harnett, Chairman of the Real Estate Exchange Committee on Rapid Transit, expressed hearty approval of the position taken by the Chamber of Commerce. It was substantially the same as that taken by the Real Estate Exchange last year. He thought the Real Estate Exchange would take the earliest opportunity to indorse the action of the Chamber of Commerce. It is not necessary to tell the readers of THE RECORD AND GUIDE that the plan proposed by Mr. Hewitt and indorsed by the influential Chamber of Commerce, is the plan which this paper has advocated and urged for two years and more, and which has been generally indorsed by the real estate interests of the city.

Burlington's Showing for 1893.

The showing of earnings and expenses made by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, for 1893, has an importance outside of that always pertaining to the results of operations on a great railroad property, inasmuch as it gives one instance of how the railroads are grappling with the difficulties of lessened earnings. The decision of the Board of Directors last Friday, to make no reduction in the rate of dividends, would indicate that earnings for the current fiscal year show no more serious declines than have already been seen, though not much can be based on this, because no board of directors can gauge the future from a situation so perplexing as that in which the trade of this country is now in. It is enough, and the fact should be a source of satisfaction to the holders of Burlington & Quincy, that the dividend is for the present to be maintained at the comparatively high rate of five per cent per annum. It stands to reason that such a result, considering the condition of business for the whole of last year could have been obtained only by the most rigid economy, and the question will consequently arise whether expenses can continue to be reduced so that stockholders need not suffer loss of income if business does not improve. The monthly reports made by this company show something more than the results on Burlington & Quincy proper, as they include also the earnings on certain controlled properties; but the general results apply to the condition of Burlington & Quincy pretty accurately, because about four-fifths of the several amounts mentioned in those monthly reports relate directly to it. As the Chicago roads benefited so much from the World's Fair in July, August and September of last year, in order to know actually what have been the conditions of business with the Fair left out it is necessary to look at the results for the last three months by themselves. The figures for last year and for the last three months of the year compared with similar preceding periods are as follows.

Year.	Gross.	Net.	Charge.	Surplus.	P. c. cost of operat'g.
1893.....	$38,356,483	$13,854,293	$9,960,000	$3,894,293	63.91
1892.....	40,412,401	14,253,405	9,771,083	1,482,322	69.68
Oct., Nov. and Dec.:
1893.....	9,834,511	1,412,079	2,490,000	1,922,079	55.14
1892.....	11,105,631	4,399,179	2,442,771	1,956,408	60.39

The fact that operating expenses were reduced from 69.68 per cent in 1892 to 63.91 per cent in 1893 would be very satisfactory except for the additional fact that the whole and more of that reduction was made in the last three months of the year when the percentage of operating cost was reduced to 55.14. A low rate of operating expenses seems usual to these three months of the year, judging by the figures for 1892 as well as those for 1893. It will be seen that while in 1892 the operating cost for the whole year was 69.68 per cent of gross earnings, in the last three months it was only 60.39 per cent. Still 55.14 is an unusually low rate for operating a great railroad system in these times, and suggests that if the economies have not been too excessive they have been very rigid indeed. As a result, net earnings, though showing a falling off for the whole year, increased in the last three months of last year. To pay 5 per cent on the Burlington stock for 1893 requires an amount in the near neighborhood of $4,000,000. It is, therefore, easy to see that this payment must create a deficiency for the year, and even taking into account the income which will be received from investments, etc., not included in the monthly reports, it is highly probable that unless business improves considerably before the time comes for declaring the next dividend the rate must be reduced. This is supported by the policy of the Burlington management in the past. People who are familiar with the history of Burlington will remember that a 5 per cent dividend was maintained all through 1890, resulting in a deficiency; and that in the following year only 4½ per cent was paid, rising again to 5 per cent, at which rate it was maintained for the next two years, in each of which a large surplus was made. The surplus is not available for dividends having been put into the property.

The Greater New York.

THE CONSOLIDATION QUESTION NOW BEFORE THE PEOPLE IN PRACTICAL FORM.

At last the consolidation question is before the people. The Senate at Albany, on Tuesday, passed the commission bill as it came from the House, shorn of the amendments which Senator Reynolds procured in committee, with only two votes against it, those of Senators Bradley and Reynolds. On Wednesday Governor Flower signed the bill and thus it becomes a law. The amendments sought to be imposed by the Brooklyn senators went beyond the purpose of the present measure and as such have generally been considered premature. The votes of these senators against the measure in its final shape, it is certain, do not express the sentiments of the people of Brooklyn.

In framing the present act it was the desire and purpose of the present commission to obtain only an expression of the general wishes of the people of the several communities involved on the main question: "Do you wish to form a consolidated municipal government?" The commission purposely omitted from the question all reference to the conditions and details of the contract of consolidation. These they reserved for consideration and action after the main question should have been decided. The amendment of the Brooklyn senators intruded one of the main points in these conditions and shifted the question from the general form to the special one: "On what terms do you want to form a consolidated municipality?" The commission was perfectly right in reserving the details of the compact for more deliberate consideration after it shall have ascertained whether the people are favorable to the general proposition.

Although the question will not be voted on until the general election in November, it will naturally be the subject of extended discussion between now and then. Much has already been said about it, but there is a widespread misunderstanding of the purport of the present law; some of the people, as has been noted from their utterances, having the impression that by the enactment of the law the consolidation is an accomplished fact. For the purpose of starting right, THE RECORD AND GUIDE will restate the proposition: The act requires that at the next general election the voters of New York; Brooklyn and all the towns and cities embraced in Kings County; Staten Island; part of Queens County, embracing the towns of Newtown, Flushing and Jamaica and part of Hempstead, taking in Rockaway Beach, Far Rockaway, Isle of Wight, Ocean Point and Hinsdale; and part of Westchester County, embracing the town of Westchester and enough of Eastchester and Pelham to take in Woodlawn, Pelham Bay Park and Hunter's Island, shall be given an opportunity to vote "for" or "against" consolidation.

In THE RECORD AND GUIDE of January 27th the areas and population of each of these communities was stated as follows:

According to the last enumerations of the population in the respective cities, towns and villages embraced within the 317.77 square miles which it is proposed to incorporate in the Greater New York their aggregate population would be 2,965,792. A tabulated statement of the towns, areas and their population is as follows:

	Area, square miles.	Population.
New York City	38.85	1,801,739
Brooklyn	28.99	957,958
Flatbush	5.69	12,625
Flatlands	12.79	4,234
Gravesend	10.96	8,418
New Utrecht	7.96	9,129
Richmond County	57.19	53,452
Westchester Village	15.50	10,029
Part Eastchester Village	1.91	est. 4,612
Part Pelham Village	2.83	est. 3,541
Flushing	29.65	19,803
Part Hempstead	17.86	est. 17,756
Jamaica	33.50	14,441
Long Island City	7.14	30,506
Newtown	21.32	17,549
Jamaica Bay	25.63	....
	317.77	2,965,792

The present population of this area, estimated by adding to the figures quoted the yearly additions since their last enumeration and allowing only the rate of increase shown during the decade from 1880 to 1890, would be 203,660 more, or 3,169,452. This would make the city the largest in area and the second largest in population among the cities of the world.

The election officers are to provide separate ballots for the next election, one set to read "For Consolidation," the other "Against Consolidation," and every voter will be supplied with one of each. He may vote or not, as he chooses. If the vote shall result in favor of consolidation, as seems to be the prevailing opinion, then the Consolidation Commission, of which Mr. Andrew H. Green, of New York, is the President, will formulate and present to the Legislature a bill expressing the terms and conditions upon which the consolidation shall take place. Necessarily there will be a good deal of argument over these terms, and it is still a question whether the Commission will hold public meetings for the purpose, or will frame a bill and submit it to the Legislature and allow the general argument and discussion to take place at Albany, where there will be sure to be a repetition of all that would take place before the Commission anyway.

Questions and Answers.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Please decide the following for me: In an exchange of properties, A (who owns a certain piece of property), after some negotiations, says to B (the broker in the transaction), if you will get C (the owner of the other piece of property) to pay me "so much" cash and leave "so much" on mortgage, I will make the trade and pay you "so much commission." B then asks A to put that proposition in writing, which A refuses to do, saying, "my word holds good" and something else to the effect that he would stand by what he said. Whereupon B induces C to do exactly as A desires, and furthermore, that same day, B brings A and C together, with a contract setting forth A's proposition and C's acceptance of same, whereupon A, who has meanwhile received an offer of another piece of property from another broker, shows signs of "backing out." Seeing this new turn of affairs, B (the broker) turns to A and, in the presence of C, puts the question, "Did you not say to me that if C would do 'so and so' (stating the terms laid down by A) you would make the trade?" whereupon A answers "Yes." In the event of A "backing out," is B (the broker) entitled to his commission from A, especially since C is willing to pay him (B) his side of the commission? A SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—Yes; B is entitled to his commission from A, whether A backs out or not. And we think your case comes within the rule which permits a broker to receive commissions from both sides.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

The heirs and the trustees of an estate held in trust by the latter take opposite views as to the propriety of division among the former of the amount of past due interest covered by a foreclosure judgment upon a mortgage. Should the trustees make payment in cash to the heirs of the past due interest upon taking in the property and charge the same to principal? If not, how should the heirs be protected in the rights which cover all income each year? You will greatly oblige by reply at your convenience. C. F. G.

Answer.—If the "past due" interest had accrued before the death of the ancestor the trustees should add it to the principal. If the "past due" interest accrued since the ancestor died they should divide it among the heirs; if some of the interest accrued before and some after his death it should be apportioned and applied as above stated.—LAW EDITOR.

Personal.

Mr. George R. Read, President of the Real Estate Exchange, has gone to Old Point Comfort, to give a severe cold an opportunity to lose itself. He will probably be gone about ten days.

Real Estate Market.

There is little in the condition of the real estate market this week to justify special comment. The auction sales have been better attended and have shown rather more life than usual, a sign, possibly, of reviving interest in the offerings of the auction market. The effort to set aside the sale of the Hotel de Logerot property has been the subject of much discussion, and the action of the court on the application will be awaited with interest. The feeling is almost universal that a decision ordering a resale would, under the circumstances, seriously injure the market—that it would make titles derived through auction sales unreliable. House buying has begun for the spring season, and may reasonably be expected to steadily improve until May. But in general business and investment properties, the attitude of the market is that of waiting to see what Congress does with the tariff legislation. The delay of the national legislature in the settlement of that question has already deprived two commercial seasons of their life, and will doubtless paralyze the spring trade also—for the season is already far advanced. The delay and doubt about the final outcome of the question are worse in the present emergency than any decision upon the pending measure could possibly be.

THE CITY MUST PAY.

William King Hall has reported, as referee in the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company's suit, as trustee under the will of John F. Delaplaine, against the Mayor, for the value of wharfage property along West street, which was taken by the Dock Commissioners some twenty years ago, that the city must pay $99,500. This is at the rate of $500 per running foot for 199 feet of water front. The legal questions involved in this action were determined in the eight similar suits by Walter Langdon against the city, which were referred to Grover Cleveland prior to his second Presidential term. The Court of Appeals in those cases sustained an award of $600 per running foot. Other actions have since been compromised upon the basis of $500, and even for $450, per running foot. Mr. Hall's report will be presented to the Supreme Court for confirmation.

One of the men who has made a mark in the real estate brokerage profession, and in the management and care of estates, is Mr. Peter F. Callahan, whose well-equipped offices are at No. 230 East 42d street. Mr. Callahan brings to the service of his clients a knowledge of the business and an intimate acquaintance with the properties in his section that is born of a long experience. And no one enjoys a better reputation with the people for whom he has done business than he. In addition to the usual equipment for the real estate business, Mr. Callahan is a Notary Public and a Commissioner of Deeds for all the States and Territories.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. will, on Tuesday next, March 6th, sell at auction, at the Real Estate Auction Room, 59 to 65 Liberty street, by order of the executor of the estate of Mary Kasmire, the four-story and basement brick dwelling and lot, 21.3x52x98.9, No. 43 East 29th street, between Madison and 4th avenues.

Mr. Peter F. Meyer will officiate as auctioneer at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, on Wednesday next, in a sale which will doubtless receive the attention of investors and home-seekers in larger measure than any sale yet held this year. On this occasion Mr. Meyer will sell, by order of the Supreme Court, in partition, fifteen properties of varied description situated in different parts of the city. A list of the properties appears in our advertising columns, from which it appears that the greater part are residence properties, some of which are in the line of advancing business, and can profitably be converted to business uses, and one of them is a down-town business property. The auctioneer, at his office No. 111 Broadway, will furnish book-maps and any additional information about the property, on request.

On Thursday next, March 8th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, by order of the Court of Common Pleas, in partition of the estate of Thos. J. Monroe, deceased, the properties, Nos. 2271 and 2275 3d avenue, No. 206 East 124th street, and four adjoining lots, and No. 82 Essex street. A more particular description of the properties appears in our advertising columns, and the auctioneers will furnish maps and particulars on application at their offices, Nos. 71 and 73 Liberty street.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell at auction, at the Real Estate Exchange Auction Room, 59-65 Liberty street, on Wednesday, March 14, by order of the executor of the estate of John E. Special Notices.

A GOOD RECORD IN A BAD YEAR.

The thirty-fourth annual statement of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, just published, shows that its income for the year was nearly seventeen millions in excess of its disbursements, which included over seventeen and a-half millions paid to policy-holders. The assets of the company were swelled to over $169,000,000. For a good business year this would seem to be a wonderful record; what must it be for a year that will be distinguished only for its business calamities?

FOUR AND A-HALF PER CENT MONEY.

Money at this rate is gradually coming into the market in larger quantities. Among the larger amounts at this rate recently shown by our records was $300,000 on the new eight-story warehouse, west side of Lafayette place, between Astor place and West 4th street. A. W. McLaughlin & Co., the brokers in this transaction, are also the brokers who on the eve of the recent money panic placed $500,000 at 4½ per cent on the warehouses southwest corner of Lafayette and Astor places in this same block.

THE MANAGEMENT OF ESTATES AND COLLECTION OF RENTS.

The firm of P. A. Geoghegan & Co., successors to George Geoghegan & Son, for over seven years on 9th avenue, near 34th street, have been very successful in the management of estates and the collection of rents. Their specialty is 20th Ward realty, and close personal attention to business enables Messrs. Geoghegan & Co to secure large returns to owners who place property in their care. The result is a constantly growing business and a satisfied clientele. The firm also sell at auction and on private contract, and place insurance with promptness and success. Their office is at No. 423 9th avenue.

Messrs. Schratweiser & Moss, manufacturers of the York Metal Lath have, for the convenience of their business, given up their quarters at No. 171 Broadway, and will now have their office at their works, Nos. 110 to 114 Navy street, Brooklyn, under which arrangement they can give better attention to their patrons.

Trade Notes.

AS TO ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

No large or important building, for whatever use it is designed, is complete according to modern ideas until it is fully equipped with and for electric lighting. The furnishing and installation of such equipment has thus grown to be one of the most important branches of the building trade. Among the leaders in this field is the New York Electric Equipment Co., of No. 59 Duane street. It has, in a recorded period of fourteen months, from July 1, 1892, to September 1, 1893, wired for about 175,000 lights in hundreds of the principal buildings in this city. Out of a selected list of over a hundred buildings lighted and equipped by this company we mention the following: Metropolitan Opera House, Grand Opera House, New American Theatre, New Empire Theatre, Abbey's Theatre, The Stewart, J. Monroe Taylor, Manhattan, Life, Produce Exchange, Boreel, Hanover Fire, Edison, Morris, Kuhn & Loeb and Sheldon office buildings; the Metropolitan Museum of Art, University Club, Century Club, and large numbers of business buildings, schools, churches, hotels, residences and apartment houses.

TILES AND FIREPLACES.

Builders and purchasers of private houses as well as architects, are constantly becoming more careful and critical about the proper execution of tile and fireplace work, not only because of a desire for the most beautiful results, but from a knowledge that good work is the most durable. Davis, Reid & Alexander, of 18 East 15th street, New York, are competent in every way, their workmen being in charge of a member of the firm, who is a practical mechanic of many years' experience. This firm now have contracts for tile work in progress in the Corn Exchange Bank, Bleecker Street Bank for Savings, New York Post Graduate Medical Hospital, House of Good Shepherd, Wilcox & Hoyts' five houses in West 89th street, and J. A. Frame & Son's nine houses in 120th street. They have recently completed tile and fireplace work for many new private houses, among them: James Livingston's nine houses in West 87th and 88th streets; Walker & Lawson's five houses in West 91st street; E. Tipping's six houses in West 76th street: W. H. Hall's nine houses in West 146th street, and for the Brooklyn Storage and Warehouse Company. The residences of Charles L. Colby, Wm. Buchanan and Eugene G. Blackford have recently been furnished with fireplaces and tiles by the above firm, who display in their showrooms an elegant assortment of artistic wood mantels, wall and floor tiles and fireplace goods.

Bram & Bieg, of Nos. 46 to 56 Wallabout street, Brooklyn, whose white porcelain pantry and kitchen sinks and washtubs are too well known to need comment, have, to meet a new demand, introduced a new specialty in the shape of brown glazed earthenware washtubs. These latter have the advantage of being much cheaper than the white porcelain tubs, though equally serviceable in certain situations

There is hardwood trim—and there is hardwood trim. The difference is all in the finish. The finish of the trim also express in large degree the character of the building, whether it is high or low. Great care is necessary in the selection of the persons to do this work. Charles Grimmer & Son, whose establishment is at Nos. 147 and 149 East 22d street, have established an excellent reputation as hardwood finishers. They are at present finishing contracts in their line in the Hotel Empire, at 63d street and the Boulevard, for William Noble, and in the Cable Building, at Broadway and Houston street, for John L. Hamilton & Sons. These indicate the class of work they do and that they are prepared to undertake even the largest contracts. They have recently added a new branch to their establishment—that of plain and ornamental painting and decorating, which is under the direction of an experienced artist. They are thus prepared to undertake the entire interior finishing, painting and decoration of house, office and business buildings, furniture, pianos, etc., and will gladly furnish estimates for the same.

The old established, reliable and successful firm of McGuire & Sloane, carpenters and builders, has been dissolved, Mr. S. K. McGuire, the senior partner, continuing at the old stand, No. 151 West 28th street. The successful completion of work in their line on such structures as the Cotton Exchange, the Union Trust, Mechanics' Bank and Colonial Club buildings is a record of which any firm may well feel proud. Mr. McGuire will continue to construct work of the best kind, and will be glad to hear from old friends and new ones at the above address, where the firm have been located since they commenced business in 1859. Mr. McGuire's telephone call is 635, 38th street.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Permit me to thoroughly indorse your editorial note in last week' paper in relation to the proposed Willis avenue bridge.

For four years the people of the great North Side, embracing in territory one-half of the area of the City of New York, have endeavored to secure this great public improvement. During the whole of this period we have met with the increasing opposition of Tammany Hall.

Two powerful organizations have been formed, the one, "The Willis Avenue Bridge Association" of the North Side, numbering nearly 500 members; the other, "The First Avenue Bridge Association," with headquarters in Harlem, and with an equally large membership.

So powerful have these organizations become that Tammany has been compelled to heed their demand.

The present bill is a most unsatisfactory one. It provides for the commencement of construction in four years, and completion in eight years; but we have sufficient confidence in the present Legislature to believe that they will give us a bridge at once, despite the opposition of Tammany lobbyists. JOHN COTTER.

Out Among the Builders.

We hear that Ehrich Brothers have had plans prepared for an extensive addition to their store on 6th avenue, 22d and 23d streets. CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

MORTGAGES.

NOTICE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, MARCH 3, 1894.

Brooklyn, a City of Homes.

BROOKLYN is in the dawn of another era of prosperity. She has conquered the ills and enemies that for so long a time afflicted her, and has put them under her feet. From having been the most scorned of the sisterhood of great cities she is now the envied of all, the accepted example for their emulation. What she has done in the four short months to redeem herself, to recover the reins of authority from the venal crew who had her in their power, and later to humiliate and punish the principal malefactors, has placed her upon the pinnacle of fame among her contemporaries. They are making ready to follow her example. They may succeed in doing as well as she, but they can do no better.

But Brooklyn having regained her estate finds that there is much to do to restore it to its former strength and beauty. The spoilers, while they had the power, made waste where even it brought them no gain. Like miscreant tenants, without hope of further possession, and without sense of responsibility for their crimes, they converted everything moveable and salable to their own use and made no effort to keep up the main property. But they could not steal the hills or the parks or the sublime views, nor could they make waste of her contiguity to the Metropolis—the greatest hive of industry on this continent. They could not rob her of her miles of commercial water-front, nor of her near proximity to the ocean beaches, nor of her capacity for growth and expansion. These are the permanent plants that can never be taken from her nor diminished. The rest was transient wealth, and it can be restored.

The natural endowment of this city is not exceeded by any other in the country. Founded by the overflow from New York City, she is but a natural expansion of the Metropolis and in every essential particular part and parcel of it. The distinction between the two cities—that of different names and separate governments—is unnatural. The city lies fair on the westerly end of Long Island, her boundaries washed by the waves of the Atlantic and its estuaries. These give her everlasting assurance of healthful and salubrious airs, tempering the rigidity of the northern winters and the heat of their summers. It is nearly always between ten and twenty degrees cooler in Brooklyn in summer than it is in New York. The formation is of drift, piled in scattered hills, and in its native state thickly clothed with timber. It is easily worked, affords good foundation for structural work and nearly always contains stone enough in the excavations to supply the foundation courses of all sorts of buildings. It also affords excellent drainage, building sand in quantity sufficient for all purposes, and cobble-stones for its original pavements.

Everything not upon the ground required for building purposes can be as cheaply procured in Brooklyn, also, as it can in New York, for one market is open to both of them on equal terms. Labor, if anything, is cheaper, some branches of the building trades working nine hours in Brooklyn against eight in New York, with no difference in daily wages. These are facts which explain in large measure the recent observation of an architect of large experience—that a dwelling of any kind can be built about ten per cent cheaper in Brooklyn than it would cost in New York. In the general expenses of living there is probably no difference between the two cities. The large grocery and dry-goods stores in New York deliver their wares as freely and promptly in Brooklyn as they do in their own city. Of theatres, concert halls, lecture courses, libraries, churches and clubs this city is also quite as well equipped as the Metropolis, and though we have to go to New York for grand opera the necessity is so rare that it heightens the enjoyment of the occasion rather than otherwise. In all other respects Brooklyn enjoys equal and in some cases superior advantages to the Metropolis.

One of these advantages is that the citizen of Brooklyn is really a citizen of both cities, and by so much more cosmopolitan than the dweller on Manhattan Island, for the Brooklynite goes frequently to New York and spends much of his waking hours there, either in business or pleasure, while the New Yorker seldom has occasion to visit Brooklyn, unless it is to attend a funeral (for we have the most delightful and popular cemetery in the world, except Pere la Chaise), or to take a train for the ocean beaches or the summer resorts in her suburbs. Another is that in the outing season the Brooklynite is always nearer to the beaches and to the water highways, where recreation is found; and if he wants a ride or drive a few minutes takes him to the best of country roads, while in Prospect Park he can enjoy all the delights of riding, driving, cycling, walking, lounging or boating that are assured the New Yorker in his Central Park.

Another advantage, and one that places Brooklyn superior to the upper half of Manhattan Island, is that the entire city is within easier and quicker accessibility from the business district of the Metropolis than any part of Manhattan Island north of the northern boundary of Central Park, and most of it than the section north of 59th street. A resident of Brooklyn in business in New York anywhere below Canal and east of Greenwich street, will have less difficulty and lose less time in going to and from his place of employment, than the resident above 85th street on Manhattan Island. These are the facts which give Brooklyn the natural advantage over the upper sections of New York, and which account in largest measure for her more rapid growth in recent years. But if this were all, and if there were no great difference in the cost of homes in the two cities, Brooklyn would doubtless still have been a dubious village, comparatively, and the mass of her population would be living on Manhattan Island.

It is in this enormous and inexplicable difference in the market values of real estate in the two cities that Brooklyn's chief advantage over the Metropolis as a place of residence for people employed down town in New York, consists. For with the great mass of the people who daily swarm into and out of the great hives of industry in the lower part of New York, the natural superiorities of Brooklyn would have little weight, if the matter of expense did not lie in the balance with them. Independent homes on Manhattan Island are already beyond the reach of any but the wealthy, and are yearly becoming more expensive. For many years the building of flats, family hotels and tenement houses has been rapidly on the increase, until now over half the population of the Metropolis is living in buildings containing seven or more families, and less than an eighth is living in single-family dwellings. Brooklyn contains 5,000 more single-family dwellings, though she has only 180,000 families, while New York has 320,000. The reason for this is that land is cheaper, so much cheaper, in Brooklyn, that a residence property can be purchased outright in Brooklyn, for what would pay only two years' rent of it in many parts of New York. The man who pays $60 a month rent for a seven-room flat in New York, could, if he would, buy a two-story and basement brownstone house, well built, in Brooklyn, for the same money. And for a less or greater outlay a relatively advantageous purchase could be made.

Upon this important fact is the prospect for a new era of prosperity for Brooklyn founded. It means much for the city, but it means more for the individual. It means for the city a continuance through the near future of the phenomenal growth which has characterized the last decade, and it means an increase in proportion in the taxable wealth of the city. To the individual, however, it means, first, a home with all the advantages of residence in New York at from a tenth to a fifth of the original cost, and, second, a vastly larger annual increase in the value of his property and, consequently, a larger income upon his investment. It only requires the widespread promulgation of these facts to lead to a vast increase in the number of permanent residents and house-owners in Brooklyn. If beyond all this the consolidation movement should result in the removal of the artificial barriers between the two cities within the ensuing two or three years, then the last obstacle to a great future for Brooklyn would be removed.

It is not too much to predict for Brooklyn that the advent of another century will find her built up nearly solidly to Fort Hamilton and to Jamaica Bay, with transit facilities that will reach without a break from both those points to the Brooklyn Bridge—and thus to the centre of New York's business district. Matters are now at bed-rock for the city. Through many mutations she has settled down from every speculative level to the basis of solid substance and abiding values, and in our opinion any one now buying property in Brooklyn needs only to hold it a year or two to realize a handsome profit upon his investment, and in the meantime a reasonable income from the rent or use of the property. More and more as the years roll on New Yorkers who want to live in homes of their own will have to turn towards Brooklyn for them. It is the destiny of New York to grow vertically—her individual dwellings will give way to houses of many parterres. Brooklyn is bound by no such necessity. Her borders are wide enough for four times as many people as she now contains without such crowding. These are facts upon which the home-seeker and investor may depend.

Building Trade Notes—Brooklyn.

Mr. E. Thiele, the United States agent for the Star, Stettin and other German and English Portland cements, has just received from the Chicago World's Fair a number of highly interesting exhibits of objects made from the Star Portland cement and has them at his office, at No. 78 William street, for the inspection of his friends of the building trades. They consist of castings in various shapes of the Star cement and marble mosaic work, some of them showing the readiness with which the cement will take a high polish. Persons familiar with cements do not need to be told that the Star cement is of high tensile strength, great firmness and uniformity and permits of the use of more sand and stone in concrete work than cements of only average good quality. It is also frequently used in the manufacture of colored cement tiles and the laying of marble mosaic and tiling, always with the best results.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—There has been a slight change on the market for Common Hards, inasmuch as rather more business was done indicating that some consumption is going on. Where the best of combination controlled stock was taken full top rate had to be paid, but buyers showed a preference for under grade stock, outside lots, etc., and of course expected and obtained comparatively easy rates. A cargo of Staten Islands waiting here for quite a while has finally been worked off, some Jerseys came along and were disposed of, but no arrivals were reported from the Hudson River. In a general way operators did not appear to be in a particularly cheerful mood. They are naturally hopeful that as the weather becomes more open and better suited to out-door work consumption will increase, but the position of builders is yet too undetermined to form any definite conclusion. Meanwhile manufacturers continue straightening out their plans for the new season in the matter of form and extent of credits, the volume of production, etc., yet as they incline to take most action in secret session, it is not known exactly what conclusions have been arrived at, and arrangements made. The manufacturers of Fronts talk as though expecting very fair trade.

LATH.—The market at the moment is only worth passing notice. Merely a small quantity of stock was available during the week and there has been no opportunity to test values, but receivers have reason to believe that at least old rates could be made, or say $2.10@2.15, and possibly more. A number of local dealers, it is claimed, are short on supplies and it is believed that some out of town custom could be secured were there any stock to tender.

LIME.—Since the lately noted decline to 85c. for common and $1 for finishing, there has been no further change in cost. Arrivals have been moderate, but quite up to the needs of the market, and the condition of business is slow and uneventful at the moment. Production is understood to be under control and shipments likely to be slow until the market really needs more stock.

LUMBER.—About the best that can be said of the local lumber market in comparison with one week ago is that it is no worse. Distribution continues moderate and uncertain because of weather influences serving as a check upon building operations, and also the extreme caution of manufacturers who feel unwilling to go into production except upon basis of actual orders, and call for supplies accordingly. Prospectively there is talk about the filing of plans for buildings, the contemplated public improvements, including dockage, and there are even some people of strongly confiding nature who will still venture to suggest the possibility of a perfected rapid transit scheme, all of which upon consummation must help the lumber trade. But until something takes really tangible form in the way of positive operations dealers are not willing to buy lumber and carry it on the chance of getting custom later on, for even filing plans for buildings does not mean actual work, especially should the credit line with contractors be drawn as taut as calculated this season. Even with the slowness of trade the already moderate local accumulations becomes more attenuated, which will of course hurry the demand when it does start up, and the start will come just as soon as dealers can discover the least real opportunity for catching custom among actual consumers. We do not believe there is a buyer who can pay for supplies who is holding off because he thinks cost of any of the standard grades too high, or who expects to obtain concessions through the adoption of such course, and the same remarks will apply to builders and manufacturers as well. The faults of trade are to be found in unusual economical consumption and uncertainties regarding financial legislation curtailing the circle of operations to the compass of most imperative necessity, and as advised in our last the settlement of the labor question upon a basis for the season must be reached to insure the starting up business in the structural line.

In the general conditions of trade now prevailing there is so much similarity of feature for the various grades of stock that detailed reports afford nothing of special interest. Eastern Spruce secures only occasional and really unimportant special orders, and the mills, according to latest report, were making no preparations to start up, especially as some of them had been getting returns on lumber sold in this market at a loss. Heavy snows have interfered with logging. State Spruce remains firm, and a larger quantity of 13-foot stock could be placed if promptly available. Hemlock is not finding much custom here, but agents seem satisfied with their success in placing stock for delivery at interior points. Carolina pine has retained a fair amount of attention from regular lines of custom, and ruled steady in price at $3 over the Norfolk list rates so far as new deals are concerned, but now and then an "old" lot turns up that is sold a little less. Yellow pine, aside from the usual average business in ties is slow and a bit uncertain as to value, although claimed to be too low for further concessions. White pine, box and shippers get some attention whenever offered, but at the moment the tender of supplies is not extensive, and most regular buyers seem just as well satisfied, feeling they can wait awhile. There is a notion that when the tariff muddle is finally brought to an end, lumber will retain some protective duty. Hardwoods are understood to have been offered a little more freely by local agents, including some very good lots of a thoroughly staple character, without attracting much attention. The prices were no lower, but that did not prevent negotiation so much as the indifferent feeling entertained by all classes of buyers at the moment. Poplar has a sort of regular sale, but it does not reach a point of animation sufficient to make it appear much better than other woods. There has been some fair export clearance of late.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Distribution from wholesale stocks has been going on all winter in a moderate way, but results, as expressed in figures, have been much less than for a corresponding period last year. As has been before set forth, the demand thus far this year, for all classes of mill product, has been strictly confined to the consumptive requirement. There has been little provision for the future. A few contracts for logs and lumber to be sawed have been made, but the amount of product thus transferred has been much less than last year at a like time.

Lumber carried over at the mills is still mostly in the hands of the mill operators. Slight interest in it has as yet been expressed by the dealers or consumers. Bulk stocks at Northern mills are being held at prices higher than dealers think is warranted by the present state of trade or the prospects for demand. It seems evident that there can be no early revival of interest in the pine lumber carried over from last season at the mills. There must be a waiting until consumption and distribution of yard stocks have become so voluminous and urgent as to call for new supplies from the mills. How long it will be before that state of things shall appear will depend on the activity of trade from this time onward. Last year at a like time yard dealers were more anxious to secure future supplies than to get rid of what they had on hand, which they considered as good as sold. Now the state of affairs is diametrically opposite.

The dealers are indifferent to further supplies, and are busy in the effort to work off lumber on hand. Besides they are selling at easy prices, which evinces no fear that they will not be able to replace their lumber at equally easy figures. Looking at the situation as a whole, it would be a stultification of good judgment to express the possibility that the market will be anything but weak during the succeeding three months. It is true that stocks in the hands of retailers and consumers are low, but supplies in wholesale yards are equal to any emergency of the spring trade, and there are yet large blocks of unsold lumber at mill points. The log input, though somewhat restricted in lower Michigan, and probably in the Menominee district and in the Wisconsin valley, is generally rolling up a good average in the field at large, under favorable weather conditions. The mills will go to work on these logs by May 1, and thereafter new product will be a factor in the market. So much for pine. It is evident that the manufacturers this year will have to either resolve to sell on a comparatively low-priced market, so as to keep their output moving, or else pile and hold till late in the season for a possible rise in demand and prices.

The Lumberman, Saginaw, correspondent says:

"The general situation in lumbering circles on this river is practically unchanged. There is a little more inquiry for lumber and a slight increase in the movement by rail, but with 300,000,000 feet of unsold lumber on hand reported by manufacturers and a large quantity of unsold stock in the hands of yard dealers, the sales make a small inroad, and besides there is a large sum of money tied up in lumber which the owners would like to have put in circulation."

There is activity in the poplar trade throughout the producing region. Recent tides in all the principal streams have brought down quantities of logs to mills, nearly all of which have started up. So far the supply of logs is not large, but there is considerable snow in the mountains and prospects are that future tides will bring out practically all of the logs hung up last season as well as those put in during the winter. Even then the season's supply will be short of the average, and with a normal demand for lumber dry stock will be scarce before the end of the year.

So far conditions are very satisfactory to the mill man, but when it comes to the distributing end of the market—well, that's another story. Prices were a little firmer the latter part of January, and some increase in the inquiry was noted, but the last two weeks demand has dropped off again, and in some quarters a disposition to cut prices is evident. With the mills starting up and a sluggish movement of lumber this is perhaps only natural, but the seller at a cut price now is likely to find himself without dry lumber when trade and prices begin to improve.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman has the following logging information: From every logging camp in the vicinity of Menominee, Mich., comes word of big work being done and it is safe to estimate that over one-half the present winter's intended log cut is now at the landing. The freezing nights of the past two weeks have enabled the loggers to make excellent ice roads where needed. The logging season of the St. Croix and its tributaries will soon be at a close. A correspondent interviewed a large number of loggers yesterday on the cut, and nearly all of them believe that the cut this season will be nearly up to that of last year. True, some of the larger concerns have not cut so much this season as last, but the deficiency is more than made up by the large number of new concerns in the woods this winter. Skidding will be finished in a few days and there will not be much hauling after March 1. There has been abundance of snow in the logging districts, and it is expected that there will be plenty of water to float the entire cut next spring.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot has found no regular attention from either home or foreign buyers, and while now and then a fair-sized amount could be placed, the business as a whole was unquestionably unsatisfactory. No great changes have been made in cost, but the inclination of value was principally in buyers' favor. On the average range of valuation we quote at 9⅜@9⅜c. for Lake and 9⅛@9⅜c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper has secured about an average amount of attention from regular sources, but with no evidence of an increasing demand or other influences calculated to more than fairly sustain values. We quote as follows: Sheet, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 22c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 23c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 24c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 25c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 28c.; do. under 8 oz., 30c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz. and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over 22c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 24c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 26c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 30c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 33c. Sheets longer than 96 inches 22c. for over 32 oz. and add 1c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 1c. 14 to 16 oz.; 1c. 12 to 14 oz.; 1c. for 10 to 12 oz., and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz., 22c.; do. 16 to 32 oz., 24c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 26c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 28c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 32c. Sheets wider than 48x96 and longer, 22@27c. for 32 to 64 oz.; 25@28c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 27@29c. for 14 to 16 oz. and 29@34c. for 12 to 14 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz., 26c.; 14 oz., 26c.; 12 oz., 27c., and 10 oz. and lighter, 29@32c. Bolt copper, 8s inch diameter and over, 22c. Circles, segments and pattern sheets, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 4c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 5c. do. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottoms, 26@32c. per lb. IRON—American pig has little or no demand outside the ordinary routine run and presents a stupid, uneventful market. Values remain about as before and may possibly be considered quite as low as conditions warrant, but there is no tendency to buoyancy on any grade. We quote at $13.00@14.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $12.50@13.00 for No. 2 X do., and $11.00@12.50 for Gray Forge. Old material sometimes gets a fair measure of attention, but all calls are promptly met and there is no force in the situation sufficient to raise the line of value. First-hand stocks are said to be accumulating. We quote at $12.00@13.00 for old iron rails; $10.00@11.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $10.00@10.50 for cast scrap; $10.00@11.50 for old car wheels, and $6.00@10.00 for borings, stove plate, etc. Manufactured iron has generally dull tone. Some contracts are accepted for structural specialties, but it is understood that buyers name and insist upon low prices in all cases. Very little stuff is now being made up for stock purposes even in the way of the most thoroughly staple goods nor is there likely to be an increase until buyers manifest a more decided degree of interest in the market. We quote Beams up to 15-inch, 1.75@2c.; 20-inch, 2.10@2.25c. for round lots; Angles, 1.75@1.90c.; Universal Mill Plates, 1.70@1.90c.; Tees, 2@2.15c.; Channels, 1.80@2c. on dock. Steel plates are 1.65@1.90c. for Tank; 1.90@2.10c. for Shell; 2@2.15c. for Flange, and 2.50@2.80c. for Fire Box, on dock; Refined Bars are 1.60@1.90c. on dock, and Common, 1.45@1.60c. Steel rails have no important demand, and the market is tame, but old valuation generally adhered to in all negotiations. We quote standard sections $24@25 per ton at mill, with usual advances for delivery at tide water. Pig lead has favored buyers since last writing, but holders retained some independence, and have frequently disappointed calculations based upon hopes of crowding off fractions from cost. We quote at 3.15@3¼c. per lb. The manufactures of lead are quoted at 5¾c. for Pipe, 6½c. for Sheet, 15c. for Tin-lined Pipe, and 37½c. for Block Tin Pipe. Pig Tin has been unsettled, and frequently offered at unusually low rate, but consuming demand was not stimulated, nor were the interest of speculators aroused to any great extent. We quote at about 19@19⅜c. for round lots, and 19¼@19⅜c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate meets with trade demand of a routine character, and that is about all, the market generally ruling quiet and values easy although in many cases more or less nominal. We quote as follows: I. C. Charcoal, Melyn grade, $6.35@6.37½; Charcoal, Melyn grade crosses, $7.87½; I. C. Charcoal, Allaway grade, $5.50@5.55; Allaway grade crosses, $6.65; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.25@7.30; M. F. grade, 20x28, $14.50@14.55; Worcester, 14x20, $5.70@5.75; Worcester, 20x28, $11.35@11.40; Dean grade, 14x20, $5.35@5.37½; Dean grade, 20x28, $10.50@10.60; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $5.15@5.20; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $9.90@10.00; I. C. Coke, Peulan grade, $——@——; J. B. grade, 14x20, $5.30@5.35; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.45@—— basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares $5.55@5.60 basis. Spelter has been dealt in upon a moderate scale, with tone of market soft, and sellers unable to exact any special advantage. We quote $3.85@37c. for Common Western, according to brand.

NAILS.—Since the moderate increase of animation during early portion of the month the general market has made no further progress, and of late trade appears to have fallen off again. Semi-speculative investments do not get the support of an increase in demand from consumers, and jobbers assert that they have accumulated all the stock they care to carry at the moment. Manufacturers work carefully to avoid overproduction and show firmness on valuation at former rates. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.25@1.25 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.00@1.15 for car lots, and $1.25@1.35 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Business in the general line of paints and colors is unquestionably slower than anticipated by the majority of operators, and complaint came in accord with such a result. Travelers on the road write of poor success and indifferent prospects for anything in the way of fancy stock, and express surprise over the small orders received for thoroughly staple goods, even from customers known to be carrying unusually scant supplies. The market is kept well enough stocked with quantity and variety to promptly meet all calls, but manufacturers have been sufficiently careful in their production to prevent an oversupply of serious nature. In matter of price the old story crops out regarding the cutting and slashing from regular list rates, and especially so on lead which frequently sells ¼@½c. below regulation figures. Corroders' quotations stands as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 6½c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 5.94c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 5¾c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil has found very fair demand, against which there was if anything quite a scant offering as compared with amounts ordinarily available and the influence has been to stimulate values especially on the finer qualities of stock. We quote at 45@48c. for Western, 51@52c. for City from domestic seed, and 58@60c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine does not meet with much demand, buyers taking only small odd lots for immediate wants, and that situation in conjunction with tame Southern accounts, produces rather a weak feeling all around. We quote at 31½@32½c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—There has been some demand from regular sources, but nothing to indicate any particular anxiety on part of buyers, or calculated to alter the tone of the market. Offerings as a rule fair, but made without pressure of a noticeable character. We quote Tar at $1.75@1.80 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.25@2.30 in pork bbls., and $3.25@3.30 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

VOL. LIII. MARCH 10, 1894. No. 1,356

THE stock market contains more signs of wholesome improvement than have been seen in it for some time. This is apart from the wild movements of Sugar, because it will not have escaped notice that while the general market rose when that erratic star of the speculative firmament rose it made no proportionate decline when it fell. Moreover, there has in the last week been very good buying of railroad bonds, which is always a favorable indication. While Sugar occupies most attention the more important fact is the strength of the rest of the list. Another fact that was, not unnaturally, favorably regarded was that there were no orders for gold to go out on to-day's steamers. Exchange was so near the shipping point that shipments were thought to be inevitable when the day for making remittances came. If this turning back of gold as it may be called is due to a change of opinion in Europe on the value of loans on this side it will have a very important bearing on the prices of securities here. In general business there is also improvement in a small way, but not enough to warrant any hope of very marked change until it is clearly seen what form the Wilson tariff bill is to finally take if it is to be passed at all.

THE reports from European financial and commercial centres are meagre in detail, and do not contain anything that would give the impression that the small measure of improvement recorded last week had been lost, or that anything had occurred to destroy the hope that that improvement is only a beginning of a better condition that is to last for some time. A curious question has arisen in London, that of the right of a broker to use as collateral securities, presumably paid for, left with him by his customers. The London Stock Exchange has repudiated any sympathy with such a practice, and declared that any member found guilty of it would be expelled. Notwithstanding a plethora of money in London and the better tone to business there, there is apparently no general desire to buy Americans, for which we have to thank our currency theorists in Congress. The French Chamber of Deputies has agreed to increase the duty on wheat about 40 per cent, and pending the discussion of this question the records of the imports have not been published, in order, probably, that the public may not know how Parliament is helping a gigantic speculation in imported wheat. The customs treaty with Russia is still the great topic of discussion in Germany and the guiding principle in the movement of stocks and the prospects for business. So far the signs are for an ultimate approval of the treaty in the Reichstag, and, as a consequence, while business is very slow, prices are strong. In Vienna bank and industrial stocks have gained in price, though railroads do not share the advance. There are more signs that Budapest is in an advanced state of boom, and no moneyed centre is more expectant of a consequent collapse than is Vienna; therefore, the collapse, when it does come, by reason of the warning that has been given and the preparations that have been made to meet it, will probably be local in its effects. The government will purchase the new docks opened in Trieste in 1891. The Italian Minister of Finance has made public figures showing that for years deficiencies have been concealed, that they have grown to about $35,000,000 for last year and that the treasury has in consequence a floating debt of $100,000,000. Every kind of effort is to be made to meet this and provide for future needs, reduction of interest on the public debt, income tax, etc., and some recourse to the printing press. The Argentine government has decided on large economies and the effect has been good on its securities abroad.

SPRING has brought a perceptible increase of activity to the real estate market. Of strength, no increase was necessary or desirable. The holders of New York City real estate have almost universally done the one thing that was wise and prudent during the season of prolonged business depression through which the country has passed. They have held to their properties and maintained values, though the vicissitudes of the last eight months have required some sacrifices and the temptations and alarms at critical moments made necessary large drafts upon their reserve strength. There is every reason to believe that the tide has turned; that the worst is altogether past, and that every coming day will bring improvement to all the conditions that govern the market. The renting season in the dry-goods district was a poor one, but it is past. In the office district brokers without exception report a satisfactory demand, and in all the residence quarters the demand is fully up to expectations for this season of the year. Many report that the demand for small houses at from $900 to $1,500 per year is many times in excess of the supply. But this is necessarily so. New York is every year becoming less and less a city of independent homes and more and more a city of hotels, apartment houses, flats and tenements, in which only the wealthy can afford to live in independent homes. Rapid Transit may again make possible another era of individual homes in this city—in its northern sections; but Manhattan Island seems destined to become the most densely thronged spot upon the surface of the earth. Already it contains over 75,000 people to the square mile, while Chicago, the next most densely populated city in this country, contains less than 7,500. But consolidation is one of the events of the not distant future, and the man who will not live in apartments may have a home all to himself in Brooklyn or Staten Island, or Flushing or Westchester, if he chooses, and still be a citizen of New York City. As our Gossip columns show, the house-buying season has begun, and many a builder who has with dismay seen the profits from past production vanish into thin air, while interest and taxes began to eat into his surplus, now breathes in relief and new hope. It will be only in conformity with the traditions of the market for things to improve rapidly from this on till the 1st of May, and to continue with gradually diminishing activity from then to about the 1st of September, when the fall season will begin. For investment properties, there are plenty of buyers and plenty of money, but owners do not care to part with such property, except at fancy prices. In times like these they would naturally think twice about parting with such property until an equally good investment could be shown them. The auction market has begun to show indications of the life which characterized it a year ago. It is long since so large a crowd has attended an auction sale as faced Mr. Peter F. Meyer at the partition sale of fifteen parcels, on Wednesday, and although there was nothing startling in the prices obtained, neither was there anything to check the prospect of a revival of auction sales.

WHAT if Brooklyn, Staten Island and Queens County decide to cast their lot with New York? This raises a question of probably greater material interest to New York than it does to either of the outlying districts which it is proposed to consolidate with New York. It concerns Brooklyn comparatively little. It may stimulate the growth of Kings County in a slight degree; but the future of that section is assured by its close proximity to New York, and the facility of communication between the two cities, and no very startling material changes for Brooklyn can follow immediately. But what will be the effect of consolidation on New York? The city has a local policy which it has been pursuing ardently, if not urgently, during many years. This policy is manifested in schemes for rapid transit, new parks, new boulevards, new sewers, and new Harlem River improvements. All things have been tending towards promoting the interests of the North End or of the North Side, as the people beyond the Harlem like best to call their section. How long would this policy be continued after consolidation became an accomplished fact? Would the nearly two hundred thousand voters in Kings, Queens and Richmond Counties feel much interest in the North Side? Would they vote for rapid transit northward, were the decision placed under their control? Or would they vote to expend money for the embellishment of new parks which they never saw and hardly ever expect to see? But we must bring these questions to a period, or we shall exhaust the interrogation points. Localities are best served by local political control. But it is a very hard thing to prevent men from constructing a big city when they see the material lying around loose. There appears to be something bewildering or at the least dazzling to the average man in the idea of a big city, and if it is so big that he has to pinch himself sometimes to make sure of his personal identity he feels that his own obscurity casts no reflection on the grandeur of his estate.

IF consolidation over the several hundred square miles of territory which are to make up the future metropolis must come, a consummation for which we confess we have not labored, it should be a new kind of consolidation, something that will protect the conflicting interests of the different sections from the tyranny and faction fights of the big head that will be located at the City Hall. Men complain of the oppressions of Tammany. But the old Tammany is a baby compared with the new Tammany that will spring into renewed life around the bones and sinews of the old Tammany when consolidation is achieved. Let us not, however, be misunderstood. We are using the word Tammany only in a figurative or generic sense to make concrete the idea of the political organizations which will control the policy of the consolidated municipality. We mean only to say that the boss of the future will be a boss to whom both Croker and Platt are babies, and that we should be casting about to see if we cannot find a strap that will be strong enough to hold him securely in his carriage while he is being trundled along the thoroughfares by his nurse. But there's the rub. Where can we find the strap? It does not take much of a genius to conceive of consolidation. Men capable of this much in mental gymnastics are to be found in every aspiring town that sees a neighboring village large enough to enable it to clip the wings of some rival town if it can only succeed in adding the village population to its own. But it will take a genius of another order to know how to consolidate into one municipality two cities that are both metropolitan in their proportions and rivals in their local interests in such a manner that they will live peacefully together in the same household. It is even possible to foresee in the prospective union of Brooklyn and New York a status that will be best illustrated by the familiar figure of two cats tied together by the tails and hung over a clothes line. The clothes line will be the East River and the ligament the New York and Brooklyn Bridge.

A New Way of Preparing for the Ministry.

WE have recently had occasion to remark that when clergymen undertake to discuss rent they fail to enlighten any one or to accomplish any good purpose. It is with the benevolent intention of giving them an opportunity to retort in kind that we audaciously venture to make some remarks about certain new methods of training men for the gospel ministry that seem to be coming into vogue. A second reason for our taking this course is that the clerical obtuseness in discussing rent indicates a need of change in the methods by which clergymen are trained.

The theological schools of the country are not having a pleasant time of it. What with trials for heresy of their prominent teachers and a certain falling-off in the average capacity of the men seeking to enter the ministry, they are compelled either to grow or die—and the two alternatives seem to be about equally painful. Their influence is further being sapped of late by a tendency on the part of certain young and able men to study sociology instead of theology as a preparation for the christian ministry. In the more progressive universities of both the east and west, that is in those offering thoroughly modern work in social science, there are many students who, ten or fifteen years ago, would have been in theological schools, but who at present prefer another course of study to that which such schools offer. Somehow they have come into the possession of the curious notion that a course in economics or social pathology with illustrative work for benevolent organizations, and possibly a minor study in such a materialistic subject as biology will better fit them for usefulness than the conning of systematic theology with Greek and Hebrew as necessary prerequisites. They also feel that what many modern congregations want of their pastors is usefulness rather than orthodoxy, and they therefore hope not only to fit themselves for usefulness but to "get jobs," by the independent and somewhat novel course they are taking.

The young pioneers here mentioned are not only or chiefly those who are expecting to be lecturers for ethical culture clubs or other new and non-religious ethical associations. Some half dozen that are in the mind of the writer have designs upon the congregational and methodist denominations, and are orthodox enough in their beliefs to pass muster with almost any examining board. They intend to do an old work, but are simply fitting for it in a new way.

The demand for instruction in social science has been apparent enough, so that some of the theological schools themselves have liberalized their curricula and afford a place for the new studies. Professor Tucker's work at Andover was so much in demand that it has finally broken down the old, hard and fast requirements for graduation and an elective system of studies has been introduced. In the Chicago Theological Seminary a nominal Department of Sociology has been established, and in almost every theological school of note some lectures at least are given in social science. When a circular was sent out to all institutions of this class asking what work they were offering in sociology hardly any of them answered without expressing regret that they could not offer more. But for the most part they felt themselves compelled to give rigid courses in the old studies, and so there was neither money nor professorial nor student time for the liberalizing of the course. And yet it may be predicted that they will have to find time if they wish to hold the students that would naturally look to them for training. A student who has taken his undergraduate work in a school having the elective system, and in which he has been able to get a taste of the candid study of social problems with which the modern minister is brought face to face, will hardly fancy the straight-jacket of a professional school which constrains him to spend three years with Hebrew roots and dogmatic philosophy.

As the modern university has changed so that a business man rather than a philosopher is wanted for the presidency, so the modern church, meaning by church the individual congregation, has changed in a way that changes the character of the man wanted for minister. The preacher, if great enough, will always be in demand, but the modern church wants in addition to the preacher the organizer, the wise director of the efforts of others in the multifarious social activities of the time. The Salvation Army is an excellent example of the way in which ardent salvationists are now driven to study the economic conditions of those for whom they work, and construct an industrial foundation for revival work.

The radicals of course believe that theology is to disappear before social science, but it is not necessary to hold this extreme view in order to believe that the extensive revision of methods of church work now in progress will go much farther. Interdenominational competition has evils too manifest and brings wastes too much like those of less saintly work to be carried along by the old methods. "My district," said one charity organization worker, with a sigh, "has been the battle ground of the denominations," and she spoke in a way that indicated that she expected any one to understand from that how hard her work was. Another worker for the poor declared in a discouraged way that the female city missionary was the bane of his life. For the cure of the evils indicated by such remarks, theology, as usually taught by the theological schools, has no remedy, and yet they must be remedied or the voluntary contributions, by which alone the modern minister is paid and the modern church supported, will cease.

Half the failures in business and especially in manufacturing industries which overtake enterprises that have been long established and that have had some measure of success result from a failure to adopt new methods of operation. The younger firms adopt improved methods and the old ones being too stiff to bend have nothing to do but break. The church of a given country has usually been exempt from the necessity of varying from the fact that it was solitary and need have little fear of competitors. But now we have not a church, but a large assortment of churches or denominations, and the struggle for existence will compel them to adapt themselves, at least in their methods of practical work, to modern conditions. For this reason it would appear that the young men who insist on studying social science before entering the ministry are likely to prove at once a symptom and a source of favorable and even necessary variegations in the church.

Correspondence.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Any one reading your editorial on the John Y. McKane conviction must conclude that for some reason not fully made plain you would have had a different determination of the matter. You would have had the law breaker go free. At any rate you give no encouragement to persons trying to make crime appear a crime, but rather encourage the "laxity of Public Conscience" and the continuance of "Party Villany." Should you not rather encourage the "Conviction of Scurvy Politicians" who are "Guilty of Crimes," and is it well to speak of one as a "decent individual" who "plays his own, dirty game irrespective of the Public interest?" You appear to think it is better to let vice and crime have free course rather than that it should be interrupted by an "occasional outbreak of virtue." We are extremely sorry to see such an article as the one referred to in a journal of so much influence. RULAND & WHITING.

[The purpose of our paragraph has been quite missed by our correspondents. We had not the slightest intention of discouraging the conviction of delinquent politicians. Our contention is that the McKane business is not even a beginning in the right direction. People should really wake up and oust the rascals from their high places. The conviction of a single offender amid newspaper clap-trap and popular theatrics is not the beginning of a long, steady, persistent course of reformation. That is what is really needed. Viewed from this point of view, the retirement of the Gravesend boss is of very little value, and arouses on our part no enthusiasm. It is not an indication of a real awakening of the public to the monstrous character of the political rule which they not only tolerate, but actually establish and perpetuate. A single scapegoat is not sufficient to purge us of our iniquity. The unfortunate thing is that now that we have got the beast into Sing Sing, we are all content and believe that things are really better with us. Nothing of the kind is the case. We are living under domination of vile partisanship, Republican and Democratic, and the wicked are as wicked and the unclean as unclean as they were before the "great moral triumph at Gravesend." Indeed, triumphs of this sort lull the public conscience to rest after its spasmodic awakening before it has accomplished the absolute eradication of the viler political abuses which smell under our noses and, consequently are, if anything, of more evil than good.—ED.]

Legislation at Albany.

ALBANY, March 6.—It is very apparent that the City of New York will soon be proffered some political legislation. Throughout the session thus far it has been hinted that the Legislature would pass a bill abolishing the present Board of Police Commissioners and substitute for it a new Board of two Democrats and two Republicans. At present, as is well known, the Board has three Democrats and one Republican as its members.

Senator Lexow, Republican, who introduced this bill for a "non-partisan" Board of Police, to be composed of four active Republican and Democratic politicians, thinks he can obtain a favorable report upon it from the Senate Committee on Cities on Monday or Tuesday next. It might be thought that the Democratic members of the Committee on Cities would oppose this favorable report on the bill, but, upon the contrary, Senator Cantor, the Democratic leader, says he shall advise them to let loose the bill. "I have no doubt of its passage in the Senate by Republican votes," he said to-day, "but it cannot be passed in the Assembly without Democratic votes."

Political legislation also cropped up to-day in the Assembly Committee on Cities. Mr. Lawson, Republican, of the 23d District of New York, came before the Committee and requested a favorable report upon his bill increasing the pay of the highest grade of patrolmen of the New York police from $1,200 as at present to $1,400. Assistant Corporation Counsel Blandy opposed a favorable report on the bill, declaring that the Board of Police Commissioners, Mayor Gilroy, the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and, indeed, all of the authorities of New York were opposed to any increase in the salaries of the policemen. Mr. Blandy declared "the times are hard," and that for men of "the grade of society from which policemen are recruited, $1,200 is a princely yearly salary."

L. L. Van Allen, the counsel of the policemen, declared that the leaders of Tammany Hall had repeatedly promised to raise the salaries of the policemen and as repeatedly had broken their word The policemen had resolved to show their fervor. They had defeated Assemblyman Webster, the Chairman of the Assembly Committee on Cities, who opposed their bill and killed it, last year, and now they warned all Assemblymen from New York that they meant business this year if the bill was not passed.

Mr. Blandy replied that the authorities of New York would not yield to threats of this nature. The taxpayers of New York were behind them, and they would still oppose the bill.

Nevertheless the Committee on Cities voted to report the bill favorably. It also resolved to report favorably ex-Speaker Sulzer's bill, increasing the compensation of the President of the Department of Taxes and Assessment to $8,000 yearly, and of the Commissioners of the same department to $6,000. Hamilton Fish, the chairman of the committee, voted against this bill in company with Mr. Sheffield, of New York; Mr. Burtis, of Brooklyn, and Mr. Wells, of Syracuse. The bill was reported favorably by the votes of all the Democratic Assemblymen and one or two Republicans. Mr. Fish called attention to the fact that the Democratic Assemblymen from New York were resisting the reporting favorably of the bill to increase the salaries of the policemen, but were pushing the bill to increase the salaries of the heads of the Department of Taxes and Assessment. It is probable that both bills will be passed by the Legislature.

The great New York measures are fast becoming laws; indeed, there seems to be no opposition in the Legislature to any bill favored by the New York authorities. The present week Governor Flower signed Assemblyman Lawson's bill appropriating $700,000 for the completion of the Riverside Park and driveway, the plans to include a viaduct, and approaches over 96th street. Still another bill signed by the Governor was Assemblyman Robertson's bill providing for pensions for firemen retired for mental or physical disability after twenty years of service. This is a political measure, and it gives a fireman the right to demand in writing that he be retired upon a pension. Governor Flower also signed Senator Ahearn's bill authorizing Controller Fitch to issue not to exceed $150,000 in bonds annually in the purchase of sites for new buildings for the Fire Department.

Still another bill which Governor Flower has signed is Senator O'Donnell's bill in relation to the proposed botanical garden. The bill provides that this botanical garden must be placed in some city park north of the Harlem River, but within the city limits.

The Senate passed to-day Senator Guy's bill providing for the extension of Riverside Park to the bulkhead line. This is the same bill that was introduced in the Assembly by Mr. Lawson and which he will seek to have put upon the order of third reading to-morrow, in order to have Senator Guy's bill substituted for it when it comes from the Senate. Mr. Lawson anticipates no opposition to it. Recently amendments have been made to it at the suggestion of James A. Deering which were accepted by the city's counsel.

The Assembly Judiciary Committee listened to arguments to-day on Mr. Sheffield's bill moving the legal sales back from 111 Broadway to 59 Liberty street. The opposition to the bill was made by Peter F. Meyer, James L. Wells and Philip A. Smyth, all of whom were present at the committee hearing. Among those present favoring the measure were Richard V. Harnett, H. H. Cammann, Mr. Wickersham and Mr. Warren. Mr. Wells made a long argument in opposition to the bill. He declared that thirty out of the thirty-five auctioneers of real estate in New York were opposed to the bill. It was a petty dispute over $2.50 charged poor men whose property was sold away from beneath them. Mr. Warren made an argument in favor of the bill. It was the general impression after the hearing that the bill would not be reported at all. One of the members of the committee said it was too small business for the Legislature to stoop to.

Senator Cantor introduced a bill to-day providing that $30,000 yearly shall be paid by the city authorities of New York to St. John's Guild for its support.

Senator Ahearn has introduced a bill raising the salary of the Superintendent of Buildings of New York to $7,000; and another making the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund of New York City and the Judge of the Fifth Judicial District a commission to select a site for a new court house in the Fifth District, to be built at an expense of $150,000.

The Senate has passed Senator Ahearn's bill providing that the passageways of theatres in New York be kept clear during a performance.

Assembly Robertson has introduced a bill to prevent the storing of cars upon elevated railway tracks in New York.

The Sketch Club of New York.

The regular monthly meeting and dinner of the club was held at the club rooms, Saturday, March 3d, about fifty members being present. Some very good drawings were handed in for the village church and mausoleum competitions. Mr. Albert E. Parfitt, who was a guest of the club, gave a very interesting talk, accompanied by stereopticon views of a trip through Italy, France, Germany and England, as these countries appeared in the 15th century. Mr. Parfitt's lecture was very much appreciated. Next, we had an echo of the World's Fair, through the kindness of Mr. J. J. Petitt, who introduced some Midway Plaisance novelties. The club enjoyed this bit of refined entertainment highly.

Model Homes on the West Side.

EIGHT FOUR-STORY HOUSES, NOS. 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24 AND 26 WEST 90TH STREET (ONLY 200 FEET WEST OF CENTRAL PARK), FOR SALE.

A quiet, aristocratic neighborhood; a street restricted to private residences, and to be immediately made a park entrance; only three blocks to the Madison avenue cross park line of cars; only three blocks to the "L" station at 93d street; street cars on 8th avenue, and the Broadway cable cars to be immediately run up Columbus (9th) avenue.

Houses built and finished "on honor;" under the owners' personal supervision. Not by a speculative builder, but by the heaviest manufacturers of fine cabinet work in this country, the Robt. Mitchell Furniture Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio; office, No. 160 5th avenue, New York.

These houses offer an almost unparalleled opportunity for safe and lucrative investment.

West 90th street is the most desirable portion of the West Side, being on the summit of high ground which descends sharply to the north, and to the "blue waters of the Hudson," and the beautiful Riverside Drive, only four blocks to the west.

Very few opportunities remain in this favored location to secure a home—or for investment—the certain future of which led the Trinity Corporation to select it for the site of their most prominent up-town investment—the magnificent "Church of St. Agnes," which, with its melodious chimes, is the pride of the whole section.

More money than many houses cost was spent upon the foundations of these houses, which were carried down to original "hard pan," and now, after more than two years, show in no place the slightest settlement.

Twelve-inch steel beams were laid upon these walls under the main partitions, leaving cellars without posts, 7 feet high, and insuring immunity from sagging floors and cracked ceilings.

The fronts—from pavement to cornice—alternate in brownstone and Longmeadow stone, beautifully carved and with high stoops, balconies, bays, balustrades, area steps, and area walls in the same enduring material.

The rear and extension walls are faced with Philadelphia pressed brick, a most unusual and important feature.

After plastering, the houses were allowed to stand unfinished through the winter; therefore, after finishing there will be no settling and cracking, and they may be immediately papered and decorated.

Five houses, numbered 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20, are on lots 21 feet by 100 feet 8 inches.

Three houses, numbered 22, 24 and 26, are on lots 20 feet by 100 feet 8 inches. All houses are 52 feet in depth, and have two-story and basement extensions 9 feet by 13 feet.

FRONT ELEVATION OF HOUSES, NOS. 24 AND 26 WEST 90TH STREET.

The sidewalks, areas, cellar bottoms, back-yard walks, and "platforms," and the servants' water-closets are paved in the most substantial manner with granolithic. Iron coal-chute covers are in the front areas; iron vault-light covers, with hammered glass, open to the cellars, and richly ornamented swell iron window guards are at all basement and cellar windows. Handsome grilles and gates with locks guard the basement entrances. High board fences inclose the separate back yards, which have large grass plats and paved walks.

The roofs are of heavy roofing-tin. The cornices, leaders and conductors are of heavy galvanized iron, painted and sanded to match the stone work. The glass in front windows is ¼-inch polished plate and in the rear windows best "double strength." All front windows have paneled inside shutters folding back into pockets. All rear windows have best quality, rolling slat, outside blinds. The front doors, vestibule doors and storm doors (alternately of quartered oak and mahogany) are of handsome pattern, glazed with polished beveled plate-glass. The houses are thoroughly piped for gas and wired for electric lighting in every room, hall and cellar. The plumbing is a special feature upon which no expense has been spared, and is undoubtedly as fine and thorough work as can be shown in any high-class residence. The woodwork throughout is of selected, kiln-dried stock, put together in the best manner, thoroughly filled, polished and rubbed. The hardware is of handsome pattern, solid bronze metal throughout.

The mantels, selected from the best patterns of the Robert Mitchell Furniture Co. (Cincinnati), are made with every care in the selection of wood, and have polished French beveled-plate mirrors.

The furnaces are of size commensurate with the house they have to heat, and are Richardson & Boynton's latest pattern, with all improvements. They are set in brick upon foundations put in before the floors were paved. The heat flues are of ample size and all provided with dampers. The registers are gold bronzed and white enameled in the different rooms and halls. The cellars are large, high, light, dry and airy, extending under the entire house and extension, and even under the front stoops. The walls are whitened and the ceilings plastered. The basement is floored with narrow, matched, Georgia pine, filled and polished. The breakfast-room is in oak, with handsome mantel, tiled fire-place, chair rail and large closet with ample shelves.

The kitchens are large and light, wainscoted—except on chimney breasts and behind sinks, where the wall is finished from floor to ceiling in Keene cement. The hearths are North River bluestone. The ranges, extra size, double oven, with independent broiler, water-back, and with hood and ventilator are Richardson & Boynton's latest improved "Perfect." Each kitchen has a handsome glass-front dresser with drawers beneath; extra heavy, 60-gallon copper boiler, large open tile sink with marble back, and pipes and cocks that control water system of house. Opening from the kitchen is a storeroom—leading also to the breakfast room—and an ample closet or pantry. Speaking tubes, bells, and annunciators connect the kitchen with the outside doors, and every room or floor in the house.

The laundry, opening from the kitchen, is walled from floor to ceiling in Keene cement, and provided with triple-enameled wash trays. A glass door, protected by an iron storm door, opens into the large yard that is provided with clothes-bars and hooks.

The largest-sized Larsen patent counter-balanced oak dumb-waiter, with hinged shelf and wainscoted shaft, runs from the laundry to the third floor. A wainscoted servants' staircase leads from the laundry to the butler's pantry above, and beneath this stair—opening from the yard—is the servants' water closet.

The butler's pantry (opening from the dining-room) is fitted with every requisite for convenience, including planished copper butler's bowl with high nickel-plated compression pantry cocks and glass-front dresser.

The dining-rooms (of full width of house) are in quartered oak; the walls paneled to the height of 5 feet. On the parlor floor, the entrance vestibules have marble mosaic floors in varied patterns, and are paneled on sides and ceiling in quartered oak or mahogany.

The halls have paneled wainscot, which extends up the stairs; handsome hall seats with beveled plate mirrors reaching nearly to the ceiling; and the foyer halls have beveled mirror door to basement staircase and handsome mantels, exquisitely carved.

The parlors, finished alternately in cherry and white mahogany, have paneled base 2 feet high, and sliding doors to hall and dining-room. The entire first story flooring is the very best quality-selected quartered oak ⅞-inch parquet, in different patterns, laid over heavy sheathing felt, with all joints glued, and is highly polished. The stairs are easy and wide, built of mahogany or quartered oak, with elegantly carved newels, twisted and carved balusters, and paneled spandrels. The second floors are divided into two large handsome chambers—each with saloon dressing-room, divided by doors sliding into the walls, so that the entire floor may be thrown into one suite. These stories are finished alternately in quartered sycamore and quartered oak. The saloons are lined with beveled plate mirrors, fitted with drawers, wardrobes and large oval bowls with Italian marble tops and back slabs. Note that under every bowl in the house is a lead pan or safe (the entire size of the closets) with outlet properly trapped.

The bath-rooms (accessible from either chamber) are tiled on all walls to the height of six feet, in beautiful patterns of fleur-de-lis, in white and gold, and other designs and colors, giving the purchaser quite a choice. The floors are alternately in glazed and in vitrified white tiles with border. The tiling and mosaic work was done by the Menlo Park Ceramic Co. and has no superior in this city.

The tubs are enameled, of "Standard" make and largest size, on claw feet, standing on a marble platform running the entire length of the room. The open bowl and seat are of the latest sanitary design. All marble work is best white Italian; and over each bowl is a large, beveled French plate mirror, set in the tiling. The third floors are in arrangement exact counterparts of the second floors, finished in oak throughout, with plumbing exactly the same, except the bowl is omitted in the bath rooms and there are fewer mirrors in the saloons. The plumbing fixtures of both floors have "unique" or combination supply and waste of latest and most expensive patterns. The hall ceiling has a hammered-glass dome-light in white and gold lighting up the stairway down through the house. With the park entrance opened (at 90th street) and the street repaved, the tide of fashion will roll through 90th street, between the park and the Riverside Drive, and seal its claim as the fashionable street of the great West Side. The value of these exceptionally fine houses will be correspondingly enhanced.

They can be seen at any time by application to the watchman in charge, and we shall be pleased to meet any one who contemplates purchasing. Very respectfully,

THE ROBERT MITCHELL FURNITURE CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.
AMBROSE B. STANNARD, Contracting Agent, 160 5th avenue, N. Y.

The North Side Board of Trade.

A PERMANENT ORGANIZATION EFFECTED AND ACTIVE WORK TO BE COMMENCED.

A meeting of representative men having interests in the district north of the Harlem was held at Melrose Lyceum, 150th street and 3d avenue, on Tuesday, and if the interest and enthusiasm displayed at this meeting is anything to judge by, this organization will be an important factor in the development of the Greater New York beyond the Harlem.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Jas. L. Wells, who, as chairman of the Committee on Organization, made a statement of the preliminary work of the committee and briefly outlined the objects of the association.

Mr. Wells was then elected temporary chairman and Albert E. Davis temporary secretary. After the reading of the prospectus by the secretary the chairman called for an expression of views from those present, which was responded to by Judge Ernest Hall, Prof. Arthur Dundon, Samuel MacMillan, Henry A. Gumbleton, E. M. Pritchard, John H. Knoepple, Judge J. C. Julius Langbein, De Witt C. Overbaugh and Commissioner Haffen.

Letters of approval from the following gentlemen who were unable to attend were then read by the secretary: Fordham Morris, Jordan L. Mott, William Cauldwell and Hugh N. Camp. After this the by-laws were read and adopted.

The following officers and directors were elected: President, John C. De La Vergne; Vice-Presidents, James L. Wells, Jordan L. Mott, Fordham Morris, John B. Claflin, Henry Lewis Morris, Samuel W. Fairchild, Henry P. De Graaf, Fred W. Devoe, Hugh N. Camp and Isaac G. Johnson; Directors, Clement Gould, Wm. R. Beal, John Haffen, John W. Hotaling, Olin J. Stephens, E. M. Pritchard, Jas. L. Wells, Smith Williamson, Louis Eickwort, John H. Knoepple, John J Brady, Myron C. Burton, John F. Steeves, John De Hart, ex-Judge Ernest Hall, Frederick Folz, ex-Alderman Henry L. School, Adolphus Hupfel, Matthew Anderson, John F. Hanson and Albert E. Davis.

President De La Vergne's address of acceptance covered the ground so well that it was ordered printed for circulation among the members.

Among the signatures to the roll of charter membership in the possession of the Secretary are: Chauncey M. Depew, Clement Gould, Col. F. K. Hain, Henry D. Tiffany, John J. Amory, John E. Eustis, Benj H. Mace, S. M. Bixby, John Simpson, Edgar L. Marsden, Wm. Cauldwell, Assemblymen Butts and Marrin, Commissioner Louis F. Haffen, Deputy-Supt. Enoch Vreeland, W. W. Niles, Emil S. Levi, Wm. Ogden Giles, Dr. A. F. Bringman, Prof. Arthur Dundon and Chas Spencer Clark.

Real Estate Market.

ELM STREET COMMISSIONERS.

On Wednesday Corporation Counsel Clark said that he would be ready within twenty days to apply to the Supreme Court for the appointment of commissioners of the Elm street improvement. The long delay has been due to the preparation of descriptions of every piece of land to be taken by the city.

THE RECEIVER OF TAXES NOT A PREFERRED CREDITOR.

Judge Giegerich, of the Court of Common Pleas, decided on Wednesday that Harry Durrell, the assignee of Edward C. Leake, erred in giving the Receiver of Taxes preference over the other creditors. Judge Giegerich holds that the Receiver of Taxes must share equally with the other creditors.

On Thursday next, March 15, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell at auction, at the Real Estate Exchange Auction Room, Nos. 59 to 65 Liberty street, the four-story, high stoop, brick and stone dwelling, 20x55, and extension x102.2, No. 330 West 77th street, near Riverside Drive; and at the same time and place the three-story and basement, high stoop, brownstone dwelling and lot, 18x50x102.2, No. 46 West 84th street.

At the Real Estate Exchange Auction Room, on Wednesday next, March 14th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell at auction the four-story basement and cellar, high stoop, brick dwelling, 23.6x60, lot 103.3, No. 137 East 15th street, between Irving place and 3d avenue.

Charles S. Kohler & Bro., of Columbus avenue and 104th street, report a very brisk demand for houses to rent in their vicinity, and say that the inquiries for houses to buy have shown a very encouraging increase these last few days. The bright springlike weather is bringing out the home-seekers. They report prices for both lots and houses as well sustained, and the prospects good for a fairly active spring season.

THE DECKER BUILDING.

As a supplement of this issue of THE RECORD AND GUIDE appears an illustration of the Decker Building, the chief architectural ornament of Union square. Its bright, lofty, ornate facade enjoys from the square what is possible with but few of the modern high office buildings—a good perspective. This was, doubtless, an inspiration to the architect, Mr. Alfred Zucker, for he has made the most that was possible of it. The building is a great success from the fact that in the floor plans and arrangement of offices the architect effected a peculiarly happy division of the space. The offices are all light and well ventilated and are finished in style to harmonize with the highly artistic exterior. The appointments, too, are up to date.

Special Notices.

Several very desirable offices in the Williamsburgh Fire building, No. 150 Broadway, are offered to rent by Mr. O. G. Bennett, the agent, on the premises. The building is modern in all respects, and the offices to let are well worthy the inspection of persons or firms about changing their quarters.

Mr. Jacob A. King is one of the latest, likewise one of the youngest aspirants for honors and wealth, in the real estate business. He has been associated with Mr. Julius Friend, in the rental department, for the last two years and is well posted on realty in the vicinity of his office, No. 699 Broadway, northwest corner of 4th street. Mr. King will transact a general real estate and insurance business, paying particular attention to renting business buildings. His card appears on page xii.

Mr. Frederick A. Booth, of No. 19 East 16th street, two doors west from Union square, makes a specialty of the care of estates and the collection of rents. He has the satisfaction of knowing his business is growing, which is indicative of successful work in his line.

Mr. H. Blackmur, formerly with E. A. Cruikshank & Co. for many years, has started in business on his own account and opened offices at No. 45 Maiden lane, where he is preparing lists of properties for sale and to rent. He will also take entire charge of estates. Mr. Blackmur's long experience and extensive acquaintance with financial institutions will enable him to satisfactorily transact every detail connected with the realty business. He has a number of desirable investment properties to offer intending purchasers.

REMOVAL.

Adrian H. Muller & Son will remove on the 1st of May to new offices at No. 24 Pine street. The offices they now occupy and where they have been located many years are to be torn down to make way for a new twenty-story building.

The price of the piece of property on 88th street, 180x100, just bought by James Livingston from Oppenheimer & Hirsh, is said to have been at the rate of about $17,500 per lot of 25x100, which would make $126,000 for the whole.

WORK RESUMED BY CONTRACTOR GIBLIN ON THE PUBLIC STORES.

Work has been resumed on the big Appraiser's Stores and Bonded Warehouse Building on the block between Greenwich, Christopher, Washington and Barrow streets. Under the contract conditions none of the mason work could be done during the winter. When work shut down last fall Contractor Michael Giblin had the iron and steel framework up to the third floor, where, for lack of necessary appropriation by Congress, the work had to stop and was topped out with a temporary timber and plank roof. In the foundations there are 150 piers of from 10.9 to 20.7 feet square each, built on 2.10 feet of concrete with five courses of granite, square dressed, each 1.10 feet thick, resting upon it. Over 2,000 tons of steel and iron have already been put into the building. Two million bricks will be necessary to finish the walls to the top of the second story and 8,000,000 more to finish it according to plans. Mr. Giblin began on the brick-work last Monday. He will work only a few hands for some time. Mr. W. J. Shaw Rouse is Superintendent of Construction and Max Thomson assistant.

ANTI-MONOPOLISTS WANT A MONOPOLY.

Some time ago the Federation of Trades secured the introduction of an ordinance in the Elizabeth, N. J., City Council, which provided that all construction and repairs of municipal buildings should be done by union men or contractors employing union men only, and it was referred to the City Attorney. His opinion—which was received at the last Council meeting—is that the ordinance would create a monopoly, and is therefore illegal and contrary to public policy; and that the courts would not sustain any contracts made under the provision which it contained.

The opinion was ordered to be placed on file, and the ordinance was laid on the table.

The Federation now has a committee at work upon the preparation of a new ordinance "to comply with the provisions of the Constitution."

Trade Notes.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Morgan's Improved System Dumb-Waiters on page v. These dumb-waiters have been on the market for two years and have been used and specified by many builders and architects in North New York, including Messrs. M. J. Garvin, H. Erhardt, P. P. Decker, J. H. Dale, C. V. Folin, Sauter Bros., H. Barry and J. W. Aitken, any of whom will cheerfully give information concerning the merits of the Morgan dumb-waiter. The advantages claimed embrace cheapness, easy running, light and noiseless and particular adaptability for fire-proof shafts. The manufacturer, Thomas Morgan, has removed his factory and office to No. 493 East 133th street, near 3d avenue, where all communications should be addressed and further information obtained.

PARTNERSHIP CHANGES.

The copartnership heretofore existing between M. F. Westergren and F. L. Anderson, under the firm name of the Architectural Sheet Metal Works, has been dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Anderson, who has been compelled by ill health to spend most of the time during the last few years in the South and West, having sold his interest in the firm to Mr. Westergren, who will continue the business under the same firm name and at the same address as at present with the same staff who have so ably assisted him in the past. Among the larger contracts recently executed by this firm have been the copper cornices for the new Metropolitan Club, the skylight work on the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s building and on the Decker building. They have gained prominence also as workers in corrugated iron, some of the larger pier sheds being of their construction.

The Hollow Brick manufactured by Gustavus Isaacs has stood the fire and water test successfully. Some months ago the entire woodwork and plastering on several floors of the Temple Court building was destroyed, while the arches and partitions remained intact, notwithstanding the intense heat and the force of twelve powerful streams of water. The insurance people acknowledged that but for this material the entire building would have been destroyed. Architects, builders and others about using Hollow Brick will do well to investigate the clay material of which they are made, as some are manufactured of a clay that will not stand the heat. Here are a few of hundreds of fine buildings in which Mr. Isaacs' fire-proof material has been used: Washington, Columbia, Wells and Post buildings; Cotton Exchange, Aldrich Court, Astor building, Wall street; Cable building, Broadway and Houston street; Cammeyer, 6th avenue and 20th street; Decker building, Metropolitan Life, Imperial and Normandie Hotels, San Carlo and Dakota apartment houses, and Union Square, Fifth Avenue, Proctor's, American, Amberg's and Abbey's Theatres. Mr. Isaacs' office is at No. 21 Berhune street.

Mr. O. W. Ketcham is the manager of the New York office of Fiske, Homes & Co., at 287 4th avenue, and of the Philadelphia office, No. 24 South 7th street. The firm are among the largest manufacturers of architectural terra-cotta, and fancy front brick of all shades and styles. A prominent special feature of their business this year will be the introduction of their architectural faience work which has won such success in Boston and Philadelphia. The Reading Terminal depot main waiting-room, which was done throughout in this material, is highly commended as an artistic piece of structural and decorative work. In Boston, the Adams House furnishes some fine examples of what can be done with this material. The home office of the firm in Boston, No 164 Devonshire street, contains a full exhibit of their work. In this city, the United Charities Building, in which Mr. Ketcham's office is located, has all the halls, from the main floor to the sixth, wainscoted with Fiske, Homes & Co.'s faience.

Wm. E. Elderd, the well-known carpenter and builder, has received the contract for extensive alterations and additions to the building on the southeast corner of 5th avenue and 32d street, for M. Rock, the tailor.

On another page appears a miniature illustration of the Electric Safety Sectional Water-Tube Boiler for steam and hot-water heating. It is an exemplar of a system of house-warming that has in recent years grown rapidly in public favor. From both the sanitary and the economic points of view, the system has advantages that cannot be successfully disputed. Every improvement has been gladly welcomed, and this, one of the latest and best, is sure to have its reward in popular approval. Among many advantages claimed for this particular boiler, is that it is the only sectional safety steel water tube-boiler made, and that its safety is not due alone to the fact that "if an explosion occurs it can't do any damage," but to the fact that it is practically impossible to explode an electric boiler. It would be of advantage to architects and builders to examine into the merits of this house-warmer. It is made by The Electric Boiler Company, at Rochester. The company is represented in New York by Mr. Richard D. Jackson, Jr., at No. 44 Dey street. Three of these boilers have just been put into A. J. Kerwin's new high-class apartment houses in 82d street, near Columbus avenue, and one in the flat No. 334 West 18th street, where they may be examined by interested parties, or, drop a card to Mr. Jackson and he will send you illustrated and descriptive pamphlets.

There is no device on the market that has figured more prominently in the development of building than the Hod Elevator. It has rendered quick work and cheap work possible where the old style of human carriers were failures, so much so that nowadays no building work of any magnitude is carried on without its aid. Some idea of the capacity and rapidity with which the Hod Elevator does its work may be had when it is stated that one machine in eight hours raised all the material needed for plastering the towering Continental Insurance building on Cedar street. Although Hod Elevators have been in use a quarter of a century it is only within twelve or fifteen years that the business has been successfully carried on. Recently Mr. Edmund S. Ashworth and John Taylor joined hands and organized the Stanley Hod Elevator Co., and as Mr. Ashworth was for fourteen years superintendent, etc., for the Pelham Co., it follows that he knows the business from A to Z. He is most practical and reliable and has made hosts of friends among the builders and contractors, which will be of value now that he has made a start for himself. The Stanley Hod Elevator Co.'s offices are at No. 620 West 25th street. Telephone call 1211 B, 18th street. They carry a full line of chain machines, steam pumps, platform and wheelbarrow elevators, etc. The engines to be used are specially designed to suit this class of work, and are being manufactured by the well-known engine builders, the Lidgerwood Manufacturing Co., of 96 Liberty street.

Out Among the Builders.

There is an open competition going on among architects for the new twelve-story office building, to be erected by the Fidelity and Casualty Co., on an L-shaped plot on Cedar, Temple and Church streets. The company will occupy three floors and rent out the remaining ones.

George F. Pelham has the plans in preparation for two five-story and basement tenements with stores, each 25x89, to be built for Joseph L. Buttenweiser, at Nos. 117 and 119 Sullivan street. The fronts are to be of buff brick, bluestone and terra cotta. They will cost $25,000 each. Mr. Pelham also has the plans for a six-story and basement warehouse, 26x68.10, to be built at No. 93 Crosby street, for Louisa C. Friedline, at a cost of $25,000. The front will be of face brick and stone, and the building will have an elevator and steam heat. Samuel A. Friedline is the builder.

Builder James Livingston will, it is said, forthwith improve the lots he has just bought on 88th street, between West End avenue and Riverside Drive, by the erection of a row of fine four-story American basement houses. Mr. Livingston has but recently completed one of the handsomest rows of dwellings in the city on the opposite side of the street. He sold one of them this week, as noted elsewhere.

The National Mahogany and Cedar Co. will build a two-story brick building, 80x80, mill construction, on the 11th street front of their block on the East River, adjoining their new warehouse in the rear. To this they propose to remove their cigar-box cedar-cutting plant from Mott Haven, combining it with their East 10th and 11th street mills, with a resultant saving in operating expenses.

David Steinfeld, of No. 234 Broadway, will improve a plot, 41.2x75, at Nos. 121 and 123 Sullivan street, by erecting a six-story brick stable or business building. No architect or builder has yet been selected.

The contracts will be awarded on Thursday next, by the Park Avenue Improvement Commission, for supplying the material and erecting the temporary trestles and trusses to be built on Park avenue, above 106th street, for the use of the railroad while the new structure is being completed. Between 106th and 115th streets, timber and iron trestles, to accommodate two tracks each, will be erected on either side of the present road. From 115th street to the Harlem River, temporary trusses in pairs will be set 14 feet apart, over the depressed section, on which the centre columns will be set until this part of the road is completed, when they will be set into their foundations. George F. Boulard, Chief Assistant Engineer of the Park Avenue Improvement Commission, has charge of the work.

The Lexington Avenue & Pavonia Ferry R. R. Co. will build a cable railroad power station on the plot, 165x197.6, Nos. 141 to 153 East 25th and 140 to 154 East 26th street, and a similar power station on Lenox avenue, west side, between 116th and 117th streets, on a plot 200x201.10. The properties mentioned were transferred during the week by the Metropolitan Traction Company to the company above named. By these two stations it is intended to operate the Columbus avenue cable road, now building, the 116th street crosstown line, and the Lexington avenue line.

Thos. J. Jenkins & Bro. have had plans prepared by Architect Geo. M. MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Wherever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, MARCH 10, 1894.

BROOKLYN'S proposed new building law has been introduced in the Assembly at Albany. Under date of January 10th last a bill was introduced in the Assembly, No. 109, being the same proposed law that was hurriedly prepared last year and sent up to the Legislature a few days before its final adjournment—too late to receive legislative action. In December last the then corporation counsel, Mr. Jenks, had his attention called to the serious defects which the bill of last year contained—it was drafted in one huge section, which would have made it very inconvenient in obtaining amendments from future legislatures; and it utterly wiped out certain sections of the existing law which related to health matters, the inspection of tenement houses, plumbing, light and ventilation, storage of combustible materials, etc. It was understood that the old bill should not be introduced in the Legislature this year until it was thoroughly revised. When the change in municipal administration came, on the first day of February last, the new corporation counsel, Mr. McDonald, acting on the points furnished him by his predecessor in office, Mr. Jenks, remedied the bill by breaking it up into numerous sections, and by specifically retaining as law certain sections from the present law. A corrected bill, No. 897, on February 22d, was thereupon substituted for bill No. 109. But the last bill contained many gross errors and omissions. For example: the requirements for thicknesses of warehouse walls commenced with warehouse walls over 60 feet in height; those under 60 feet in height were not provided for at all, and so it became necessary to insert in the bill a paragraph covering warehouse walls up to 40 feet and up to 50 feet and up to 60 feet in height. A very important requirement that in every building hereafter erected all the walls or partitions forming light or vent shafts, shall be built of brick or other fire-proof materials instead of wooden studs and lath and plaster, did not appear in the bill. On Building Commissioner Bush's attention being directed to the many defects, he called a conference in the Corporation Counsel's office on Monday last and the bill was promptly amended. The following day Mr. McDonald presented the amendments to the Committee on Cities of the Assembly in Albany, and the bill is now in course of being printed for the third time. The three gentlemen who were appointed by Mayor Boody last year as a committee to revise the building law, as well as the committee appointed by the Builders' Exchange for the same purpose, should give their best efforts to secure as complete and perfect a building law as possible, for public opinion will hold them, individually as well as collectively, to a strict accountability for the good or bad performance of the important trust confided to them in providing better protection of life and property and the more effectual prevention of fires in the great city of Brooklyn.

The Report of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

THE fifth annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission has just been received. Apparently we have not the faculty of gathering and tabulating statistics, which is characteristic of European State bureaus, because, with perhaps the exceptions of the Treasury statements and its reports of foreign commerce, information sent out from the several departments comes to hand too late to be of much, if any, service. Of this the volume under notice is a striking illustration because, though dated July 1 last, it is only now being circulated and treats of the year previous to the one in which it is subscribed, namely, for the year ending June 30, 1892. This report contains many details of railroad operation and management which will interest students of railroad statistics, classified in a way that makes them easily obtainable, but very little that for practicable purposes has not long since been supplied by the financial and technical papers of the country, and it must be stated also by the advance pamphlets of the Commission itself. The Commission itself is aware of the fact that a greater promptness in issuing its reports is desirable and is endeavoring to attain it. In sending out the report for 1893 attention is called to the fact that "this report is issued six months nearer the date to which it applies than any previous statistical report published by the Commission." The trouble appears to be mainly with the railroad companies, which are not required to file their report with the Commission until two and a-half months after the close of the fiscal year and yet many do not file them from six to ten months after that date.

Still the document contains some interesting pieces of information, especially if comparison is made with the first report sent out by the Commission dealing with the fiscal year ending June 30, 1888. In this interval of five years it appears that the proportion of the total capital of the railroads represented by stock had declined from 47.53 per cent in 1888 to 45.30 per cent in 1892, and that while 61.44 per cent of the stock paid no dividends in 1888 only 60.60 per cent was in the same position in 1892. The amount of stock per mile increased from $28,232 to $29,240 in five years, or 3.5 per cent. With less than 40 per cent of the stock capital paying dividends it follows that additions and improvements have to be made with borrowed money, consequently while the stock capital increased about $1,000 a mile the funded debt rose from $27,880 to $31,125, or by $3,245 per mile, being at the rate of 11.6 per cent. The proportion of the total capital funded was 49.41 per cent in 1892, as against 46.95 per cent in 1888. The proportion of the total bonds that paid no interest was 15.56 per cent in 1892, as against 21.69 per cent in 1888. This comparison would probably not hold good this year. Here comes in an instance where early information is of the utmost importance as bearing on the investment value of American railroad bonds, but unless the Commission can compel the railroad companies to make earlier returns and improve its own system of tabulating and publishing, it will not be until 1896 that the public will know how railroad bonds stood the test of these times. While a larger percentage of both stocks and bonds made some return on the investment in 1892 than in 1888, there was a decided tendency in the main to lower rates as will be seen from the following table, showing the several percentages of the totals of stocks and bonds in the two years receiving certain rates of dividends or interest:

	Per cent of total capital stock.		Per cent of total bonds.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

The tariff schedule reported by the Finance Committee of the Senate proposes some changes in duties on several articles more or less closely identified with structural operations, as compared with the original Wilson bill. In view of the vicissitudes to which the matter is likely to become subject in both the Senate and the House, it is useless to indulge in comment upon the provisions of the bill until a positive decision is reached.

BRICKS.—Since last writing some remarkably mild weather has prevailed, the result of which was to expedite work wherever any building operations were under way. No new jobs were opened up, however, or at least none of any importance, and the same high temperature that permitted continuous consumption also opened the river in part and at the present writing nine loads had come along from Haverstraw Bay. Only a small portion of them were sold, and to reach that culmination it is supposed that in some one way or another buyers secured moderate favors as compared with the combination quotation, which remains as before. No business is reported from held stock. Some Long Islands came on and sold at $5.75@6, Staten Islands at $5 and Jerseys at $4.50 up, and there is report of trading in Pales at $2. Generally the market is slow and unsatisfactory, and in one way or another manufacturers are endeavoring to round up affairs upon some sort of foundation for next season's work, but appear unwilling to reveal intentions. It is now reported that the move to form a trust has so far progressed that some more or less important properties are under course of valuation, but not including many of the leading makers' plants. It is quietly intimated further that a portion of the makers who are negotiating are quite willing to sell, and if A, B and C can appraise the property of D, E and F, and the latter in turn appraise the holdings of A, B and C, a report can be made to the promoter or promoters and in turn to capitalists for final decision.

GLASS.—There does not appear to be any great change either in form or volume of demand for window glass, and the tone of the market is unsettled. Some expressions of hopeful character are heard from the selling side, based upon the idea that in accord with custom a larger number of orders will be placed during the current month, but thus far the call has been principally of jobbing form, and buyers exhibit no anxiety in regard to the future. Offerings have been fair, and notwithstanding a material curtailment in productive capacity last month, those makers who are at work seem rather anxious to secure a market. Plate glass is also slowish and without any unusual strength on the general line of values.

LATH.—Soon after the publication of our last report a cargo came in and was promptly placed at $2.10 per M. Since then, for want of stock, th

We commence in this issue the publication of a series of articles on Private Property. They are from the pen of Professor Richard T. Ely, whose contributions to Political Economy in recent years have given him a foremost place among American investigators in this department of science. The purpose of the articles is to set forth in a clear, succinct manner the nature of private property, about which at present in the popular mind there are so many vague, confused, perplexing and even dangerous notions. It is needless to say that the subject is one of the highest interest to all intelligent citizens and is one that should particularly engage the attention of our readers, the activity of so many of whom is based upon private ownership of real estate.

THAT the stock market keeps its strength in spite of the character of current news, must be accepted as evidence of a very great change of feeling on the part of investors and speculators. If there was not a very strong belief that prices were low and general business improving, the market could not have resisted the evil influences of the passage of the Seigniorage Bill by the Senate and the report that the President hesitates to take a position on the measure; the strikes in the neighborhood of the city with their accompanying disorders; the conflict at Denver, the engagement of gold for shipment to England, rate-cutting on railroads, and other things that in times of high prices and diminishing business would have induced attacks on values with an almost certain prospect of success. But as it is there has been a week of continued strength and almost continued though slow advance. This could not certainly be the case, unless belief was strong that certain dangers to the situation would be speedily removed. There is, however, in some quarters whose opinions are entitled to respect, considerable nervousness occasioned by the fear that the President may be induced to sign the new inflation measure that has just been passed, in order that his veto of it may not prejudice the Tariff Bill, but it is hardly possible that political expedience will be carried so far. The looseness with which the bill is drawn makes the likelihood of a veto greater. It is a curious coincidence, if not a natural consequence, that the export of gold immediately follows the passage of the bill in the Senate as it did its adoption by the House; there is no doubt that the signing of the bill would be followed by further exports of the precious metal and there would be no doubt whatever of the cause of their shipment. If there were no other reasons for desiring the defeat of the Tariff Bill, this should be a potent one. If it were a question of both or neither of these two measures the best democratic in the country might with an easy conscience accept the latter alternative. Not only in the stock market has business been better but the report is general from most trade centres that business is slowly picking up in nearly all departments and the outlook which only a few weeks back threatened a relapse into gloominess is giving renewed signs of brightening.

AN explanation of the dullness in American securities in London is given by the Economist of that city in speaking of the Bland Seignorage Bill; it says: "The fact that such retrograde legislation is seriously contemplated cannot fail to revive the feeling of apprehension as to the stability of American currency and American securities which was so prevalent before the repeal of the Sherman act." The close of the English governmental fiscal year, now near at hand, will probably show receipts to be below expenditures by about $10,000,000. The crop returns for Ireland in 1893, unlike England, are good, production having increased in all the important departments excepting hay. The Bank of England is expected to pay a dividend of 9 per cent or one-half of 1 per cent less than last year. Money in London is very plentiful, with the demand continuing to grow. In France the Minister of Finance proposes to increase revenue by a clumsy device of check stamps, graded from ten to fifty centimes, according to the amount of the checks drawn. This would require the depositor in a bank to have five stamped check books or to use adhesive stamps. The French people are said to have only just got used to the employment of checks, and it is feared that this tax requirement will drive them back to old methods. Populist schemes are very rife now in the Chamber of Deputies. One deputy wants all foreigners excluded from the Bourse, another that deposit banks shall be limited in power to receive deposits in proportion to the amount of paid up capital, a third would have all advertisements and paid articles in newspapers taxed, and the Chamber of Commerce of Mazamet, a large manufacturing centre, demands that all speculative transactions in raw materials and other merchandise be taxed. The new duty on wheat is 7 francs per quintal, and that on flour 11 francs to 16 francs. They will be levied on all cargoes shipped since November 21st. During January, while these duties were being discussed, the wheat imported was valued at $23,000,000 compared with imports to the amount of $3,000,000 in January, 1893. It was of course all cleared in order to escape the duty. The returns show hor e trade to be active. The German public is hard to convince that order and prosperity can be soon restored to Italy, consequently the quotations for Italian rente in Berlin are not as settled as the authorities in both countries would like to have them. It is said that a new Italian bank will be founded with German capital and have its headquarters at Milan. Announcement is made of the adoption by the Reichstag of the treaty with Russia. The government intends to increase its silver in circulation by between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. Austrian exports increased over 10 per cent in 1893 compared with the preceding year, due to increase in price of many important articles as well as to quantity, which fact gives a good deal of satisfaction to the people. The British Australasian Colonies are making slow progress towards recovery of commercial health helped by an extraordinary cheapness of the elementary articles of consumption in the principal colonial centres. It is said bread is cheap, meat selling at merely nominal prices, and rent, owing to overbuilding, costs a mere song. But the fall in values of lands is causing many securities once good to become impaired.

WE are curious to see the fate of the Chamber of Commerce Rapid Transit Bill, which is now in the hands of the State Legislature. It is, beyond any doubt, the most practical and business-like and satisfactory plan that has yet been formulated; and it may be regarded as representing the final judgment of business men, crystallized under the pressure of public wants and the fatiguing investigation, discussion and scheming of the last two years. Indeed, we might go further and say of the last twenty-five or twenty-six years. The plan, moreover, not only has the indorsement of the Chamber of Commerce and the Real Estate Exchange, two bodies which represent a very large part of the greater merchants and land owners of the city, but is also supported by a pronounced public sentiment. Not a newspaper in the city stands in opposition to the scheme. Not a single individual, prominent in any of the professions or in any of the departments of commercial life, is opposed to it. There can be no doubt that if the people of the city were to vote upon this measure to-morrow, freed from all obliquities of "politics," seven-eighths of the votes would be cast in favor of it. In any country of the world where even a semblance of popular government prevails this support would insure a speedy passage of the measure. In the Empire State nothing of the kind is certain. Popular government with us is always tempered with "politics" and modified by special interests. It is therefore not by any means sure that the Chamber of Commerce bill will be passed. It will, of course, be treated with superficial respect and with much consideration and discussion, but whether it becomes a law will depend largely upon political circumstances, and the intensity of the opposition it will encounter in Albany and elsewhere from the large vested interests which already occupy the Rapid Transit field in New York. Naturally they are not desirous of competition.

THAT we are not exaggerating the uncertainty of action in accord with the public will may easily be shown. On Thursday representatives of the Chamber of Commerce—the very body pushing the Rapid Transit matter—appeared in the Senate Chamber to protest against the Bi-Partisan Police Commissioners' Bill. In the course of his address the representative of that body, by far the most influential in the commercial world, declared "that the police department of New York City is absolutely rotten;" that it is the "main source of corruption in the city government;" that it is "absolutely essential to good government" that there should be reform and reorganization of that department, and that the Chamber of Commerce absolutely opposed the Bi-Partisan Bill. No one whatever in New York City doubts the correctness of these statements. It would probably be impossible to discover among all the educated of the professional and mercantile ranks a dozen who favor the Bi-Partisan plan save as a matter of politics. The Chamber of Commerce is not a partisan body, and it is in no sense an exaggeration to say that were the words it uttered on Thursday in Albany pronounced on the floor of any legislative body outside the limits of this country they would produce general consternation and dismay. The effect would be revolutionary. But with us what is the effect of these shameful and degrading statements solemnly made on the floor of the highest legislative body in the State by a representative of the greatest commercial body in the State. Nothing, absolutely nothing. Positively no more attention is given to them than to the crying of a street hawker. The public read in their papers what was said, admit the truth of it, and proceed about their affairs as though the matter was not of any real significance. As to the legislators they listen gravely to statements of facts of which they are perfectly conversant, and immediately the farce of "hearing" is broken up proceed to the game of politics which Platt and Croker are playing with one another. The Bi-Partisan Bill promptly received favorable report and the Chamber of Commerce, the common sense, the moral sense of the community are slapped in the face. "Politics" is the thing. It is by no means certain, therefore, that the Chamber of Commerce Bill for Rapid Transit will be received at Albany in the manner it would be received in any other legislative body in the world. "Politics" will surely be interjected into it, and private interests will tamper with it, unless the people of this city awake and fight for the measure. We mean they must actually get up and declare themselves. The approval of silence and indifference from a faineant public, which in nine cases out of ten is what is meant by "popular support," will be of no service.

Private Property.—I.*

PRIVATE PROPERTY THE FIRST FUNDAMENTAL INSTITUTION IN THE DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH.

By Richard T. Ely, University of Wisconsin.

IT is well at once to locate our inquiries concerning private property. Investigations into the nature and operations of private property in modern society belong to that part of political economy which is called the distribution of wealth. The distribution of wealth embraces two lines of investigation: First, into that division of the income of society, namely, of the wealth annually produced for consumption, which may be traced to the different factors in production, that is to say, land, labor, capital and enterprise; the second, into the division of the income of society among the various units in the social organism. Rent, wages, interest and profits are treated when we follow the first line of inquiry, and individual incomes when we pursue the second. While the two are closely related, it is manifest that they are by no means identical. It is one question what share of the annual income of society goes to wages, and another what is the income of wage earner A. The present series of articles is concerned chiefly with inquiries of the second class. We are to consider private property in its relation to the ultimate share in the social product received by the units of society, whether these units be individuals, or families, or other groups.

The distinction which John Stuart Mill makes between the production and the distribution of wealth is helpful at the very beginning of our studies of private property. He tells us that the production of wealth is wholly governed by natural laws, whereas the distribution of wealth is entirely under social control. Men must utilize the forces of material nature when they produce material goods, but having once produced them they may distribute them as they see fit. There can be little doubt that Mill's statement contains exaggeration both with respect to production and to distribution, for the former is to a greater extent under social control than he supposed, whereas the latter at any given time and place is to a less degree susceptible of social control. Nevertheless, the distinction is an important one, and brings before us a truth which is more and more felt, namely, that the distribution of wealth is to a large extent susceptible of regulation by society, and that society is, in consequence, responsible for the distribution which takes place.

Still another distinction must be kept in mind in any inquiry into the various phases of distribution, and that is the distinction between the statics and the dynamics of distribution. The statics of distribution has to do with that distribution which exists at any moment, without relation to past or future distribution. The dynamics of distribution considers present distribution in relation both to past and to future distribution. It takes into account the movements of society. Now this fact of movement in society, of social change and growth, is one which is too often overlooked. Social changes proceed more rapidly than changes in external nature, and yet, even when as rapid as they have been during the past century, they are slow in comparison with the life of the individual. The ordinary man, in consequence, looks upon what he sees about him as permanent, although even while he contemplates it it may be passing away. Let the reader reflect on the new things in our material civilization which have come into being since the Declaration of Independence, and he will not be surprised when told that the United States of to-day is more like the Germany of to-day than it is like the United States of 1776. We need scarcely mention railways, telegraphs, telephones, gas, electric light, anthracite coal and petroleum. One has but to walk out on the streets and use his eyes to perceive the truth of what is said. But the laws and institutions of society have also changed. Slave labor and serfdom were common in 1776 and a proposal then to make labor free throughout the length and breadth of civilization would have been regarded as wildly utopian. The concentration of capital has given production a new character and rendered it social in a sense formerly scarcely known. Economic changes in the past hundred years have been so numerous and so far-reaching that they have been summed up in the expression "The Industrial Revolution," and they have had the most powerful influence on the distribution of wealth.

First of all, in the distribution of wealth, comes the existing social order, and no inquiries concerning the distribution of wealth can be thorough which neglect this. It is precisely the defect of the older English economists—and to some considerable degree of the English and American economists of to-day—that they take for granted the existing social order; whereas it is the peculiar merit of the German economists that they analyze and explain this order. The existing social order is not something which may be taken for granted, for that itself is an historical product, subject to slow but perpetual change; and every change in it produces a corresponding change in the distribution of wealth. The main features of this social order are personal conditions—those conditions under which natural persons exist and work; contract in its varying conditions, private property and vested interests. Upon these, as a basis, distribution is brought about by forces like custom and competition, authority, monopoly and benevolence. But the first fundamental institution in the existing social order is private property, including the modes of its acquisition, especially inheritance.

The statement respecting private property may be formulated thus: The first fundamental institution in the distribution of wealth is the sphere of private property and its relation to public property. The sphere of private property points to what we may technically call the extensivity and the intensivity of property rights. The extensivity of property rights calls attention to the number of things which are included in private property, and the intensivity to the number of rights which private property, where it exists, carries with it. The extensivity of private property is something which varies before our eyes. Our public domain has during the past generation been transformed for the most part into private property, while, on the other hand, public parks in many cities are parts of what was once private property, and public waterworks were frequently once private property. The railways of Prussia, now public property, were once private property. Public and private property then are continually undergoing change. We have to do with their mutual relations in any careful investigation into the distribution of wealth. Any change in the extensivity of private property brings with it change in the division of the social income among the social units. But private property when it exists must not be conceived of as something fixed and unalterable. Its content varies perpetually. If conceived of as a bundle of rights, this bundle becomes now larger, now smaller. Changes in the intensivity of property likewise produce changes in the general welfare.

We take society as it exists at any given moment. We assume that men and women in society retain their present characteristics. They become neither more nor less intelligent, more nor less thrifty, more nor less moral. Yet a change in property will produce its corresponding change in distribution, and scarcely any limit can be set to possible alterations in wealth distribution which may result from alterations in the institution of private property. Naturally these changes themselves must react in one way or another upon those who comprise society, and thus produce still further modifications in the distribution of wealth. Unless this is fully grasped in its entire import, the questions of the day cannot be understood. Very likely when the reader discusses socialism and the proposals of the socialists to bring about what they deem a more equitable distribution of wealth, he will still be told as of old that if wealth should be equally distributed to-day the inequalities of which the socialists complain would reappear to-morrow. The one, however, who makes this reply does not grasp the nature of the problem under discussion: he conceives that the social order remains unchanged and that property is distributed equally. Now what the socialists want is not a change in the distribution of wealth with the maintenance of the existing social order, but a radical alteration in that order itself.

* A series of articles upon this subject by this eminent economist is herewith commenced.

It is especially private property in the instruments of production which they would have abolished and replaced by public property. While this proposal may be good or bad—with that we are not at present concerned—there can be no doubt that the change the socialists have in mind is a cause sufficient to produce the end proposed, so far as the distribution of the actually existing wealth at a given moment may be concerned.

WHILE Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade, and other organizations that are supposed to have large influence in finance are cudgeling their brains to find a means of effectually opposing wild schemes for bridging the Hudson would it not be best to give a little attention to the Hudson River Tunnel, and see if some means cannot be found for completing that unfinished work? Among practical men who know that investments are made with a view to pecuniary reward the danger of a bridge across the mile wide river is not thought to be imminent. Such a work is estimated to cost $100,000,000 by the projectors themselves, when they are honest enough to announce their plans without any attempt at humbug; and $100,000,000 is a huge sum of money to obtain through stock subscriptions, even after making all the allowance for the hocus—pocus of finance. To what end, then, are these mercantile organizations up in arms against the schemes? We might look to see opposition from the Real Estate Exchange, for the agitation of the subject is known to affect the real estate market unfavorably; but the common run of mercantile organizations are not supposed to be concerned with such a consideration, and their opposition must rest upon other foundations, and be inspired by what they conceive to be a real danger. But, whatever the motive of their resistance, they could make this opposition most effectual by using their influence in favor of the Hudson River tunnel, for when that work is completed it will be seen at once what a crazy scheme the bridge promoters are trying to inflate. We want the railway terminals in New York, but we want them under ground where they will not be obstrusive and where they will not contribute to the blockade of streets already congested beyond the limit of patient endurance. We commend this suggestion to those belligerent organizations. We know that men act according to the dictates of human nature when they try to knock out and refuse to promote other men's schemes; but there might be an exception made for once.

The Amende Honorable.

The following correspondence explains itself:

NEW YORK, March 9, 1894.

PETER F. MEYER, ESQ., 111 Broadway:

DEAR SIR—At the hearing yesterday in Albany, before the Judiciary Committee of the Assembly, upon the bill providing for the removal of the legal sales, you stated publicly before the Committee that you paid me a share of the fees received by you as auctioneer upon the sale of certain property belonging to the New York Hospital (referring probably to a sale of certain hospital lands in 1889), and on my immediate denial of this statement, you asserted that it was true, and that you could produce the proofs and would produce the check.

You knew that I was at the time of this sale, as now, one of the Governors of the New York Hospital and acting as a trustee in the matter referred to, and your charge therefore was, that I, while acting for the New York Hospital as a member of that Board, had received some part of your fees as an auctioneer.

This statement was repeated in one of the newspapers of to-day, namely, the New York Times, to which I call your attention. After the meeting I told you I should require from you a public retraction, and you stated you must examine your books. I again pronounce your statement absolutely false and absolutely without foundation, and as you said that you could and would supply the proofs, I demand of you that you do supply the proofs as publicly as you made the statement. I propose to follow up this subject and insist upon your proof, or a complete retraction of the statement.

Yours respectfully,

H. H. CAMMANN.

NEW YORK, March 12, 1894.

H. H. CAMMANN, ESQ.:

DEAR SIR—I am in receipt of your note referring to a statement made by me at Albany, on the 8th instant, to the effect that I had paid you a share of the fees or commissions on a sale made for the New York Hospital, and of which corporation you were a Governor, and which sale was given to my firm through you.

On investigation I find I was entirely in error; no part of any such fee or commission was ever so paid you, and I readily take the first opportunity to retract my statement and regret that it was made.

Yours truly,

PETER F. MEYER.

Obituary.

ALFRED K. MONTGOMERY.

Alfred K. Montgomery died at his home in the North Side, No. 666 East 135th street, on Tuesday last, in his twenty-seventh year, of hasty consumption. Mr. Montgomery has been identified with the real estate business in his section of the city pretty much all his life. He was formerly a member of the firm of James Montgomery & Sons, on Alexander avenue, but for the last three years was engaged as manager for the North End Land Improvement Co., of Searsdale.

A City of High Buildings.

The high building has hitherto been a matter for unsophisticated wonder, tempered and made respectable by an admiration for the mechanical skill it represents as well as administrative ability in the getting of so many thousands of tons of material together and in place in a given and very limited space of time. But now the high building is the cause of very serious thought as to whether it ought to exist at all, not only on artistic but also on hygienic and sanitary grounds. Admittedly its only raison d'etre is the hope of pecuniary success. It is due to an architect, and one of the greatest sinners in this line, as well as one whose interest would probably be injured by the abandonment of the practice, that attention has been drawn to what the enterprise of our landowners is leading us into. A remark dropped by Mr. George B. Post at a meeting of the Architectural League, has awakened the public mind to the possibility of a city built up of high buildings, and opened the discussion of the question, how far these structures would add to the unwholesomeness of the city.

The prospect of the city being rebuilt in twenty-story buildings, on the existing lines of thoroughfare, evokes only one feeling, that of horror. It would mean a dank, dark city, with windy cellar-like streets. Of course this consideration raises the question whether the streets could not be widened sufficiently to make the presence of the high building of to-day admissible, but a moment's consideration will show that this is not possible; the probable expense alone forbids it, to say nothing of the time that would be required in the settlement of the many legal complications that would arise. Each high building that goes up will make these difficulties greater, and there are already enough to make them insuperable. How for instance, would it be possible to make Broadway and Nassau street of sufficient width to accommodate continuous lines of buildings two or three hundred feet high, with proper regard for architectural effect and public health? That modest experiment alone would involve the obliteration of the present east side of Broadway and the west side of Nassau street, in both of which there are already new buildings. It would not be possible to have two streets of the necessary width between the west side of Broadway and the eastern line of Nassau street. This illustration alone will show that any idea of preventing the dangers which the general adoption of the high building threatens is impracticable. So the only consideration remains is, should the closing up of the city by high buildings be prevented? There are some who not unreasonably hold that it is one of those evils that correct themselves. This means that if carried much further this manner of creating office space would by reason of its too great extent become unremunerative and consequently the erection of high buildings would cease because they failed to pay. But would not that be only a temporary effect? It would only be necessary for the requirements to grow up to the supply when the evil would have new life and increased vigor. That has been the case before and undoubtedly would be again. Twelve or fifteen years ago the Mills Building was supposed to have set the seal on extravagance in office buildings and yet it is one of the best occupied buildings in the city. It contains much less office space, compared with its area, than do the buildings of the day in its immediate vicinity. With the practice carried on in the same direction of what proportions will be the competitor of the Manhattan Life building ten years from now? With modern systems of building no limit can be fixed to the height of a building unless one is fixed by law. Anyway, the discussion has been begun and the subject is too great from so many important points of view to be allowed to drop until it is found that the raising of high buildings is not preventable or that their erection is done under regulations which will prevent any evils clearly to be foreseen. With a view of gauging somewhat the feeling of the architects and the medical profession on the case the following opinions have been collected, and as they speak so well for themselves are published without comment:

Mr. George B. Post: "It is true that I made a statement at a meeting of the Architectural League for the purpose of suggesting a most interesting subject for discussion. Whether the time has come or not for considering this question I do not know, but that it will come in the future is perfectly certain. Of course owners of property will make their buildings just as high as they can rent them. They are practically getting two or three buildings, according to the old standard, on one lot. Now, suppose for the sake of argument that four or five enormously tall buildings are erected near to each other on the narrow streets in the business part of the city, streets averaging about 35 feet wide, the owners of the adjoining property would be forced in protection to themselves to also erect high buildings. When this is done, looking at the thing in its purely commercial aspect, their lower stories will all be damp, dark and unrentable, and with a much larger outlay they will be not so well off as they would be if they had originally erected eight or ten-story buildings. The building of tall buildings will have a most disastrous effect on the value of all small pieces of property, and no property will be worth much that is not suitable for the erection of one of these enormously tall structures. At the time when an effort was made, some four or five years ago, by some of our citizens to procure the passage of an act regulating the height of buildings, I refused to assist them by expressing an opinion in favor of the law, or actively in any way, on the ground that the thing regulated itself, that the necessary size of the basement piers would limit the height to which a building could be constructed. That limit did prove itself to be about ten or twelve stories. It is the introduction and the legalisation of the steel-cage construction that renders it possible to build to almost any height provided the foundation can be secured which makes the matter a fair and grave consideration at the present time. We have no reason to suppose that the limit of height has been reached in any building that has heretofore been planned. If I were to be retained now to construct a building on a large lot with a good foundation, and were directed to secure the largest possible interest on the cost of land and building by rentals, I should strongly recommend my client, in the absence of any law to the contrary, to take six months longer than the usual year for the construction of his building, and to make it very much higher than anything that has ever yet been built or contemplated in the city. So far I have treated on the commercial aspect of the question alone. In a sanitary point of view, these tall buildings are an outrage. One tall building in a block would do no particular damage, but a narrow street crowded with them would be a horrible nuisance from a sanitary point of view. As to the architectural effect, a single excessively tall building may be very handsome if studied as a tower, but I cannot imagine a good architectural effect if whole blocks are built solidly to the height of two, three or four hundred feet, particularly in streets so narrow and where there are so few open spaces as in the lower part of the city."

Mr. R. W. Gibson: "I think we are all agreed that the tall buildings are somewhat detrimental, but I do not see how we are going to stop them on that account. The right that every man has to use his own property as he thinks best is not very easily limited, and especially when some owners have established an enjoyment of it it would be still more difficult to stop adjoining owners from doing the same thing. It seems to me, too, that the objections to the high buildings have been rather exaggerated. I do not think there is any likelihood of our seeing moss growing in streets of high buildings, as I have seen suggested somewhere. I believe that the only logical remedy would be to give any real estate owner some right to compensation if his reasonable use of his own property was injured by the unreasonable use of an adjoining property. For that purpose it would be necessary to define what is a reasonable use; for instance, in a certain street a man has an expectation of a certain amount of light, but does not always depend upon the width of the street. Take a street like Pine street; in that street you could not say that a building should be only so many times the width of the street. Probably such a rule would only apply to the avenues. But on the whole I do not see any likelihood of the institution of limitations except the natural one of physical facts of difficulties which every one will recognize. I do not say anything about the artistic side of the question; the practical side is the only one that has any weight. The question of art has had nothing to do with height since architecture began. Height is a great element of beauty, some of the most celebrated buildings are the highest. What limits the artistic merit in business buildings is the lack of money and space for grand work; in the latter I mean that we would produce more artistic effects if we had not to arrange for so much office space on every floor."

F. H. Kimball: "As to the architectural difficulties to be met with in designing sky-scrapers and the effect of such enormously high structures on the general health of those who must do business on the ground floors, I may not be able to contribute ideas of any value on the subject. Columns have been written lately by critics giving what may seem unanswerable reasons why their peculiar notions on the subject of high building architecture should not be taken as a standpoint and guide to architects of high buildings of the future; therefore, it is needless for me to waste any time in a discussion on this subject. One thing is certain, a high building affects the architectural scale of the entire neighborhood. It is impossible to conform to any given rule of proportion where a building is 75 feet wide and 300 feet high, especially one in the middle of a block. On a corner there is a little better chance. It is hardly possible that a law could be passed fixing the extreme height of buildings and give general satisfaction, especially so when land is as expensive as it is now in the lower part of the city. Limiting a building to 100 or 125 feet in height means a general fall in real estate prices. No doubt if some such regulations were instituted as are in vogue in Paris, prescribing style as well as height, it would be the most satisfactory in the end but the income derived from a medium high building would not satisfy those owners who have means and can gratify their ambition for building sky-scrapers or Venetian campaniles of indefinite height by reason of the successful solution of steel-cage construction and caisson foundations. But there are other difficulties to consider perhaps as important as any of those mentioned, and that is how will the firemen manage to reach a fire in the upper story? I will leave that for others, who are better able than I to solve the problem Personally I should favor a fixed height of not over 125 feet, not merely to the main roof, but to the very highest point."

Mr. Mead, of McKim, Mead & White, said while his firm was not prepared to express an opinion, they agreed with Mr. Post. The tall buildings were, however, a matter of experiment largely. From an æsthetic point of view they were, of course, all wrong; handsome cities would be impossible if they were to be allowed to become general. The beauty of some European cities arose partly from the fact that restrictions were put on the heights of the buildings. There were restrictions on apartment houses in this city, and there was no reason why they should not be extended to office buildings.

Mr. J. R. Thomas said: "I think the erection of tall buildings a craze that will not last for a very long while, for many reasons. In the first place, I believe it is poor economy. It has been demonstrated in Chicago that the limit on expensive land for an office building is sixteen stories, for good economy; my own judgment would place it at fourteen or fifteen, when you take into consideration the extra cost of the stories above that and the small chance of renting them at that height. One great objection, if this is carried much further, will arise from the pressure of the wind which will be forced through the crevices that the streets will become like water in the rapids of Niagara. This alone will compel legislation to find a remedy. I noticed that in a recent wind storm in Chicago, it was almost impossible for people to get across the streets, and in one case it was necessary to form a double line of policemen to help the people to cross. That, in my opinion, was not due so much to the severity of the storm as the narrow channel through which the wind had to pass. There is a great objection, from a sanitary point of view, inasmuch as the buildings would keep the sun out of the streets to a very large extent. There can be artistic towers, of course, but in a city like this there would be no place to see them from. Another very important objection is that the skeleton construction has not been fully tested yet and ought, I think, to be before the experiment goes much further. Undoubtedly, I believe that if the craze for high building goes much further it will have to be stopped."

Mr. W. Wheeler Smith: "In considering this matter we must remember that New York is peculiarly situated, that its area is very limited, and as a consequence its land very valuable. I would love dearly to see New York an artistic city, but to secure this its control has got to be put into the hands of some educated authority. We cannot have what they have in Paris because we have not the same educated governmental supervision. We are not under the domination of an educated body of men or men with any architectural or artistic knowledge whatever, but of men who want to take away the old city hall, the only good municipal building we have, leaving the Tweed court house and fill up the park space. Consequently we can not have the result attained in Paris, the capital of the most artistic race in the world, this result being secured under a monarchy and controlled by a department composed of men of keen artistic sense. Such a result is unattainable in New York in the lifetime of any one now living because we have not the men to bring it about. I cannot express an opinion on the many points raised by this question. It appears to me that the thing will work itself out. Meantime the demands of the owners will secure the results they desire. At the same time I cannot admit that the tall building will not permit artistic treatment in its design. The campanile of Italy is not inartistic and yet it is a tall building. Nor do I think the architect need shrink from the task of placing a twelve-story building alongside of a twenty-story building; it is for him to work out an artistic effect from the situation. What I think is the great trouble is the rushing pell-mell into building so that everything may be done in one year. Artistic effects are produced by long and hard study and the reason why tall buildings are not works of art is because the architects have not had given them the necessary time for study."

Mr. William J. Fryer, chairman of the Commission which drafted the State building laws now pending in the Legislature at Albany, on being asked his views of the suggestion to limit by law the heights of buildings, said: "This proposition is a revival of an old one which has received the fullest consideration by the committees who have had in charge the work of revising the New York building law during the past fifteen years. In the building law of 1885 a stop limit of 70 feet was put on non-fire-proof buildings. Two years later the limit was raised to 80, and in 1892 it was further raised to 85 feet, the new water supply and increased pressure making it possible to as effectively control a fire at 85 feet as in former years at 70 feet. Nearly ten years ago the Fire Commissioners requested the Revision Committee to put a stop limit in the law for the heights of all buildings. This the committee refused to do, but they prepared with much care requirements for the construction of such buildings as were to exceed the limit of height for non-fire-proof structures. Later on the committee formulated rules for the construction of fire-proof structures when built on the skeleton system, and these latter requirements in the present law have received much criticism as being too extreme, particularly from architects and engineers in the West, where a comparatively flimsy construction is used for high buildings. The Architectural League has made no announcement as to what height it would limit buildings. When its members reach that point in their discussion, they will probably fall to differing greatly among themselves. Chief Bonner says that the greatest height the Fire Department can effectively cope with fire is 100 feet. This establishes what should be the limit of height for buildings in this city from a fire standpoint. The theory of the building law is, that if a building is to be carried up above the height where fire can be controlled, the entire building must be so constructed that if a fire occurs in any part of it the fire will burn itself out without serious damage to the structure itself and without endangering surrounding buildings. New York has now a large number of the most substantial fire-proof buildings of varying heights, all the way up to 350 feet, the Manhattan Life building being the highest, and the one that is higher than any building in Chicago or elsewhere. About a year ago the Common Council of Chicago passed an ordinance prohibiting the erection of any building in excess of 130 feet. Two years ago Boston put a stop limit of 125 feet on her buildings. There were good reasons for both of these cities to adopt stop limits, for Chicago has poor soil to build on, and Boston has very narrow streets, almost alleyways, in her business quarter. New York has underlying rock for her buildings to stand upon, and her streets, with a few exceptions, are broad, and her laws have secured strong and enduring buildings. None of New York's high buildings will topple over, nor their walls burst out in consequence of fire.

"But the Architectural League members may say: 'Oh, it is not that we have any doubt about the strength and stability of high buildings; it is on æsthetic and sanitary grounds that we object to excessively high buildings.' With the æsthetic part the State has nothing whatever to do. If the present race of architects are unequal to designing artistic fronts for buildings whose height are out of all preconceived proportion to their widths, a new race of architects will prove equal to their opportunities. Laws are made in the interest of the public safety and welfare, and if it can be shown that excessively high buildings are a menace in case of fire or tornado or earthquake, or affect the general health and comfort of the community, no increase in their numbers should be allowed, but the prohibition must be on these grounds only. The prudent forethought for light, air and sunshine in a great city deserves quite as much consideration as the safe construction of buildings, and so there is the sanitary aspect of this proposition to limit the height of all buildings to be considered.

"When, in 1885, the Legislature passed a special law, at the solicitation of certain well-intentioned gentlemen, to limit the height of dwelling houses, arguments were used to show that any building in excess of 80 feet in height exercised a baneful influence on surrounding property and adjacent streets, by casting shadows and creating wind currents. One of the most earnest advocates of the passage of this law was the World newspaper, yet only a few years thereafter its proprietor put up a business structure for himself that towers high up toward the sky. The representative of this measure at Albany, on being asked why the bill did not include business structures as well as buildings for residence purposes, declared that the bill was intended only as the entering wedge to limit the height of all structures to 80 feet, but for fear of too much opposition they would proceed step by step. Any quantity of sanitary expert testimony—the same that was used ten years ago—is available to-day to show that from a sanitary standpoint the limit of height for buildings should not be in excess of 80 feet. This special law which undertook to limit the height of residence buildings became a dead letter long ago except in its application to private dwellings, tenement houses and ordinary apartment houses. The framers of the law intended it to apply to hotels, and the lower courts held that it did, but the Court of Appeals eventually decided otherwise, and hotels were eliminated from the operation of the act. By the common sense rulings of the Building Department hotel apartment houses were given a clearance too, and since the date when that law was passed a number of magnificent tall hotels have been erected and a great number of mammoth and costly apartment houses of the modern kind have also been erected. Fairly without exception all the sky-scrapers in this city have been erected since the date when these well-intentioned gentlemen referred to started in for sanitary reasons to limit the height ot all buildings to 80 feet.

"If buildings are to be limited in height we have before us the highest authorities, the fireman who says 100 feet and the physicians who say 80 feet. Take the average between these experts and say 90 feet. Will the Architectural League agree to this limitation as the extreme height for all buildings hereafter erected? If not, why not? Surely they cannot consistently ask for a legal right to go higher than is shown to be the public's interest as regards fire and health. Ninety feet it must be or we must be allowed to go on with the erection of modern, tall edifices two or three times ninety feet in height. Solid rows of 90-foot buildings will probably cast just as many shadows on adjoining buildings, will darken the streets and cause wind currents to an extent approximately the same as though the buildings are to be 125 feet, or 150 feet, or, for the matter of that, 300 feet, The principle in the skeleton structure is the Eiffel Tower, with an outward covering added to the steel of stone or other materials. The modern high building is a marvel of engineering skill, make possible by the wonderful development of the elevator, and these joint inventions have not only come to stay but are destined to accomplish yet more surprising things. We have passed the 350-foot line in height; who will say 500 feet will not be reached.

"Thanks to the building law, which has not restricted the heights of buildings when safely constructed and fire-proof, the value of lots on choice streets and avenues has been doubled and trebled during the past few years. A lot upon which a ten-story building stands—about the limit in height that the construction in vogue not many years ago would allow—is, of course, now worth more commercially when a twenty-story building can be erected thereon. Real estate owners and brokers have not been slow to recognize this fact. Is it to be supposed that the real estate men will allow the wheels of advancement to be set backwards because a few architects have a pet notion or two? Eventually this entire island will be covered with elevator buildings and five millions of people will be housed in a safer, healthier and more luxurious manner than any five millions of people that ever existed. It is one thing to talk about limiting the height of buildings and another thing to do it. Ten years ago one single man could have put in the building law a stop limit for height, as there was put in at that time a limitation for the areas of buildings. To-day a lesser number of men than the fingers on one's hands could, and undoubtedly would, prevent the passage of any law to limit the height of buildings. The Architectural League, being without legislative experience or political influence, and probably unwilling to provide the capital that might be required in order to obtain a recognition of the overwhelming merits of what a few or many persons might deem a measure in the public interest, would meet with ignominious defeat in a legislative contest with those who think otherwise. If the League only wants to talk about the desirability of a limitation of height no one can object. If it proposes to try and get legislation to that end my advice would be Punch's—don't.

Dr. Cyrus Edson, Health Commissioner of the City of New York, when questioned as to the effect on public health of a city built up with high buildings said in effect that the density of population, as was well known, had a direct effect on the death rate, the rate being higher in proportion to the density. The more people who came together on a given space of ground the more unwholesome they made the surroundings. There were only two cities in the world of greater density of population than New York, Cairo and Venares; and density of population taken into account the death rate in New York was very low, lower even than that of London, the lowest in the world. Anything done to render the population more dense would raise the death rate. The bringing together of a larger number of people in any given district, even for the day only for purposes of business, would be prejudicial to health; if the high buildings did this they would raise the death rate. An occasional high building he did not consider injurious, but a limit should be put to it if the practice was carried to excess. He condemned the use for business of places cut off from sun and air and instanced the New York Stock Exchange, which he said was a most objectionable place for men to do business in, built as it was in a narrow street and overshadowed by tall buildings. The city built up solidly with high buildings would be damp and unwholesome, the streets would be cellar-like excavations and the resulting mortality undoubtedly higher, no one could say how much, but probably higher than among a population just as dense, but living on the surface. However, he could not see that there was any reason for interference now, or how it would be possible to interfere. The mere fact that people are brought together in a city raised the death rate, and he could not see where the line was to be drawn. Every human industry had its resulting mortality. The operation of a railroad was the direct cause of loss of life and so were many other great works, but no one would think of preventing them on that account, and it might be just as impossible to prevent the building of high buildings simply for the same cause.

Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton: "I believe on general principles that the high buildings are a disadvantage and that anything that shuts sunlight out of the streets—as sunshine is the best bacteriacide we know of—is prejudicial to health. Of course the ordinary building shuts out some sunlight, but the tall buildings would shut it out altogether from a large part of the places where people would work and live and create the conditions in which bacteria and microbes flourish best. A great deal of sickness is due to damp and darkness and that is one cause of the anemic or bloodless condition of people who live in tenement houses which are so constructed that the sun cannot penetrate into the rear rooms of the tenements. I do not think any house should be built so high as to prevent the sun from shining on the street most of the day. My opinions are founded on nine years' experience in the Board of Health. It would be a great advantage to New York City if people could be induced to get out into the country where they belong and encouraged to build in the annexed district or Long Island. I cannot understand this desire of everyone to get upon one spot. High buildings would be particularly objectionable in the older parts of the city where the ground is low, where there is a great deal of filling in and which is affected by tidewash and percolations through the soil; taking these conditions and the darkness they would occasion they would undoubtedly do a great deal of mischief."

Mr. E. D. Lindsey: "I cannot help thinking that the system of erecting such tall buildings is contrary to the best interests of architecture and fear that they are going to ruin the city from an architectural point of view, and further, that one of these days questions involving the safety of life and health will be raised as a consequence of their presence. The enormous height these buildings are carried to, in spite of the fire arrangements that may be made interiorly, precludes any possibility of fires being taken care of by the Fire Department in the ordinary way, and the fire-proof quality of a building will not prevent a local fire from taking place in it which probably could not always be taken care of by the employes of the building with the apparatus furnished. Then I most certainly have the hope that the rage for making as much money out of a given piece of land, or for crowding everything that is best into one section of the city, which amounts to the same thing, will some day come to an end. Any one who passes through some of our streets down town where he has to look up two or three times before his eyes reach the top of the buildings and will then go into some of the open streets or squares with buildings of moderate height, will, if he thinks anything about the matter, be compelled to confess that the low buildings have pleased him better than the high ones. While I say this I dare say I should be delighted with an order for a building five or six hundred feet high and should very likely do my best to carry out such an order. At the same time I should prefer to build steeples in connection with churches rather than by themselves if I could have my say."

New Corporations.

During the week, the following companies have filed articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State at Albany:

The Irvington Heights Association, to deal in real estate in Greenburgh, Westchester County; capital, $25,000; directors, Frank S. Edminster, Henry B. Platt and Willett F. Cook, of New York.

The Walter D. Starr Company of New York, to deal in lumber; capital, $20,000; directors, Walter D. Starr, David S. Winne and George T. Hancock, of New York.

The Intrepid Association, Leffert's Park, New Utrecht, to deal in real estate in New Utrecht; capital, $15,000; directors, Louis Kromrach, Eugene J. Schultz, Charles Hartman and Joseph L. Quesebury, of Brooklyn, and others.

Removal Notice.

P. J. Brennan, the well-known mason and builder, has removed his office from No. 313 3d avenue to 63 West 22d street, on the northeast corner of 6th avenue. Mr. Brennan recently completed extensive alterations at No. 29 Cortlandt street, corner of Church, for the Babcock & Wilcox Co., also the building for the Wayfarers' Home on 28th street, near 10th avenue. The architects in both instances being Constable Bros.

Legislation at Albany.

ALBANY, March 15.—Political legislation regarding New York City is becoming prominent in both branches of the Legislature. Thus the Assembly Committee on Cities this week reported favorably the bill of Assemblyman Robertson, the Republican representative from the 27th Assembly District of New York, increasing the salaries of all grades of policemen, the municipal and the park. The bill, if it becomes a law, will add $75.000 to the yearly expenses of the Police Department and $30,000 to the expenses of the Park Department, or $100,000 in all. And it will not be for one year alone; it will be a "fixed charge," like the "fixed charge" against a railroad corporation, for all time to come. It is needless to say that Mr. Robertson is seeking the favor of the policemen for himself and his political party in pressing the bill. Mayor Gilroy and Richard Croker, on the other hand, have instructed Assistant Corporation Counsel Blandy to oppose the measure, and this he did at the committee meeting at which it was decided to report the bill favorably.

While the leaders of Tammany Hall are thus opposing any increase of salaries to the policemen they are pushing increases of salaries to some of the highly paid Tammany Hall heads of city departments. Thus at the same meeting of the Assembly Committee on Cities at which the Tammany Hall Assemblymen opposed any increase of salaries to the policemen they voted unanimously to report favorably a bill of ex-Speaker Sulzer increasing the salary of the President of the Department of Taxes and Assessments to $8,000 a year and of his fellow Commissioners to $6,000 a year. There is also a bill before the Assembly presented by one of the Tammany Hall Assemblymen increasing the salary of Superintendent Brady, of the Department of Buildings, to $7,500 yearly.

The Republican Senators took another step forward with their chief political measure this afternoon. This is the bill of Senator Lexow abolishing the present Board of Police Commissioners of New York and setting up another with the requirement that it shall contain two Democrats and two Republicans. Nearly two-thirds of the Republican members of the Legislature favor this bill, believing that it will give their voters protection at the polls and put an end to the use of the police by their Democratic opponents in the intimidation of storekeepers to vote the Democratic ticket. Nevertheless, that powerful Republican organization, the Union League Club, is opposed to the bill, and favors creating a new Board of Police with one head. There, therefore, appeared before the Senate Committee on Cities in opposition to the bill, Charles S. Smith, President of the Chamber of Commerce, and E. B. Hinsdale, of the Union League Club. The Rev. Dr. Parkhurst also appeared in opposition to the bill. Their argument was that by having one Police Commissioner, responsibilty for the management of the Police Department could be placed upon one person. The supporters of the bill were represented by Edward Lauterbach, ex-Judge Frederick G. Gedney and Otto Irving Wise. Their argument was that one Tammany Hall Police Commissioner would use all the power of the Police Department to crush the Republican party at the polls, and that it therefore would be dangerous to give the power to one man. They favored giving both the political parties equal power in the Board of Police.

The Senate Committee on Cities met after the meeting and voted to report the bill favorably. The Senators who voted to report the bill favorably were the four Republican members of the committee: Parsons, of Rochester; Reynolds, of Brooklyn; Stapleton, of Morrisville, and Robertson, of Peekskill. The two Democratic members, Ahearn and O'Donnell, and one Republican, Laney, of Buffalo, voted against reporting the bill favorably. What will be the fate of the bill? It will apparently pass the Senate. What will be its fate in the Assembly no one can now tell. President Smith, of the Chamber of Commerce, made the important statement at the committee hearing to-day that Richard Croker said before leaving upon his Southern trip that he favored giving the Republican Party equal representation in the Board of Police since he wished that party to divide the responsibility of governing that Department with the Democratic Party. If the bill passes the Legislature, therefore, it would appear from this statement that Mr. Croker will advise Governor Flower to sign it. It was, perhaps, significant that no Tammany Hall Democrat appeared before the Senate Committee on Cities to-day in opposition to the measure.

The Assembly passed this week Senator Guy's bill authorizing the extension of Riverside Park and Drive to the bulkhead line. The bill now goes to Governor Flower. Thus nearly all the great city appropriation bills have already been passed by the Legislature.

William Mitchell and William Leary, of New York, made an argument before the Assembly Committee on Cities on Tuesday in favor of the bill prohibiting the construction of an elevated railway on 14th street, between 4th and 7th avenues. According to the Bushe plan for extending the elevated railway lines one of the lines will run through the street mentioned. Mr. Mitchell presented a remonstrance against any construction of an elevated road in the street named signed by nearly every owner of property along it. In their remonstrance the property-owners make the statement given below:

"We, the undersigned owners or lessees of following property on 14th street, set opposite our names respectively (between University place and 7th avenue), respectfully remonstrate against the adoption by your Honorable Body of the proposed route for an elevated railway through 14th street, from University place to 7th avenue.

"We beg to call your attention to the fact that the property on said street is more valuable than the property on 12th, 13th, 15th or 16th streets; that the same is now occupied chiefly by shops in which are conducted a retail business; that the present value of the property is largely due to its adaptation for such retail business, and that growth in the past and at the present time as a great thoroughfare for shoppers promises to continue to increase in the future. That the effect of an elevated railway would be (as has been shown by a similar structure in side streets) to drive out this retail business, and to degrade the character of the occupation of the property, and that such a structure will inevitably greatly diminish the value of the property both present and prospective.

"We submit that the cost of acquiring a right of way in 14th street would be so much greater than in one of the streets parallel to 14th street that this fact alone should have some weight in determining the adoption of the route from University place to 7th avenue through some street other than through 14th street."

The Assembly, to-day, upon motion of Mr. Butts, wrenched away from the Railroad Committee his bill providing that a passenger shall be required to pay only five cents to ride over both the Elevated and Suburban roads from the Battery to the northern end of the Elevated. In other words there is to be one fare only for riding over both roads. The bill now being in the possession of the Assembly may be passed.

The Senate Committee on Railroads reported favorably on Wednesday the bill of Senator Lexow to submit to the voters of New York, at the November election, the question of whether or not the city itself shall build a rapid transit road. Incidentally this bill authorizes the elevated lines to put on a third track upon their 3d, 2d and 9th avenue lines.

Senator Cantor introduced this week the bill of Superintendent Andrews, of the Street Cleaning Department, permitting him to build coverings for the sheds and chutes at the Street Cleaning Department's dumping piers. This improvement will cost about $340,000.

Assemblyman Stadtfield has introduced a bill appropriating $200,000 for repairing Avenue A, from 59th street to 86th street.

Assemblyman Dinkelspiel has presented a bill authorizing New York City to expend $50,000 for five years, commencing this year, for placing fire hydrants and laying the necessary mains.

North Side Happenings.

A committee, consisting of C. A. Benton, E. K. Martin and George Cord, representing property-owners on the north and south sides of Van Courtlandt Park, called on the Park Board, on Wednesday last, to urge the opening up of public highways in the upper end of the park. The committee said that Van Courtlandt Park avenue had been opened from the city of Yonkers to the north end of the park, but it went no further, and they wanted a road opened through the park to connect with this thoroughfare. The Commissioners promised to look into the matter, and in the meantime the property-owners will furnish them with an estimate of the cost of opening and macadamizing a road such as they desire.

Another committee appeared to ask for the opening of a road from Riverside avenue to Dash's lane. Commissioner Clausen said the Park Board would open the road if there was enough money left out of the $1,000,000 appropriation to pay for the work.

The Senate, on Thursday, passed Mr. Butts' bill, allowing the City of New York to build a bridge over the Harlem River at 125th street and 1st avenue, at an expense of $2,000,000. The bridge is to be completed within eight years from the passage of the act, and in its width for passage to be not less than 60 feet and the grade to be at an elevation of not less than 24 feet above mean high water mark of said river and not less than 16 feet 5 inches in the clear over the present grade of the tracks of any steam railroad in the line of the structure.

In the Assembly, on Thursday, Mr. Butts moved that the Committee on Railroads be discharged from the further consideration of his bill reducing the fare on the Manhattan Railroad to five cents for one continuous passage from the Battery to Tremont avenue. Mr. Butts said that his bill had been before the Railroad Committee since early in January, and the residents in the North Side demanded the passage of this bill. The motion was adopted and the bill was placed on the order of second reading.

At a meeting of the Directors of the North Side Board of Trade, a resolution was adopted approving of the general plan for a grand concourse or Boulevard through the centre of the district, from Buena Vista Ridge to Mosholu Parkway, as laid out by the Commissioner of Street Improvement, and also of a bridge over the Harlem, at Willis avenue, both of which are now before the Legislature. At the same meeting Albert E. Davis, architect, was appointed corresponding secretary; Louis Baron, recording secretary, and Charles W. Bogart, cashier 23d Ward bank, treasurer, for the ensuing year.

"The Girl I Left Behind Me" is likely to have a long run at the Academy of Music. The opportunities for artistic, scenic and sensational effects are great on a stage of the dimensions of the one at this theatre. No doubt Messrs. Gilmore and Tompkins will do everything that can be done in the way of mounting, and the sentiment to which this play appeals will, in their careful hands, attract as large audiences as it has done in other places.

Houses Well Worthy of Inspection.

NOS. 308 TO 320 WEST 71ST STREET.

The West Side has been built up into its present handsome proportions for residential purposes under a desire apparently always possessing the latest builder to do something better than has ever been done before in his particular class and line; not only to make the house as a whole more substantial and the arrangements more convenient than has hitherto been done, but to furnish improved appliances for the gratification of the eye and comfort of the body of the people who shall become their owners or occupiers. This idea strikes one very forcibly as soon as one's feet stand upon the mosaic paved vestibule of any of the houses, Nos. 308 to 320 West 71st street. These were recently put up by Mr. John Kehoe, under the supervision of Builder Wm. Broadbelt—whose name is associated with the construction of many fine houses and flats—and are receiving the finishing touches. These houses bear the marks of careful construction and selection of material in every respect. The style is the three-story and basement high stoop house, in which so many of the very best residences of the city are built. The fronts are of brownstone, this ashlar being 8 inches in the basement and 6 inches in the floors above. The trim is of hardwood throughout and the floors in every case double. The fittings are of the very latest pattern, style and finish. itself is of original massive design; a projecting seat between two flights breaks the length and avoids that look of stiffness which a high stairway generally has when there is no interruption in the line from floor to ceiling. The parlor trim is in polished mahogany like the hall and stairs, and that of the dining-room opening off from it of oak, with inlaid floor to match. A butler's pantry, connecting with the dining-room, also in oak, is of unusually large size for a house of this class and well furnished. The second floor trim is of red birch. It contains two large rooms, connected by a dressing saloon, containing all the necessary details, and, like the other toilet apparatus of the house, furnished with ornamental wash-bowls. Opening from the rear of these rooms is a very large bath-room, with tile floor and wainscoat, open plumbing, silvered pipes and fittings, and one of the well-known Mott bath-tubs, furnished by William J. Bailey, of 647 Amsterdam avenue, who did all the excellent plumbing work of these houses. The dimensions of this bath-room are 10x13, allowing for a freedom of movement in the business of ablution not always found in city houses. The third floor trim is of white birch; this floor contains three bedrooms and a bath-room, opening from a hallway, and a store-room fitted with a large linen chest of polished ash.

The fireplaces of the main rooms are fitted with gas-logs, and the others with gas asbestos grates, which can be used at times like the

Seven New Dwellings on West Seventy-first Street, Between West End Avenue and Riverside Drive.

JOHN KEHOE, Owner.

The mason work was done by Richard Cragg, of No. 7 East 112th street, who has executed much of the private house work done on the West Side. The stone of the fronts has been carefully selected so as to maintain a harmony of tint and is ornamented in graceful designs. This stone was supplied from the John R. Smith Steam Stone Cutting Works, at the foot of East 103d and 104th streets. Taking one of these houses for examination it will be found that the basement is in ash trim and has a pantry attachment which permits the front room to be used as a dining-room if desired. The kitchen, besides the ash woodwork, has ornamental tile wainscot and imported English glazed brick chimney back. The cooking and hot water appliances are calculated to secure the very best results. The range is the Union Stove Works' celebrated No. 25 double oven Astor range of the latest and most approved pattern, which contains so many improvements for effective work in cooking, water heating and its own cleaning that it is hard to imagine anything more satisfactory to a housewife than it.

Great pains have been taken to make the parlor floor as handsome as possible. From the vestibule an effect is produced by the door at the end communicating with the dining-room being fitted with a full-length plate glass panel, which gives an appearance of brightness as well as of spaciousness, with very pleasing results to the eye. The doors and stairways, with their fretwork and other accessories being in polished mahogany, the result is warm and rich. The stairway present for instance, when the heat of a furnace makes a house uncomfortable and the temperature will not allow the householder to dispense with artificial heat entirely. The handsome fireplaces, trim, mantels and tiling were all supplied by the old-established, reliable, up-to-date Bradley & Currier Company, whose work is too well known to need praise. A. P. Smith, of 676 East 134th street, ably carried out all the work of polishing and varnishing. Leopold Friesen, of 328 East 102d street, the painting. Alexander McTavish, of 510 West 50th street, the plastering, while the attractive artificial stone sidewalk and front area are the work of John H. Sturk & Co., of 320 to 328 East 102d street.

With such able assistance it is not surprising that Mr. Broadbelt has been able to produce such good results and the owner, Mr. Kehoe, to offer such attractive residences to the inspection of buyers. Not only are the houses first-class, but, as is well known, the neighborhood is very choice and now almost entirely built up with the best kind of small residences which are in great demand by people who wisely combine an investment with a home. Messrs. Lindsay & Johnsen, the well-known builders, are erecting seven houses of elaborate design on the same block, and the few parcels of ground that remain unimproved in the vicinity are destined to receive the same kind of treatment. The street will soon be paved with asphalt, resolutions to that end now being before the Board of Aldermen.—[Communicated.]

Questions and Answers.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A dies, leaving personal property as well as real estate. Under the will, after paying funeral expenses and debts, a life trust is ordered to be created for the benefit of one particular heir, after which the estate goes to the decedent's children, share and share alike. The executors claim that the real estate is not under their control, and as there are mortgages the interest on them should be paid by the residuary legatees. Now, the personalty is not sufficient to establish the trust, and therefore none is to be created. Must not the executors sell sufficient real estate to carry out this special bequest, and is not the real estate as much their concern as the rest of the estate? Cannot they petition the Surrogate to raise a second mortgage, so as to pay off the interest on first mortgages, apply to taxes, and otherwise carry on the estate? B. W.

Answer.—Possibly the will is worded so as to make the trust a lien upon the real estate. Usually this would be held so by the courts if it were evident the intention of the testator, even although it were not made a lien by express terms. But this is one of those questions that neither we nor any other lawyer can answer correctly, or to be of any sure benefit to you unless we can read and construe the whole will. If the trust is a lien on the real estate, which is quite probable, then the executors would also be trustees (even if the will does not call them so), and the real estate is very much their concern. In that case, too, they can collect double fees, one set as executors and another set as trustees; perhaps they don't know that now, and they may be more concerned when they find it out. Application could be made to the Surrogate to raise money on a second mortgage, but we don't believe he would grant it; and who would lend on second mortgage at lawful interest? Would it not be better for all concerned to get leave to sell the property, or part of it? All that is left over after paying the life interest would be called real estate by the court and would go to the heirs. But you ought to go to a good lawyer and show him the will, and pay him his fair fees.—LAW EDITOR.

Real Estate Market.

The condition of the real estate market cannot be better illustrated than by contrasting this week's operations with those of a year ago. When the fact is recalled that it was just one year ago that Peter F. Meyer sold the Stuart estate properties at auction, and that the Albemarle Hotel and the Cedar street lots recently purchased by the Clearing House Association were sold at auction in the same week, the condition of the general real estate market of that time is brought vividly to mind. The auction sales of that week, consisting largely of voluntary offerings, aggregated $4,384,425. This week they aggregate $599,146, and have consisted principally of foreclosure sales. The auction market was brisk a year ago, because there was plenty of money for real estate investment on liberal terms. That is not the condition to-day, and that is why owners are not voluntarily offering property in the auction market, and why the conscientious auctioneer is advising them not to do so. The conveyances show the relative state of activity in the private sale branch of the market also. Last year during the corresponding week there were 356 deeds filed, with aggregate expressed considerations of $8,723,564 against 245 conveyances this year, expressing considerations of $2,086,254. The "nominal" conveyances numbered 125 last year as against 116 for this year. For the first ten weeks of last year the conveyances numbered 2,858 and the considerations stated were $49,622,973. For the like period this year they numbered 2,330 and the amount was $33,243,300. This shows that the market is less active by 33⅓ per cent than it was a year ago. But compared with other lines of business this is a very creditable showing. It would be difficult to name any business of equal importance in which the showing would be as good. Values have been pluckily sustained—are so to-day. But while investors were satisfied to buy on a 5 per cent net income basis last year, they are now requiring that the property shall show 6 per cent net. That, however, explains why there is such a present lack of activity in the real estate market.

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding weeks of 1893 and 1894.

Assemblyman Sheffield is disposed to accept the adverse sentiment of the Judiciary Committee as conclusive on his bill to remove the auction sales of real estate under court orders, from 111 Broadway to the Real Estate Exchange. He has abandoned the measure as hopeless.

In the Supreme Court, on Wednesday, Judge Ingraham rendered his decision on the application to set aside the sale of the Hotel de Logerot, refusing the same. He found on every point for the defendants, and in general gave expression to this principle, as governing in such cases: "If bidders at judicial sales are given to understand that if they make a good bargain the same is to be set aside, while if they make a bad bargain they are to be held, as these purchasers would have been held if it turned out their bid was in excess of the value of the property, legal sales would become a farce, and instead of encouraging persons wishing to purchase real estate in buying at such sales, it would have the effect of preventing any property from being sold under the judgment of the courts."

An affecting and happily unusual scene was witnessed this week in the Trinity Building when Mr. Wm. Kennelly sold at foreclosure the tenement property No. 34 Sheriff street at $15,050. The owners, a Mr. Isaac Goldstein and his wife, were present at the sale, and as the price obtained destroyed their equity, which was said to represent all their savings, in it, Mrs. Goldstein was unable to restrain her grief and wept loudly. The files of THE RECORD AND GUIDE show that the property in question was sold in April, 1891, to Max Cohen at $14,500, and mortgaged for $12,000. Almost simultaneously Cohen traded it at $19,500 for No. 240 Clinton street at $15,000. A second mortgage for $1,000 was then placed on it, and this was the one under which sale was held on Wednesday.

Thomas S. Walker, of Hall J. How & Co., will sell by order of court, in partition, on Wednesday, March 26th, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, 111 Broadway, the three-story brick house, No 81 West Washington place, near 6th avenue, size of lot 22x90. On Tuesday, March 27th, Mr. Walker will sell, at the Real Estate Exchange, 59 Liberty street, to close the estate of John M. Clawson, the three-story, high stoop, brownstone private house, No. 408 West 51st street, near 10th avenue, size 16.8x50x100.5.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. will, on the 27th and 29th inst., offer a number of parcels of very valuable and desirable properties at auction, and these sales will attract a good deal of attention, not only because they will include some first-class business and residential property, but in some measure also because a great deal of it will be sold under the order of the assignee of Dore Lyon, whose failure was reported a few weeks ago. The sale of March 27th will take place at No. 111 Broadway and will be of the northeast corner of Howard and Crosby streets—No. 28 Howard street and Nos. 1 and 2 Crosby street—a five-story iron front building and lot. The building covers the entire lot; it has independent walls and dimensions of 25x87.1x24.3x87.1. This property is offered by order of the Supreme Court in a suit for partition. The sales of March 29th will be held at the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room, Nos. 59 to 65 Liberty street, under orders of Geo. W. Carr, assignee of Dore Lyon, at which will be offered Nos. 262, 264 and 268 West 77th street, four-story and basement brownstone and buff brick dwellings and lots 18.9x53x extension 10x12x100; Nos. 6, 8, 10 and 12 East 116th street, five-story double brick tenements and lots, 25x75.10x100.11 each; Nos. 66, 68, 70 and 72 West 101st street, five-story brick tenements and lots, size 25x87.5x100.11 each; No. 143 West 100th street, a five-story brick tenement and lot, size 20.4 front, 22.4 rear x90x101.0½; No. 147 W 100th street, a five-story double tenement and lot, 25x90x100.11; eight five-story brick tenements and lots, 25x90x100, Nos. 413 to 427 West 31st street, and a gore on the south side of 92d street, 261.2 west of 8th avenue, 23¼ inches front and tapering to a point in the rear.

Bryan L. Kennelly will sell on Wednesday, March 28th, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, several desirable improved properties, by order of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank. The list embraces the dwelling, No. 108 West 44th street; the tenements Nos. 405 and 407 East 113th street, and 406 East 114th street; also the frame dwelling No. 408 East 114th street. All the parcels will be sold positively and 60 per cent of the purchase money may remain on mortgage at 4½ per cent.

In the latter part of April or early in May Messrs. Fairchild & Yoran will make an important offering of lots at auction at the Real Estate Exchange, 59 Liberty street. The property is on Fordham Heights near the University grounds and embraces 112 choice lots belonging to the Craighead estate. This is the first and most important lot-auction announcement yet made this year.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Mr. August Blumenthal, on another page, of a number of lots which he has for sale in West 88th street, near Central Park West, suitable, it is said, for private houses, flats or private stables.

An advertiser, "V," care of this office, wants to lease an apartment house for a term of years.

MORTGAGES.

TITLE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, MARCH 17, 1894.

Economies in Railroad Operation.

NATURALLY the reductions in the proportionate cost of operating the railroads, as shown in recent reports, have attracted the attention of every one interested in railroad securities. In fact, the changes reported have been so great as to arouse the suspicion that they are made at the cost of efficiency and that roadbed and rolling stocks are suffering. An examination of the figures support the charge, in the majority of cases. It must not, however, be forgotten that it was back in last July that railroad managers begun to cut down expenses—owing not merely to a falling off, but to a sudden collapse of business that was experienced that month. Not only were freight trains discontinued, but the expensive regular passenger trains were reduced in number on all the great lines, notwithstanding that the World's Fair business had about got into full swing, but this latter was done mainly with equipment of the cheapest class and on special schedule. When the Fair business ceased, there was a further opportunity for cutting down and this was freely used. Not only have the forces on all the railroads been reduced, but these reduced forces are receiving lower wages than the old forces did. Moreover, this winter has favored railroad business more than last did and that has helped to raise the proportion of net earnings somewhat. The results of operations on a number of important roads in January, with the percentages of net earnings, compared with the same month last year, are given in the following table:

	Jan., 1894.			Jan., 1893.
	Gross.	Net.	Per cent.	Gross.	Net.	Per cent.

It will be noted that the endeavor to keep up the proportion of net earnings is more marked in the solvent roads than on the roads in receivers' hands. That is always the case. It is well known that the most expensively-managed roads are receivership roads, for the reason that the credit of these having stopped many improvements that might in other circumstances be capitalized have to be made from income. Among the receivership roads mentioned in the above table, Reading is an exception, its January net earning having increased from 9.8 per cent in 1893 to 16.0 in 1894, a larger proportionate increase than was made on the Pennsylvania, the percentage on that property being in January, 1893, 10.1 and 14.7 per cent in January, 1894. But Reading has singular facilities for borrowing money, and is, therefore, not as badly off in that respect as a receivership road usually is. In the case of Erie, another receivership road, there was a drop from 24.8 per cent to 17.5 per cent, and in the case of Atchison a decline from 21.7 per cent to 20.5 per cent. On the other hand, on the roads which have large interest and dividend claims maturing and which must be protected if they are to preserve their credit, the proportion of net earnings increased and in some cases very considerably. It is hardly possible that the volume of net earnings shown in these cases can be maintained for long on the present amount of business, but as the prospects of trade are brightening it is probable that the roads can stand for a few months a cutting down of expenses that would be too deep for safety if continued very long.

ONE of the results of the recent period of financial and business depression is beginning to show itself in the lack of activity in the building trades in Brooklyn, as elsewhere. By this time of the year, ordinarily, the evidences of reviving building industry are seen on every hand. But while this is the case even now in the 8th, 24th and 28th Wards, where lots are cheap and the population is still rapidly increasing and expanding, the older sections of the city are comparatively lifeless. This is not because of any backwardness on the part of the builder, but rather because he finds himself unable to secure the usual financial accommodations. True, money is easier than it was during the worst of the monetary stringency, and is gradually growing still easier. Loans are procurable even now at 5 per cent up to two-thirds of the market value of residence property, and on even more favorable terms on better productive property. But there is still prevailing a widespread belief that comparatively little building will suffice to meet the demands of the increase of population this year, and consequently loaning agents are limiting their advances to much lower percentages than have hitherto prevailed, and are requiring the builder to furnish a larger proportion of the capital for construction than was usually the case. This is an unpleasant situation for the building trades and mechanics, but it cannot fail to do good in respect of the future. It is the beginning of the return to prosperous conditions. These will return in their normal fullness when general business conditions shall have attained their normal state.

IT is an exasperating reflex from the field of municipal politics that many of the officers of the new administration seem to have missed entirely the meaning of the popular revolt at the polls in November last. Policy alone, without regard to principle, would lead the ordinarily astute politician to yield an implicit obedience to the new order of things, for only by so doing could he hope to continue in favor. But in the Board of Aldermen and in Sheriff Buttling there are examples of men who flaunt publicly their contempt and indifference to the reform sentiment. True, if before the convention there had been any belief that the candidates for sheriff and aldermen would have any show of election, other persons would doubtless have been placed in nomination; and the accident of their election has doubtless impressed upon the reformers the importance of scrutinizing in the future with the utmost care the character of every man nominated for public office. In a movement like that which brought Mayor Schieren and his cabinet and Judge Gaynor into being, it is more profitable to court the opposition of all the Dadys and Worths in the county than to compromise with them on any terms which leave them a show of influence in the contest. It is perfectly apparent that the "leaders" of the Republican machine are of the same mongrel breed as their prototypes in the Democratic machine. They have lacked the opportunity only to show themselves just as thievish and just as rapacious as the ringsters who have recently been displaced. The people have made their great mistake in giving any countenance whatever to party machinery which takes from them the initiative in making nominations and appointments. Sheriff Buttling was "Jakey" Worth's "man," and the aldermen were the grist, for the most part, of his minor machinery. Had these fellows been as wise as the average ass they would have assumed the virtue they did not possess and would have yielded at least a nominal conformity to the new and regnant principle in their political field. That they have not, but are trying to curry favor with the elements that were defeated in their election, marks them as traitors to the reform principle and conspirators for its overthrow. They will have to be tolerated until such time as they make themselves liable to public punishment by some of their natural exhibitions of venality, or until their terms of office expire. But they are marked men. It will be an exhibition of weakness on the part of the citizens' organization if they so much as listen to the suggestions of any of the machine politicians in the future in making nominations. The people are in Kilkenny fair humor—cracking the heads of machine politicians wherever they see them—and will support the citizens' organization so long as it keeps above the level of machine politics. It cannot set its standard too high to suit the people who are doing the voting, nor will it err in selecting only the best men it can possibly secure for elective office. When it begins to treat and temporize with the "leaders" of either party it will disappear like chaff in a cyclone.

The Building Material Exhibit.

In so large a centre as the "Greater New York" the constant demand for interior fixtures and finishing goods, to replace the old, worn-out or defaced, is of enormous proportions. The Building Material Exhibit at 276 to 282 Washington street, Brooklyn, with its multitudinous exhibits of much that goes into the construction, finish, equipment and decoration of a building, affords the owner just the place where he can go and, without trouble or loss of time, examine, compare and make selection of such material as he may need. The visitor will find novelties on view of which very possibly he has no knowledge, and which he would doubtless be glad to adopt if brought to his notice. The convenience of such an exhibition, centrally located (four blocks direct from the Bridge terminal) and easy of access from all parts of the Metropolitan district, should recommend it, not only to the practical architect and builder, but to the individual less familiar with the general market. The Exhibition is a permanent one, and the great hall, well lighted in every part, presents a novel and highly attractive interior.

Commissioner Bush, of the Building Department, has had occasion to discipline the builders of the large brick and terra cotta building that is in course of construction at Fulton and Jay streets. The plans, by Architect Eisenach, were all right, but inspection showed that the work was being cheapened to such an extent as to imperil the stability of the building. Mr. Bush said that the piers on the Jay street side were not of sufficient size and strength to sustain the superimposed weight, and that several girders and columns which had been left out must be supplied. The owner, J. Rothschild, the New York milliner, who is also the owner of the Majestic apartment house on Central Park West, and who is superintending his own construction, was ordered to supply the deficiencies and is having the work done as required.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—There has at last come a very decided break in the heretofore somewhat monotonous tone of the market. It developed at the commencement of the current week in not only an unexpected but most precipitate manner, and almost before operators could fully comprehend what was going on rates were off $1.00 per M from the figures previously named as the holding limit and $5 would bring about the best stock available. It is not altogether clear as to just what started the tumble, some operators having an idea that the opening of the Hudson may have created a fear of an influx of "Up River" stock, and others suggesting that many of the barges were under charter about expiring and a place for their cargoes had to be found. Probably to some extent both influences were instrumental in breaking down the market, and also no doubt serving to dissolve the combination of manufacturers who have been holding all winter on a "limit." The modification on cost cannot be said to have proven much of an attraction to custom, and, appreciating the scarcity of buyers, they had to be taken whenever found, which accounts in part for the low rates accepted, but at the close a steadier feeling seems to be growing up and a recovery on price of 25@50 is asked, some receivers claiming to stand at $5.50 for the best. Rates are very stupid, and while holders ask $2 they also ask for bids and would probably modify figures to secure desirable custom. All points of supply may now be considered available, with plenty of brick to come and owners looking for a market. The "Trust" does not seem to have materialized as yet, but there seems to be any quantity of brickmakers who have no binding ties to their property if they can get a respectable price for it, and it is said the crop of syndicate projects to be found at various localities along the river is something liberal.

LATH.—The talk is somewhat firmer and substantiated by results actually attained. Since our last there has been business in Eastern stock at inside of $2, which some buyers were willing to use for purpose of hammering the market, but without effect. The low-priced stuff was simply not of a character upon which valuation could be based, being short count and poor, while standard grades did not get below $2.10 and the latest was at $2.15 with pretty firm tone prevailing. Indeed, now that the weather is opening, buyers commence to crop out, and in addition to a good local contingent, out-of-town custom has been heard from in quite encouraging form. In matter of prospective supplies all accounts seem to agree that manufacturers have not the stock to forward in any quantity, and some lack the facilities in consequence of vessels being out of commission.

LIME.—For the standard Eastern makes demand shows no animation, yet it is very fair on the average, and in small lots from time to time manages to move quite an amount of stock, sufficient apparently to very well balance the arrivals. The closing position of the market seems to be moderate quantities expected and reasonably good demand promised with rates almost too low for any objection from buyers. Some outside product has of late been offered, understood to have come in part from West Virginia, and found favor, but upon what basis of cost we were unable to learn.

LUMBER.—The general condition of trade on the local market shows no natural improvement, and pretty much all reports of a promising character that are allowed to go out from this locality find it necessary to draw deductions from what is expected instead of what has yet to be attained. The record of proposed buildings of lumber-consuming character are really quite small; a great deal of the "activity" said to prevail in the building line at present is really due to finishing up of old contracts, for which supplies have long been engaged, and about the only certain line of consumption is for box and quality of similar grade. Small and unsatisfactory as trade may be, however, it is gradually reducing the accumulation to lighter compass and, in natural process of reasoning, preparing the way for good trading whenever the conditions shall change the mind of buyers from the listless state it now occupies into that of greater vitality, stimulated by the necessities for obtaining stock, and it seems to be generally conceded that in majority of cases the value level is now at a plane from whence the only change can be upward unless extraordinary adverse features develop. In matter of tariff questions the local run of operators still appear quite indifferent, first, because of the great uncertainty surrounding the possibilities and probabilities of final legislative action, and second, because of the retained impression that the duty if removed entirely will reflect advantage to operators near primal markets and give no benefit to the retailer and consumer.

At the moment export deals are moderate, but there is a chance for very sudden expansion, for should the opera-bouffe war in Brazil terminate in accord with indications there is a probability of some liberal cable orders for prompt shipment. The operations in Rio Janeiro Bay destroyed property and rebuilding will be in order.

Navigation on the Hudson River may be considered as practically resumed, although most lines have not commenced moving tows as yet. Probably next week will find matters all right.

Since writing last report evidences have come to light showing that for some time the market for Eastern spruce has really been much more demoralized than allowed to appear upon the surface. And it has also served as an example to show how utterly useless at the present time is any effort to force an outlet for even the most standard grades of stock unless a great sacrifice is made on value. Through the dissolution of a large manufacturing concern in the Provinces it was deemed necessary to realize upon their stock, and freight room being found available several million feet were loaded and started forward to come as the results proved upon a market practically without custom of a natural character. Receivers tried local buyers, and they tried custom, regular and casual, at all nearby points, but notwithstanding many of the bills were made up of thoroughly standard and attractive assortments it proved an extremely difficult matter to place the cargoes until something liberal in the way of valuation had been allowed. There is no knowing exactly how low the cuts went, but $10.50 is intimated and $11 admitted on pretty good specifications, and the range from that along up to $12.50 and $13, as it might become possible to catch customers. At those prices it does not seem possible that dealers could have made any mistake, and no doubt with any kind of trade will get a full profit, yet the complete lack of enthusiasm on buying side was the noticeable feature of the situation.

State spruce has not been plentiful and remains firm for standard sorts. Hemlock is reported steady, with now and then a trifle more local demand and some fair orders coming in from the country trade, both State and Eastern. Carolina Pine has a sort of regular trade demand and now and then a somewhat extra call from outside sources, especially where navigation is resumed or about to be; but the offering is ample and desirable custom probably experiences no difficulty in obtaining somewhat better terms than shown by quotations at $3 above the Norfolk list. Yellow Pine about steady, because it is too low for further shrinkage, and White Pine meeting with some demand on the ordinary qualities, but no one even talks about upper grades, although the local holdings of the latter are said to be unusually small.

Hardwoods sell very slowly into channels of consumption, and notwithstanding small quantities on hand, dealers are enabled to meet the wants of developed custom without difficulty. There is said to have been some increase of offerings from representatives of holders of stock at primal points, but not of a determined character, after the discovery of the really indifferent demand prevailing and the existing necessity for a modification of cost to secure a place for even the most desirable grades of stock. There is a little export trade doing, but, as usual, confined to small and carefully made selections.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

The Lumberman this week presents its report of pine product in 1893. The mill output in each district of the three States, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, will be of interest to the mill operators in the localities indicated. The summary of district totals, for lumber and shingles, given in separate tables, will interest every lumberman in the entire country.

It will be observed that the grand total output in 1893 fell below the total in 1892 to the amount of 1,302,999,965 feet of lumber and in shingles there was a comparative decrease of 858,827,076. The total product last year was smaller than in any year since 1886, when it was 7,425,368,443 feet, and less than that in 1885, years of restricted production which followed the industrial and trade depression of 1883 and 1884. It is a noteworthy fact that the decline last year, notwithstanding the worst panic and depression known since 1873, did not bring the total as low as in either 1885 or 1886. This feature appears, too, after several years of lavish cutting, which pushed production in 1892 to nearly 9,000,000,000 feet, and was popularly supposed to have well-nigh denuded the forests of the three great pine-bearing States. Hence, we may conclude that in another period of general prosperity it is possible that production may again be forced beyond the eight billion mark. Manifestly northern pine is still far from exhaustion.

The falling off in production last year as compared with that of 1892 was 306,824,063 feet in the Chicago district, or, more properly, grand division; 603,243,510 feet in the division west of the Chicago district, and 303,538,909 in the Saginaw and Lake Huron division. Thus it will be seen that, compared to total product, Eastern Michigan lost proportionately more than the territory to the westward. This is the natural result of the exhaustion of much of the stumpage in Eastern Michigan as compared to that farther west, where the cutting of pine has not reached an extent that necessitates a falling off in annual product.

Figures touching shingle production in any year carry less important weight than those pertaining to lumber. Production is much affected by the amount of lumber turned out, for pine shingles especially are in the nature of a by-product, and the output of shingles is mostly determined by current demand for lumber. The reader can scan the array of figures presented and thus reach conclusions that may be of most interest to him.

When we turn to the table showing stocks on hand, we are struck with the amount of excess overstocks on hand at the close of 1893 as compared to the surplus in 1892. The grand total of excess in 1893 was 3,646,469,071, or 527,148,826 more than at the close of 1892. Thus, while there was a falling off in production of about 1,300,000,000 feet in 1893, compared to that of 1892, there is a comparative excess of stock on hand of over 500,000,000 feet. Nothing could more forcibly show the shrinkage of demand during the past year. This decline of requirement seems to have affected all districts in nearly equal proportion, so that no section of the field at large can claim to have prospered more than another. The shrinkage of value has also been considerable, and the year altogether not one of prosperity to producers.

The White Pine field editor of the Lumberman writes as follows:

So far as the Wisconsin valley is concerned, you can trot out your spring poetry any time you want to. All of a sudden the snow began to fade, the ice roads ran down into the rivers, the rivers began to swell, and if things keep on at their present gait a week longer the logs will begin to need attention. There hasn't been as early a breakup in the Wisconsin valley for years. But things have got so far along now that whatever it may be, as far as the drives are concerned, it has practically ended logging and cut off a good deal that was counted on. Walter Alexander, of the Alexander Stewart Lumber Company, at Wausau, told me today that in his judgment it would cut the log crop 20 per cent short of what was gone out after and fully 50 per cent short of last year's cut. That this will affect trade cannot be doubted. There are many stocks in the Wisconsin valley that are already badly broken. Four and 6-inch strips in shipping condition are getting scarce, and there is a well-defined shortage of common No. 3 boards. The general run of factory stock is pretty well closed out, and the better grades of inch stuff and all grades of dimension seem to be the only stocks on which there is a slow movement at ruling prices. As a rule piece stuff is by all odds the weakest line of stock, the tendency seeming to be to close that out by using it to crowd other stock with.

We find the following interesting item in the Mississippi Valley Lumberman:

There has been more or less controversy over the question as to what woods could be properly termed hardwoods and which could not. A legal decision has recently been handed down on this subject which is novel but interesting and which should be known by all lumbermen for it may cut considerable figure in future controversies. A man who had a contract with a railroad company to deliver hardwood, delivered poplar in part fulfillment of the contract. The railroad company objected but the contractor won his case in court, the judge deciding that botanically any tree that had a leaf as distinguished from a needle, was a hardwood, regardless of what the actual texture of its fibre might be. This is a new phase of the subject but should be understood by all dealers, for according to it, cottonwood, basswood and poplar are hardwoods, no matter what common usage may have decreed.

The logging season is fast drawing to a close, and there is a goodly lot of logs on the landings of the various northwestern streams. If the prospect for trade was only as bright as the outlook for a large supply of logs, all would be well.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot now and then gets a little attention of ordinary character from the regular trade, but in general it is a dull market and void of features calling for special notice. General indications convey an impression that production is kept under good management and likely to prevent a surplus offering coming upon sale. On the average range of valuation we quote at 9⅝@9¾c. for Lake and 9⅛@9⅜c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper shows no change. Demand runs irregularly, but rarely attains proportions of any great magnitude, indeed it is uncommon to hear claims of a seasonable average of business, and for all wants offerings are ample, with manufacturers ready enough to accept former rates. We quote as follows: Sheet, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 22c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 23c.; po. 12 to 14 oz., 24c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 25c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 28c.; do. under 8 oz., 30c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz. and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over 22c.; do 14 to 16 oz., 24c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 26c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 30c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 33c. Sheets longer than 96 inches 22c. for over 32 oz. and add 1c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 1c. 14 to 16 oz.; 1c. 12 to 14 oz.; 1c. for 10 to 12 oz., and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz., 22c.; do, 16 to 32 oz., 24c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 26c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 28c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 32c. Sheets wider than 48x96 and longer, 22@27c. for 32 to 64 oz.; 25@28c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 27@29c. for 14 to 16 oz. and 29@34c. for 12 to 14 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz., 26c.; 14 oz., 26c.; 12 oz., 27c., and 10 oz. and lighter, 29@32c. Bolt copper, ⅜ inch diameter and over, 22c. Circles, segments and pattern sheets, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 4c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 5c. do. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottoms, 26@32c. per lb. IRON—American pig has found about the average trade attention, and a very extra call of fair magnitude which were mostly satisfied from the Southern product and at former rates, but without signs of weakness. We quote at $13.00@14.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $12.50@13.00 for No. 2 X do., and $11.00@12.50 for Gray Forge. Old material has been selling along for some time in small parcels only, but so regularly that there seems to have come about quite a reduction in available supply. Holders in consequence talk somewhat firmer, but fail to induce buyers to raise their bids. We quote at $12.00@13.00 for old iron rails; $10.00@11.00 for No. 1 wrought scraps; $9.50@10.50 for cast scrap; $10.00@11.50 for old car wheels, and $6.00@10.00 for borings, stove plate, &c. Manufactured iron has shown no really new features, the demand fluctuating somewhat for standard and ready made stock, and not reaching much volume in way of orders for special output of structural assortments, etc. We quote Beams up to 15 inch, 1.75@2c.; 20-inch, 2.10@2.25c. for round lots; Angles, 1.75@1.90c.; Universal Mill Plates, 1.70@1.90c.; Tees, 2@2.15c.; Channels, 1.80@2c. on dock. Steel plates are 1.65@1.90c. for Tank; 1.90@2.10c. for Shell; 2@2.15c. for Flange, and 2.50@2.80c. for Fire Box, on dock; Refined Bars are 1.60@1.90c. on dock, and Common, 1.45@1.60c. Steel rails are without reported business or change in price, but there are intimations that the combination figures would possibly be shaded in order to book a big contract were the opportunity offered. We quote standard sections $24@25 per ton at mill, with usual advances for delivery at tide water. Pig lead has met with no demand beyond what might have been expected at this season of the year, and buyers in many cases acted quite indifferent. Stocks, however, were well held, and prices, all things considered, ruled quite firm. We quote at 3⅜@3½c. per lb. The manufactures of lead are quoted at 5¾c. for Pipe, 6½c. for Sheet, 15c. for Tin-lined Pipe, and 37½c. for Block Tin Pipe. Pig Tin is without speculative attention, beyond such as may appear necessary for protection of outstanding engagements, and with only light consuming demand it makes a pretty dull market, with tendencies rather in buyers' favor. We quote at about 19⅛@19.15c. for round lots, and 19¼@19⅜c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate has at times shown a little more animation for spot parcels, and found a few calls for future delivery, but nothing to produce an animation of really stimulating character. Supplies and assortments are fair. We quote as follows: I. C. Charcoal, Melyn grade, $6.35@6.37½; Charcoal, Melyn grade crosses, $7.87½; I. C. Charcoal, Allaway grade, $5.40@5.50; Allaway grade crosses, $6.60; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.25@7.30; M. F. grade, 20x28, $14.50@14.55; Worcester, 14x20, $5.70@5.75; Worcester, 20x28, $11.35@11.40; Dean grade, 14x20, $5.25@5.30; Dean grade, 20x28, $10.50@10.60; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $5.15@5.20; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $9.90@10.00; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $5.15@5.20; J. B. grade, 14x20, $5.25@5.30; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.40@—— basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares $5.50@5.55 basis. Spelter finds a sort of regular trade demand, beyond which buyers are quite unwilling to go at the moment. Supplies, however, remain under control, and answers firm at about former rates, the market ruling pretty steady. We quote 3.85@3.90c. for Common Western, according to brand.

NAILS.—The market on general range of valuation remains much the same as for a week or two past and of supplies the offerings are ample for all the calls made. Buyers as a rule appear to be in no hurry about placing orders and rarely anticipate the future in handling stock, but manufacturers claim to have brought production down to such control that they most rarely turn out anything in way of important or annoying surplus. Of the two grades wire nails appears to be best sustained. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for carlots and $1.25@1.25 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.00@1.15 for car lots, and $1,25@1.35 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Demand for staple lines of stock has been somewhat better if anything, but entirely from a stimulus of necessity and free from speculation even to extent of anticipating wants a few weeks ahead. Retailers and all traders nearest the actual line of consumption find the spirit of economy quite as well defined as at any time this season, and about the only incentive calculated to stimulate investments is an assortment so broken down that replenishment can no longer be postponed. To meet the call the offerings have at all times been ample and the variety such as to make any reasonable selection a matter of small difficulty and prices nominally unchanged, but average advantages in buyers' favor. THERE is a stronger disposition in business circles to take a more cheerful view of the situation than has been apparent at any time since the insistance on tariff changes checked the advance that followed the passage of the purchasing clause of the Sherman Act last fall. In Wall Street this feeling has found expression in large purchases of bonds of receivership roads. This clearly indicates the existence of a strong belief that the time has come for building up again what was cast down in the days of general suspicion and discredit last year. This building-up process is going to be a slow one, but that it has commenced at all is very satisfactory. The success of the call for a third assessment on Richmond Terminal is more evidence in the same line. Recent reports of railroad earnings do not show such large declines as the public have been accustomed to see, and though this is partly due to the fact that the comparison is made with a period unusually adverse, from a climatic standpoint, to the operation of railroads, the fact is not without good influence. It is taken for granted that the Seigniorage Bill will be vetoed by the President. While many wonder why he hesitates to act on a measure that would obviously be so mischievous in its influence, there is no doubt in New York financial circles of the course that he will take. Meantime there is significance in the fact that Exchange stands at the shipping point, though no gold goes out. A continuance of the upward movement in securities depends on the veto. The market will be minus the foreign trade for a few days, but that does not necessarily mean dullness or lower prices for the early part of the week. In the iron and steel trades business is good, though without improvement in prices, and it is even thought that Southern iron will fall lower still than it has yet done. Reductions in freight and wages, however, make this permissible as well as probable. There is also some talk of the establishment of a new steel plant in the vicinity of Birmingham, Ala., to capture the trade that will assuredly rise up as soon as the Southern roads are in a position to make important renewals and extensions. In other lines about the same story is told. The outlook is more encouraging. Demand shows no falling off, though prices do not advance much.

ENGLAND is occupied with the indignant protest that India is making against the exemption of cotton goods from the new and otherwise general import duty of 5 per cent. India as a manufacturer of cotton is, of course, very much wrought up over this discrimination and is raising the cry of favoritism to Lancashire while the general body of English people are unwilling to see repeated a policy of favor to home merchants at the expense of colonies or possessions that has cost the country so much in times past; there is, therefore, a good probability that cotton goods going into India will also pay duties. Lord Roseberry's accession to power has not stopped the talk of a new election this summer. British Guiana is coming to the front as a gold producer. Last year it exported 133,146 ounces, valued at about $2,500,000 against 101,298 ounces, valued at $1,800,000, in 1892; better results are expected in the current year. The measure passed by the French Chambers to increase the duty on wheat imported into France had the effect of helping the Treasury for the time being inasmuch as the old duties on the wheat rushed in to avoid the new, largely increased the custom's returns for January and February. The Paris market is expected to take the new series of Russian 4 per cents about to be offered, and this will make about $1,500,000,000 of Russian Governmental securities on the official list of the Paris Bourse. The production of iron and steel in France for 1893 fell off. Pig iron declined from 2,057,258 tons to 2,032,567 tons; steel from 825,486 tons to 803,063 tons; manufactured iron increased from 828,519 tons to 829,851 tons. The rush of wheat to France also increased the Suez Canal dues in February. The bonds of the great French railroads are now selling on a lower interest basis than governments. Berlin, now that the commercial treaty with Russia has obtained the approval of the Reichstag, is inclined to take a more favorable view of things all round and is assisting to put up the prices of securities issued at home and abroad. The report of the Deutsche Bank, recently issued, expresses the conviction that business in Germany is improving. Progress is being made with the project to found a German Bank in Italy. Reports from the sugar, iron and steel and other trades in Germany are good. Russia and Austria are now discussing a commercial treaty. The negotiations having got as far as the making of reprisive rates against one another it is not unreasonable to suppose that these two countries will soon effect an agreement. The work of putting out the new Austro-Hungarian currency and calling in the old is proceeding satisfactorily. The proposals of the Italian Minister of Finance to meet the difficulties of the Treasury by the imposition of new taxes will be fiercely fought in the Chamber of Deputies, but as it is difficult to see how the rejection of the governmental propositions could do anything but make matters worse than they now are, conservative people hope that the opposition will be futile. The efforts of Argentina, small as they are, to meet their obligations are having a good effect, even though it is very doubtful whether the country can again within reasonable time handle its enormous debt to the satisfaction of its creditors. Greece is fencing with its creditors to obtain the best basis it can for a settlement. The fact that negotiations for settlements are going on in all the bankrupt countries in Europe is one of the best signs of the worst having passed away and of a new era of rebuilding having been begun.

THE desultory criticism which has arisen lately in one quarter and another against the Chamber of Commerce Rapid Transit Bill is neither wise nor serviceable to the best interests of the city. Indeed, it would be difficult to conceive of any policy more unfortunate at the present juncture than a critical policy that minces the details of that bill and creates useless division upon non-essential matters. Action of this sort must weaken the effective force of the main proposition which the Chamber of Commerce have succeeded in enunciating formally and committing to legislative action, viz.: that the Municipality must give its assistance to the work of furnishing the metropolis with the rapid transit facilities it requires. To raise arguments now as to whether Jones, who happens not to be named in the bill at Albany, would not be a slightly more efficient commissioner than Brown, who does happen to be named in the bill, and as to whether the rate of interest to be paid the city by the proposed construction company should not be $4\frac{3}{4}$ instead of $4\frac{3}{8}$ per cent, and similar trivialities is to begin to fight about shadows before the substance has been secured. Let us be content with the fact that the chief object which the bill is intended to procure for the city is desirable beyond all question. Moreover, it is one as to the desirableness of which the long disunited citizens of the metropolis are beginning to be strongly united. After years of useless discussion here we have at last actually a definite, intelligible, practicable proposition, with some more tangible support behind it than that vague fluctuating "public opinion," without head or tail, which hitherto has been striving in an inarticulate way for rapid transit in company with a gaseous commission which has dealt with the problem as though it were a question in metaphysics, to be endlessly talked about but impossible of positive solution. There is no readier way to reconvert the entire question of rapid transit into air again and kill the present bill than to begin to critically analyze its smaller details. In this way the chief demand will be covered up by a multitude of petty suggestions. The main question will be lost amid trivial controversy. The enemy will capture the position we desire to gain under cover of the dust we raise ourselves. The Chamber of Commerce plan is a good working measure. Were it carried out it would bring the city so close to rapid transit that it would be a mighty easy matter to secure the full measure of it. Of course, it is not by any means a perfect scheme; but it is as good as we can get, better far than anything we have yet had, and if New York has decided to wait for a perfect plan before accepting any proposition, it will wait until it is a decidedly ancient city. The Archangel Michael himself could not formulate a bill that would please everybody. The people of this city have got to use a little common sense in this matter. There must be a putting aside of differences of opinion. What is needed at the outset is as much united action as can possibly be obtained, and silence, for the time being, on small points of controversy. To use the anarchists' phrase, what we need is not talk but "the propaganda of the deed." We may be sure of the fact that if the Chamber of Commerce bill fails because of disunion here in New York, New York will hereafter be given over to any flimsy rapid transit scheme that commends itself to politicians. Already there is strong opposition in Albany against the Chamber of Commerce bill prompted by interested parties. If this bill is to be passed New York must stand as a unit in favor of the measure. It may be that despite this support the bill will be killed, but defeat of this kind will add strength to the movement. On the other hand, if New York remains indifferent to the success of the scheme and nothing is heard about it but petty criticisms as to details, politicians and others will conclude that the bill is not really supported by our citizens and will point to their dissensions as justification for throwing the bill into the street. Once defeated, the Chamber of Commerce will not be likely to act again in the matter. That body will conclude that the public are indifferent and will thereafter let matters drift as the devil happens to take them. And what other public body is likely to take the problem up or push it with success, when perhaps the most powerful institution in the city has failed. Certain it is that if the public do not take a livelier interest in this Chamber of Commerce bill than they have so far, there is no possibility that it will become a law. We stand now at the parting of the ways. The choice is between real rapid transit or patchwork extensions to the present elevated railroad system. It is the duty of every citizen to make himself heard in support of the Chamber of Commerce measure. The Real Estate Exchange should call a meeting at once and give their support to the bill. No body of men has such enormous interests at stake in this matter as that which centres in the Real Estate Exchange.

Private Property.—II.*

ILLUSTRATIONS SHOWING THE IMPORTANCE OF PRIVATE PROPERTY IN WEALTH DISTRIBUTION.

By Richard T. Ely, University of Wisconsin.

WHEN we reflect upon the question of the distribution of wealth, in its broadest aspects, we soon see that it is wholly a question of private property. We could abolish private property and still have production carried on as a public function. It would then remain with the public authorities to distribute the products upon some other basis than private property. A little imagination is sufficient to make this clear.

It is better, however, to consider specific kinds of private property, in order to bring before us adequately the full import of the institution and to show us how truly each change in it modifies the distribution of income. There can be no better illustration than that afforded by the railways, because we find railways public property in some countries and private property in others, and because, furthermore, they include such a large proportion of the wealth of the modern world. Had the railways of the United States been public property from the beginning, the large fortunes to which they have given rise could not have come into existence. What a difference in this one particular instance would the substitution of public for private property have made in wealth distribution in the United States! The largest fortunes in this country can quite generally be traced to private property in railways in one or another of its various manifestations. These fortunes comprise a considerable fractional part of all the wealth of this country. It may be or it may not be that private ownership of railways is desirable; but look at it as one will, it is plainly impossible that the mammoth fortunes growing up out of private property in railways could have existed had the railways been public property. This is axiomatic. Remove the cause and you remove the effect. What would have taken the place of our railway magnates with their colossal fortunes under public ownership with public operation is another question. But that does not concern us at present. We may, however, examine conditions in a country in which railways have always been public property operated by public agents, and we shall find that they do not produce those inequalities which have grown out of private ownership of railways in this country. It is interesting to contrast the American railway magnate who derived a fortune of one hundred millions, largely out of the gains resulting from railway consolidation, with the man who superintended the construction of the railway system of Wurtemberg, establishing a unified system of railways from the beginning. This German leader in railway management received from the State which employed him something like an annual income of $3,000 for his services. Here we have a contrast—$100,000,000 against an income of $3,000, scarcely equal to a capital of $50,000. The relation of the two is as 2,000 to 1 in distribution; and this is traceable simply to private property in the instruments of production of a single sort.

The telegraph also enables us to institute contrasts between this country in which private ownership has given rise to vast fortunes, and other countries in which, existing as part of the post-office from the start, whatever pecuniary benefits it has afforded have been diffused among the people at large. Private ownership of forests has also been influential in the formation of large fortunes in this country and in the consequent concentration of wealth which we have witnessed. The forests of the country might have been retained as public property. As a matter of fact, the tendency all over the world is now to substitute public for private ownership of forests, a beginning having been made, even in the United States. Street car lines in cities serve as another illustration. Private property in these has resulted in the formation of many large fortunes which could not otherwise have existed. The same is true with respect to gas works, electric lights and the like.

One may take up two lists of rich men, the one a list of the rich men of New York, published in 1855, by the New York Sun, and the other the well-known Tribune list of millionaires, published in 1892. The New York Sun includes among the rich men of New York all those whose fortunes are reputed to equal $100,000, and the millionaires in the list are few and far between. The year 1892, however, witnessed such a growth of private fortunes that no one is entitled to be placed among the rich men who has not at least a million. If one studies these two lists one can trace this fortune, that fortune and the other to private property of a certain kind and indulge in much interesting speculation as to the results of possible changes in the institution, bearing in mind, however, that we are for the present not concerned with the desirability or undesirability of such changes, but are simply endeavoring to observe the operation of economic forces.

It is not a question, however, merely of private property, but of the conditions under which private property exists, for as every change in private property results in changes in wealth distribution, so does every alteration of the conditions under which private property exists produce its corresponding modification in the income enjoyed by the various social units. The difference between limited and unlimited franchises for street railways might seem to be a small matter; yet the result, as seen in the distribution of income, is most marked. New York and Berlin afford useful contrasts. The street-car lines in both cities are owned and operated by private corporations. But in New York the franchises are, for the most part, perpetual, and in Berlin they expire early in the coming century, all the property then falling into the city without payment of any sort. While the street railways of Berlin, even under such conditions, have afforded handsome profits and assisted numerous persons to acquire a competence, they have not been productive of the great fortunes which can be traced to private ownership in street railways in New York City.

The railways of France, like those of the United States, are private property; but the railways of France are private property under conditions which will make them public property before the middle of the coming century, and that without any indemnity to present owners. What is true with respect to the street railways of Berlin and New York holds true likewise with respect to the steam railways of France and the United States. Modifications of private property, which can be expressed in a few words, have produced marvelous changes in the division of the national dividend.

There is one class of laws which do not aim to regulate private property, but rather the modes of its acquisition, and under the influence of which nearly all property comes at frequent intervals. These are the laws of inheritance in the broadest sense, including of course bequest. Every modification of the laws of inheritance produces corresponding changes in the ownership of wealth, and consequently in the income which wealth yields. England and France serve as an excellent illustration. The laws of inheritance in England have aimed to favor the oldest son and thus to pile up property in a comparatively few hands. This has especially been the case with respect to landed property. The laws of England have accomplished that at which they aimed, and we witness a corresponding concentration of property in general and of landed property in particular. Since the great French revolution the laws of France, however, have been framed by those who desired to bring about a wide diffusion of property. The owner of property having children has no voice in the disposal of the greater proportion of it after his death. He may provide for the disposition of one-fourth of it by last will and testament; but the remainder must be equally divided among his children. These French laws have accomplished in the main the purposes of those who framed them, and they to-day meet with the approval of most of the French people on that account. The laws of England may be wise or unwise; the laws of France with respect to inheritance may be commendable or not; it is here simply designed to show the influence of the laws concerning one mode of the acquisition of property upon the enjoyment of income by the various social units. There is scarcely any limit to what may be accomplished by changes in the laws of inheritance, because as already stated nearly all property comes under their influence frequently—in fact once in a generation. It has often been proposed to introduce the most important changes in the social order through the abolition or restriction of the right to dispose of property by last will and testament. And this may be regarded as, comparatively speaking, a conservative method of obtaining radical ends.

Legislation at Albany.

ALBANY, March 22.—All the politicians in the Legislature thought they would witness the passage to-day of the bill introduced by Senator Lexow, of Nyack, Rockland county, abolishing the present Board of Police of New York City and substituting in its place a Board of Police of two Democrats and two Republicans, but one of the Republican Senators depended upon to give his vote for the measure was taken ill with a sore throat and had to remain at home, so that it was deemed prudent by the managers of the enterprise to defer action on the measure until next week.

It begins to look now as if this bill would be passed by the Legislature and by Republican votes. Two Republican Senators, Mullin and Dowd, who last week were opposed to the bill, are now said to be for it, and only Buffalo Republicans, Laney and Persons, held out against it. Without them the bill now has, with Donaldson present just seventeen votes, or sufficient to pass it. In the Assembly, also, there seems to be a less fervent and strong opposition to it.

Will Governor Flower sign it? There are indications that he will, judging from the talk of Tammany Hall Senators and Assemblymen. They say that Richard Croker is desirous that the Republicans should assume half the responsibility for the management of the Police Department of New York—that no one political party can live under the storm of criticism which that management constantly must endure from men like the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst. As for the Republicans, they say they are willing to accept the responsibility if they can secure equal power in the Board of Police of New York with the Democratic Party, and thus deprive that party of its present control of the police on Election Day. The rapid approach of another election for Governor naturally disposes all politicians to look about for political batteries and shot and shell, and in the eye of the Republican State Committee the Police Department of New York as at present constituted is a Democratic battery filled with 13-inch cannon. It is this view of the matter which has induced certain Republican Senators to decide to vote for the bill who have been heretofore opposed to it—fearing that it was a measure of Republican factional politics. These gentlemen have been won over to a support of the measure by a statement that no Republican faction would be favored at the expense of another.

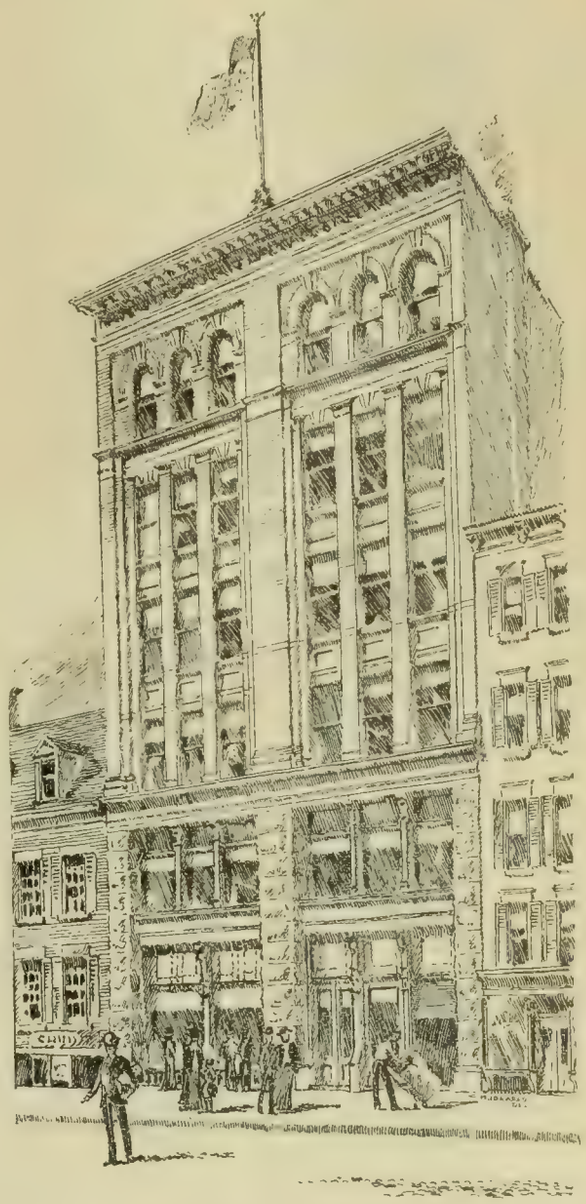
Why is not the Rapid Transit Act, sent here by the Chamber of Commerce of New York, pressed with more spirit by that body and by the owners of real estate? Their act seems to be an admirable one in the opinion of the people and most of the newspapers of New York. With such a backing it ought to be most favorably received here. There is need for haste in pushing the bill because the agents of the Manhattan Elevated Railway Company here are already suggesting that the Legislature had better adjourn. For several years past the Legislature has adjourned about April 20th. There is, therefore, only a little over four weeks left of the session. But that is not too short a time for the Chamber of Commerce to pass its measure.

The Assembly this present week has ordered to a third reading the bill of Assemblyman Butts submitting to a vote of the people at the November election the question of whether or not the city shall build an underground road. But this bill appears to have been drawn apparently in the interest of the elevated railroads, since it permits them to add a third track to their present tracks on 2d, 3d, 6th and 9th avenues.

The Senate has passed Senator Guy's bill exempting West End avenue, north of 71st street, Morningside Park and all adjacent streets or avenues, except 110th street, 10th avenue and Manhattan avenue, from invasion by railways. The Senate Committee on Cities heard argument from William Mitchell this week in support of the bill which excludes elevated railways from 14th street, from 4th avenue to 7th avenue, and reported the bill favorably.

The Senate has also passed Senator Ahearn's bill, providing for the pensioning of women school teachers in New York.

The Senate Committee on Cities, on Wednesday, reported favorably Assemblyman Sheffield's bill, providing for a new site and buildings for the College of the City of New York; Senator Ahearn's bill, allowing New York City to expend $50,000 annually for four years for additional fire hydrants and mains; Senator Guy's, for repaving Avenue A, from 59th street to 86th street; and Senator Cantor's bill, for ascertaining and paying the damages caused by the depression of railroad tracks in the Annexed District.



Senator Ahearn has introduced a bill authorizing New York City to expend $200,000 for property for the new park at Corlears Hook; Senator Wolff a bill exempting the Boulevard from invasion by elevated railways; Assemblyman Lawson a bill restoring to the Board of Health of New York powers of which it was deprived in 1892 and which powers were transferred to the Department of Buildings; Assemblyman Marrin a bill appropriating $25,000 for the construction of a bridge in New York City over the Mott Haven Canal at 138th street; Mr. Davidson a bill relative to the construction of foundation walls to houses, and a bill requiring the construction of garbage and ash receivers in all new houses.

The Assembly has passed Mr. Robertson's bill providing for the erection by New York of a monument in Battery Park to commemorate the evacuation of the city by the British.

Senator Robertson and Assemblyman Sheffield have introduced a bill putting the Sheriff of New York upon a salary of $15,000 yearly and cutting off all his fees.

An Up-to-Date Business Building.

The demands of the jobbing and manufacturing interests for suitable premises west of Broadway and north of Bleecker street are causing the erection of an excellent class of buildings in that locality—substantial, light and attractive, which very promptly go into the hands of tenants or investors as soon as completed. The region mentioned being the only one offering space for the inevitable growth of the many branches of the dry-goods trade and kindred industries, it is natural that the property there should be in demand for renting, and as a consequence, of its success in securing tenants for investment also. One of the latest buildings in this market is that of S. B. Steinmann, Nos. 208 and 210 Wooster street, a handsome structure of six stories, having a frontage of 43 feet. The building is constructed in a first-class manner in every respect, and, besides the conveniences usual to such buildings, contains some novel features. The facade is of Indiana buff limestone, light brick and iron, distributed with the view of obtaining the greatest possible amount of light on each and every floor. The whole building is constructed on "the Slow Combustion" plan, which is approved by the Board of Fire Underwriters and commands a discount from all fire insurance companies. The lofts and floors are arranged with special reference to the requirements of business in that neighborhood, and the different floors are finished in the same manner; the floors and trim throughout the building are hardwood. A combination freight and passenger elevator runs from the basement to the top floor, a sixty horse-power engine in the basement will supply power to the tenants; steam heating is provided for and each floor has its own sanitary plumbing fixtures. Ample fire-escapes are placed in the rear of the building. The location of this building leaves nothing to be desired. It is only 175 feet north of the main artery of prosperous Bleecker street and within 200 feet of the 6th and 9th avenues elevated railroad stations; the Bleecker street horse cars, connecting with every surface road going north and south, run within a few doors. It will be seen then that this building is not only in itself especially adapted for any of the businesses that affect its vicinity, but has advantages for rapid communication and transportation to other parts of the city not often equalled. The owner, Mr. S. B. Steinmann, is now ready to negotiate for renting or selling the premises, and may be found either at No. 853 Broadway or No. 145 West 88th street.—[Communicated.]

A Piece of Clever Architectural Work.

It would be a remarkable piece of engineering skill and mechanical ingenuity to rebuild and alter piece by piece a gentleman's home without even entering the premises or giving the inmates any discomfort or annoyance, but such a feat was partially performed on the residence of Mr. David L. Einstein, 39 West 57th street, New York City, where the whole front of the building was successfully replaced with a new one entirely from the outside in the space of two months —a piece of constructive audacity never before attempted. The power of money to overcome extraordinary obstacles was exemplified in this case where time was the only factor and a reformation in appearance as successfully carried out as the unfortunate conditions of the old front, which was to form part of the new one, would permit. The skilled efforts of picked artisans intelligently systematized reduced the expenditure to a minimum consistent with safe construction. The architect selected for this work was Mr. Manly N. Cutter, 203 Broadway. The master builder and general supervisor in charge of workmen and materials was Mr. Geo. W. Prodgers.

No. 39 West Fifty-Seventh Street. The New Front.

Mr. Cutter, in describing the work to a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, said: "The essential requirements of a work that had never been done before were so extraordinary, reference data entirely wanting, that the problem was involved in a network of complications. The requirements of the Building Department were wholly problematical; even an approximate idea of the amount of overtime was but guesswork at the best, and the time allowed so very limited that detailed estimates or specifications were manifestly out of the question and the usual mode of procedure, with even ordinary delays, was precluded. Various unknown conditions made the cost a matter impossible to determine, except that the work would necessarily be difficult and costly. The work was to be carried on with the utmost speed possible, with all due regard for the safety of the building and the workmen employed. This was a very important factor, as an accident to any one of the numerous sustaining parts of the work would have caused great damage to the building itself, to adjoining property, and as there were sometimes as many as 125 men on the scaffold life would have been imperilled. The expensive nature of the interior finish, decoration and furnishings of the house, precluded the possibility of shoring from the inside, as the cost to repair the damage done by such shoring would have rendered the carrying out of the contemplated work impracticable; so the two problems to be dealt with were the possibility of completing the undertaking in two months, and the practicability of carrying it on in a manner favorable to its success without entering the house. The first illustration shows the old front as it was on July 1, 1893. The second illustration shows the new front as it was on Sept. 1, 1893.

"Briefly stated, the work to be done was the removal of all such parts of the old front as were not to form a part of the new one; the recutting of the basement stone work, the area steps and walls; modifying the stoop foundations; constructing an entirely new stoop portico, new entrance steps and railings; recutting and recarving the entrance door; new iron roof, new windows in fourth story, and ceiling and walls made straight; new cornice and balustrade for bay window, and taking down, rebuilding and repairing chimneys, skylights, parapet walls and tin roofs; the building of the new front with St. Louis yellow brick 1½x12 inches and Connecticut brownstone; rebuilding the face of the side walls above the roof as far back as the rear line of front chimneys; repainting the sashes, window frames, cornice and roofs, and erecting scaffolds and protecting all exposed portions of old building and adjoining properties.

"The work was commenced July 1 by covering the entire area, basement and front stoop with 2-inch plank, taking down the front portico and shoring up the front to the third floor; then an unusually strong scaffold was erected across the entire front, from the basement to about 10 feet above the roof, the top protecting the workmen from sun and rain. This scaffold was securely tied and braced and all made of large joists and heavy plank, bolted and screwed together, made so as to be easily taken apart. This was necessary, as the scaffold was constantly being changed to meet the requirements of the work. The next step taken was to remove all the top weight possible, shoring up from the scaffold all such parts as required it. While this preliminary work was being done the brownstone and brick work of first story was removed and replaced with new stone and brick, which had been made ready during the preliminary work, the drawings having been sufficiently advanced to permit this. The second story was done in the same way. The third and fourth stories were started at the same time and when the fourth story was finished the third story was complete. During this period the carving was progressing and the basement was recut, the new entrance steps and rails were put in place, the new iron roof and the upper side walls were built. Then the top balustrade and cornice were put up, the chimneys rebuilt, and all repairing about roof done. During this time the new portico was put up, the painting done, the front cleaned, the scaffold removed, and the new front was complete on the 1st day of September, forty-six days from the day the first brick was laid, without entering the house except in a part of the fourth story, and without accident to the workmen. The men worked rain or shine and overtime, but no night work. During this time there were three tornados, but by care taken with the shoring and scaffold no accidents occurred. The entire cost, including extensive repairs and alterations, was $12,930.98, done under ordinary conditions the front could probably be erected for $28,000. Considering the lavish expenditure on the rest of the house and the large size of the front—being about 80 feet high and 33 feet wide, with bay window, the minimum cost was obtained, and the new front makes the entire building conform and brings each of its parts in unison with the whole."

Model Homes on the West Side.

SEVEN FOUR-STORY HOUSES, NOS. 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22 AND 24 WEST 90TH STREET (ONLY 200 FEET WEST OF CENTRAL PARK), FOR SALE.

A quiet, aristocratic neighborhood; a street restricted to private residences, and to be immediately made a park entrance; only three blocks to the Madison avenue cross park line of cars; only three blocks to the "L" station at 93d street; street cars on 8th avenue, and the Broadway cable cars to be immediately run up Columbus (9th) avenue.

Houses built and finished "on honor;" under the owners' personal supervision. Not by a speculative builder, but by the heaviest manufacturers of fine cabinet work in this country, the Robt. Mitchell Furniture Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio; office, No. 160 5th avenue, New York.

These houses offer an almost unparalleled opportunity for safe and lucrative investment.

West 90th street is the most desirable portion of the West Side, being on the summit of high ground which descends sharply to the north, and to the "blue waters of the Hudson," and the beautiful Riverside Drive, only four blocks to the west.

Very few opportunities remain in this favored location to secure a home—or for investment—the certain future of which led the Trinity Corporation to select it for the site of their most prominent up-town investment—the magnificent "Church of St. Agnes," which, with its melodious chimes, is the pride of the whole section.

FRONT ELEVATION OF HOUSES, NOS. 24 AND 26 WEST 90TH STREET.

More money than many houses cost was spent upon the foundations of these houses, which were carried down to original "hard pan," and now, after more than two years, show in no place the slightest settlement.

Twelve-inch steel beams were laid upon these walls under the main partitions, leaving cellars without posts, 7 feet high, and insuring immunity from sagging floors and cracked ceilings.

The fronts—from pavement to cornice—alternate in brownstone and Longmeadow stone, beautifully carved and with high stoops, balconies, bays, balustrades, area steps, and area walls in the same enduring material.

The rear and extension walls are faced with Philadelphia pressed brick, a most unusual and important feature.

After plastering, the houses were allowed to stand unfinished through the winter; therefore, after finishing there will be no settling and cracking, and they may be immediately papered and decorated.

Five houses, numbered 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20, are on lots 21 feet by 100 feet 8 inches.

Three houses, numbered 22, 24 and 26, are on lots 20 feet by 100 feet 8 inches. All houses are 52 feet in depth, and have two-story and basement extensions 9 feet by 13 feet.

The sidewalks, areas, cellar bottoms, back-yard walks, and "platforms," and the servants' water-closets are paved in the most substantial manner with granolithic. Iron coal-chute covers are in the front areas; iron vault-light covers, with hammered glass, open to the cellars, and richly ornamented swell iron window guards are at all basement and cellar windows. Handsome grilles and gates with locks guard the basement entrances. High board fences inclose the separate back yards, which have large grass plats and paved walks.

The roofs are of heavy roofing-tin. The cornices, leaders and conductors are of heavy galvanized iron, painted and sanded to match the stone work. The glass in front windows is ¼-inch polished plate and in the rear windows best "double strength." All front windows have paneled inside shutters folding back into pockets. All rear windows have best quality, rolling slat, outside blinds. The front doors, vestibule doors and storm doors (alternately of quartered oak and mahogany) are of handsome pattern, glazed with polished beveled plate-glass. The houses are thoroughly piped for gas and wired for electric lighting in every room, hall and cellar. The plumbing is a special feature upon which no expense has been spared, and is undoubtedly as fine and thorough work as can be shown in any high-class residence. The woodwork throughout is of selected, kiln-dried stock, put together in the best manner, thoroughly filled, polished and rubbed. The hardware is of handsome pattern, solid bronze metal throughout.

The mantels, selected from the best patterns of the Robert Mitchell Furniture Co. (Cincinnati), are made with every care in the selection of wood, and have polished French beveled-plate mirrors.

The furnaces are of size commensurate with the house they have to heat, and are Richardson & Boynton's latest pattern, with all improvements. They are set in brick upon foundations put in before the floors were paved. The heat flues are of ample size and all provided with dampers. The registers are gold bronzed and white enameled in the different rooms and halls. The cellars are large, high, light, dry and airy, extending under the entire house and extension, and even under the front stoops. The walls are whitened and the ceilings plastered. The basement is floored with narrow, matched, Georgia pine, filled and polished. The breakfast-room is in oak, with handsome mantel, tiled fire-place, chair rail and large closet with ample shelves.

The kitchens are large and light, wainscoted—except on chimney breasts and behind sinks, where the wall is finished from floor to ceiling in Keene cement. The hearths are North River bluestone. The ranges, extra size, double oven, with independent broiler, water-back, and with hood and ventilator are Richardson & Boynton's latest improved "Perfect." Each kitchen has a handsome glass-front dresser with drawers beneath; extra heavy, 60-gallon copper boiler, large open tile sink with marble back, and pipes and cocks that control water system of house. Opening from the kitchen is a storeroom—leading also to the breakfast room—and an ample closet or pantry. Speaking tubes, bells, and annunciators connect the kitchen with the outside doors, and every room or floor in the house.

The laundry, opening from the kitchen, is walled from floor to ceiling in Keene cement, and provided with triple-enameled wash trays. A glass door, protected by an iron storm door, opens into the large yard that is provided with clothes-bars and hooks.

The largest-sized Larsen patent counter-balanced oak dumb-waiter, with hinged shelf and wainscoted shaft, runs from the laundry to the third floor. A wainscoted servants' staircase leads from the laundry to the butler's pantry above, and beneath this stair—opening from the yard—is the servants' water closet.

The butler's pantry (opening from the dining-room) is fitted with every requisite for convenience, including planished copper butler's bowl with high nickel-plated compression pantry cocks and glass-front dresser. The dining-rooms (of full width of house) are in quartered oak; the walls panelled to the height of 5 feet. On the parlor floor, the entrance vestibules have marble mosaic floors in varied patterns, and are paneled on sides and ceiling in quartered oak or mahogany.

The halls have paneled wainscot, which extends up the stairs; handsome hall seats with beveled plate mirrors reaching nearly to the ceiling; and the foyer halls have beveled mirror door to basement staircase and handsome mantels, exquisitely carved.

The parlors, finished alternately in cherry and white mahogany, have paneled base 2 feet high, and sliding doors to hall and dining-room. The entire first story flooring is the very best quality-selected quartered oak ⅞-inch parquet, in different patterns, laid over heavy sheathing felt, with all joints glued, and is highly polished. The stairs are easy and wide, built of mahogany or quartered oak, with elegantly carved newels, twisted and carved balusters, and paneled spandrels. The second floors are divided into two large handsome chambers—each with saloon dressing-room, divided by doors sliding into the walls, so that the entire floor may be thrown into one suite. These stories are finished alternately in quartered sycamore and quartered oak. The saloons are lined with beveled plate mirrors, fitted with drawers, wardrobes and large oval bowls with Italian marble tops and back slabs. Note that under every bowl in the house is a lead pan or safe (the entire size of the closets) with outlet properly trapped.

The bath-rooms (accessible from either chamber) are tiled on all walls to the height of six feet, in beautiful patterns of fleur-de-lis, in white and gold, and other designs and colors, giving the purchaser quite a choice. The floors are alternately in glazed and in vitrified white tiles with border. The tiling and mosaic work was done by the Menlo Park Ceramic Co. and has no superior in this city.

The tubs are enameled, of "Standard" make and largest size, on claw feet, standing on a marble platform running the entire length of the room. The open bowl and seat are of the latest sanitary design. All marble work is best white Italian; and over each bowl is a large, beveled French plate mirror, set in the tiling. The third floors are in arrangement exact counterparts of the second floors, finished in oak throughout, with plumbing exactly the same, except the bowl is omitted in the bath rooms and there are fewer mirrors in the saloons. The plumbing fixtures of both floors have "unique" or combination supply and waste of latest and most expensive patterns. The hall ceiling has a hammered-glass dome-light in white and gold lighting up the stairway down through the house.

With the park entrance opened (at 90th street) and the street repaved, the tide of fashion will roll through 90th street, between the park and the Riverside Drive, and seal its claim as the fashionable street of the great West Side. The value of these exceptionally fine houses will be correspondingly enhanced.

They can be seen at any time by application to the watchman in charge, and we shall be pleased to meet any one who contemplates purchasing. Very respectfully,

THE ROBERT MITCHELL FURNITURE CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Real Estate Market.

Yesterday being a day of more or less religious observance, the real estate week has been a short one. Notwithstanding that fact, a fair amount of business has been consummated. Only people who look for the impossible have been greatly disappointed. It is hardly reasonable to expect real estate to be a solitary exception among the commodities of trade, and present a normal and active market when everything else is languishing. Until the tariff and financial policies of the country are determined, or are so clearly indicated by action of the administration party that they can be safely discounted, it will be useless to expect a very active market of any kind. But it will not be inopportune to remark that reporting sales at fictitious prices is not a good way to promote real estate trading. Every experienced broker knows that in the large majority of the sales reported during the last year the reported prices, and the considerations named in the conveyances have been exaggerated. Ten per cent would be a moderate estimate of the average excess of falsity over fact in the reports. The direct effect of this is to give neighboring owners inflated ideas of the value of their property, and to cause them to hesitate or refuse to sell when really reasonable offers are made to them. Buyers are rarely deluded about the prices at which property is being sold. Those who are wise enough to rely upon the advice of a reputable broker never pay more for property than it can be bought for. When they see property reported sold for a specified sum which has been urged upon them at 20 per cent less they infer, and rightfully too, that the report is false—and, "false in one, false in all."

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding weeks of 1893 and 1894.

MUST PAY FOR THE LAND.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 21.—In the matter of the Southern Boulevard Railroad Company to acquire the right to construct and operate its road upon that part of the Southern Boulevard in the City of New York which formerly belonged to Paul Spofford, deceased, the Court of Appeals has dismissed the appeal with costs. The appeal was by the Southern Boulevard Railroad Company from an order of the General Term affirming an order directing payment to the respondents of $5,999.94, the difference between the first award of six cents and the second of $6,000. The proceeding was commenced on January 9, 1890. The object of the application was to condemn the interest of certain property-owners in a strip of land 300 feet long on the Southern Boulevard, to use it for the construction of the railroad.—Law Journal.

THE COLUMBUS AND LEXINGTON AVENUE CABLE RAILROADS.

The work on the Columbus Avenue Cable Road is being rushed in good style during the spell of fine weather. The rails are set and the paving relaid as far as 74th street, while the opening extends now as far up as 104th street. It need not be said that the prospect of seeing this work done with all possible rapidity is viewed with immense satisfaction by the people living along and adjacent to Columbus avenue.

The road will turn off at 106th street to Manhattan avenue, and from thence run to 116th street, to Lenox avenue, to the Harlem River. The southern extension will be to 53d street and through 53d street to 6th and 7th avenues, and thence down town.

The work of construction in Lenox avenue is being delayed by the dilatoriness of Corporation Counsel Clark. The application for a permit to open the street for the purpose of continuing the 6th avenue line has been pending before him on a question as to the right of that company to extend its line north of the park, but it is complained that he refuses to come to any decision upon it. The company has secured the consents of the owners of over $3,000,900 worth of property on Lenox avenue—more than the required amount, to the use of the cable. The Lexington avenue line also goes on apace. Work began at 96th street and is pushing south. When both the latter and the Columbus avenue lines are completed, passengers from Harlem will have their choice of going down town via the East or West Side lines. They may go down Lexington to 116th street and transfer to a Columbus avenue car, or continue down by the Lexington avenue line, and they may go down Lenox avenue to 116th street and transfer to a Lexington avenue car, or continue on down in the Columbus avenue car. Owners all along the lines are urging the company to proceed with the work with all possible dispatch.

PREFERS A TUNNEL TO A BRIDGE.

It has been reported and denied that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is backing a bridge enterprise, by which it is proposed to span the Hudson at Washington Heights. In the Philadelphia dispatch, which contains the company's denial, it is said that the company proposes to secure a terminal in this city, but that when it does it will not be by a bridge, but by a tunnel on the Austin Corbin plan, near the lower end of the island.

UNDERGROUND TROLLEY FOR THE BELT LINE.

The Metropolitan Traction Company, among its various street car lines, owns the Belt lines, running from South Ferry to Central Park on the East and West Side routes. It is said to have under favorable consideration a proposition from the Siemens & Holske Underground Trolley Traction Company to equip that line with its traction system.

NEW INSURANCE RATES FOR APARTMENT HOUSES.

A new schedule of rates affecting all the apartment houses in the city will probably be adopted by the Tariff Association early next month. Underwriters have long been dissatisfied with the rates now charged for such risks, and at their request the rate committee of the association has been considering the advisability of adopting a new schedule. This schedule when published, insurance men admitted yesterday, will reveal some considerable increase in rates.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer for sale at auction during the coming week quite a number of attractive parcels of investment property. On Tuesday the Howard and Crosby street property mentioned last week will be offered at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway. Harnett & Co. will sell at 59 Liberty street, several parcels under direction of the assignee of Dore Lyon, also fully described in our last issue; at the same place and on the same day, a very valuable piece, the southwest corner of Franklin and Elm streets, known as 41 and 43 Franklin street, two two-story and basement brick buildings, plot 39.7x75.3½x38.3x75.4½, buildings about 40 feet deep; 85 per cent may remain on bond and mortgage at 5 per cent interest; also at peremptory sale, No. 49 West 94th street, a high stoop, three-story and basement brick dwelling with one-story extension, lot 18.6x about 55x extension x100.8½.

Geo. R. Read has opened an up-town office in the new Metropolitan Building, No. 1 Madison avenue, which he has placed in charge of Mr. Wm. Macalister, a long-time and trusted member of his down-town staff.

Beverley Ward, who has been so well known among the real estate men of 125th street during the building up of that thoroughfare into the handsome business street it now is, has been induced by his previous success to open a branch office at No. 344 Columbus avenue, where he will undertake new business with the same care and courtesy that he has handled the old.

A sure sign of the improved condition of the mortgage market is the number of firms advertising money to loan at 4½ per cent. A reliable broker, with a large amount to put out at this rate on first-class New York City property, is Eugene L. Clarkson, of No. 60 Broadway.

Mr. John R. Davidson has succeeded to the brokerage and agency business of Walter Lawrence & Co., with offices at the northeast corner of Columbus avenue and 103d street. Mr. Davidson has been connected with the business a long time and therefore starts on his own account under auspicious circumstances. By both experience and temperament he is well equipped for the business.

Business men who are looking for offices should call on Frederick Southack, at his down-town office, Room 17, No. 111 Broadway, who has several desirable suites to rent in the Trinity Building, which overlook the church-yard and possess other attractions.

Out Among the Builders.

The plans submitted by Alfred Zucker for the new building to be erected on the east side of Washington square for the University of the City of New York have been accepted, and work will commence at once. The building is to occupy the entire space where now stands the old University building, fronting 180.2 feet on University place, 99 feet each on Washington place and Waverley place and the structure is to be of ten stories, basement and sub-cellar, the sub-cellar, basement and the first seven stories above ground, having been leased by the American Book Co., who will occupy them with their printing and binding departments and their offices. The University of the City of New York will occupy the eighth, ninth and tenth stories for offices, class rooms and law lecture rooms, and lecture rooms for such other departments as will not be moved to their new site at Fordham Heights. The materials are granite, marble, brick and terra cotta. The cost, we believe, is estimated at about $1,000,000. It is said that the accepted design shows a massive, severe treatment in the classic style.

They will be constructed of brick, limestone and terra cotta; the corner house will be 48x96 feet, and the two inside 27x90. They will contain all improvements and steam heat. The corner house will be finished in hardwood; cost, $85,000. R. S. Townsend is the architect.

The basements and first story front of these houses will be of brownstone and the upper floors of brick with stone trimmings. They will contain all improvements and be first-class throughout. The cost is estimated at $19,000.

The northeast corner of 3d avenue and 49th street, and the two houses next connecting on 49th street, which were burned down some time ago, are to be rebuilt this summer, under plans by G. F. Pelham, though the owners, Peter A. Cassidy and G. A. Haggerty, have not yet decided upon the character of the buildings they will put up.

We are glad to meet all friendly competition as it only helps to impress upon the trade the superiority of our blind over all others. We have furnished in and around New York City more of our Standard Albany Venetian Blinds than all other firms put together, and will still maintain our reputation. We can refer to an endless number of testimonials, but that would be tiresome. As we make a specialty of these blinds we can give you better work and better satisfaction and returns for your money. All inquiries and orders will receive immediate attention and all work will be fully guaranteed."

Again, the Popular Secretary.

A PLEASANT EVENT AT THE BUILDING TRADES' CLUB—PRESENTATION TO SECRETARY STEPHEN M. WRIGHT.

At a meeting of the Building Trades' Club, on the 19th inst., Mr. Stephen M. Wright was made the recipient of a magnificent bronze by Gaudez, of Paris, entitled "The Duo Difficile," in recognition of his assiduous services as the secretary and treasurer of the club.

The presentation address was made by the President, Mr. John J. Tucker, who expressed his appreciation of the valuable and indefatigable services of Mr. Wright, who, ever since the organization of the club, had been self-sacrificing in his efforts to advance its interest. No labor, he said, seems too arduous for him to undertake which would redound to the credit and advantage of the entire building trade.

The absence of Mr. Wright, while attending the Builders' Convention, at Boston, was availed of to arrange the matter of a testimonial. Without his having any intimation of the intention of his associates, the selection of the testimonial as well as the manner of presentation was intrusted to a committee, consisting of Messrs. Lovell H. Carr, Augustus Meyers and Charles A. Cowen, who carried out the matter admirably.

The intended surprise was successful, and for once in his life the universal secretary was visibly embarrassed. But he soon recovered his flow of language and responded substantially, as follows, to Mr. Tucker's remarks:

"Language is inadequate to express my pleasure in being made the possessor of this beautiful piece of art. From the depths of my heart I thank you, and assure you that it will be ever fondly treasured as a remembrance of the delightful association I have had with the members of the Building Trades' Club. When I became associated with you a few years ago I was grieved over the lack of cordiality and fraternal friendship so prevalent among those who should be intimately associated in the great building industry of this city, and I felt that if I could in any wise aid in breaking down the existing barriers to professional harmony and accord, no sacrifice of time would be too great. With this feeling I entered heartily into the work of the club, believing that, though it could best be brought about a condition of social intercourse among those of kindred interest, which would certainly be the best means of uniting the builders and bringing them into position where they could vigorously wield the power they themselves possess, as being a body employing more skilled labor and fairer in all their dealings than any other industrial body in this city.

Whatever I may have done for the club has been a labor of love, with the hope of being instrumental in my limited way in bettering the condition of my fellow men. I felt at the close of the year as though I would like to be relieved of the excessive strain as well as the sacrifice of my own personal comfort and time, and did say that I was tired and wanted to retire, but now, my dear friends, I think this pleasant demonstration of your friendship and endorsement of my work will take all the tired out of me, and will rather be an incentive to increase effort."

North Side Happenings.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.
